Senator Nye Shuts Lid on Spy Proof

REJECTS OFFER OF EVIDENCE BY MRS. M'CORMICK

Carlstrom Tells of Wire Tapping.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Investigation by the Nye senatorial committee into the Ilinois senate campaign expenditures developed yesterday into a battle of typewritten statements and affidavits, chiefly outside the record.

A new and lively chapter was written into the record, however, in the testimony of Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, former collector of internal revenue, who, harassed by the committee members over campaign checks which she thought she had explained thoroughly, turned on them with defiance and criticized them as unfair and unjust to Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican senate nominee, and to Illinois.

Carlstrom Accuses Senators.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, counselor for Mrs. McCormick, made the same charge when he was denied finally the opportunity which he sought to present witnesses to prove that the senatorial committee had engaged detectives who had tapped the wires of W. C. Dannenberg, Mrs. McCormick's investigator, and had sought to bribe a Dannenberg agent. Mr. Carlstrom inferred, without direct evidence, that the committee had been responsible for the tapping of Mrs. McCormick's wires and the rifling of her room and office.

Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, appeared ready to retire at the end of the day from his battle with Mrs. McCormick, so far as espionage was concerned.

Mrs. McCormick's Statement.

Mrs. McCormick, at the close of the hearing yesterday, said:

"Chairman Nye of the senate investigating committee on Monday declined to hear the sworn testimony of witnesses who were prepared to prove that the committee's agents have been guilty of the crime of wire tapping. Mr. Nye made a similar refusal today, although once more my proof was ready.

"I say to Chairman Nye that continued refusal to hear this evidence is a deliberate effort to suppress facts. I want the public to understand that the proof is available and has been twice offered and twice refused. He denies my charges. He again assails me, but does not explain to the public why, as chairman of the committee, he continues to bar evidence that his agents have tapped wires."

Announces End of Spy Quiz.

In the course of the hearing Mr. Nye said the spy phase of the investigation was over and that the committee would proceed to inquire into expenditures. Later on, he said, if the committee thought it worth while, they might go into the Carlstrom-Dannenberg charges. Two witnesses were ready to substantiate these charges, but were not permitted to take the stand.

Senator Nye, in a statement which opened the sessions yesterday, denied that the committee had been responsible for any espionage over Mrs. McCormick or her agents, and said that no doubt she would be required to report the money she had spent in shadowing the members of the committee as shown by the Dannenberg-Western Union files.

One Member Dissents.

Other members of the committee present were Senator Roscoe Patterson of Missouri, Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, and Senator Clarence C. Dill of Washington. Senator Patterson dissented from the statement of Chairman Nye and said he would reserve his judgment on this whole spy business until he had made a complete investigation of the record.

Senators Dill and Wagner injected into the debate with Mrs. Reinecke the threat that the senate would refuse to seat Mrs. McCormick even if Illinois did elect her. They referred to the Newberry and Smith cases, and the debate turned on the ethics of campaign expenditures. Frank L. Smith, who was denied a senate seat after being elected, was one of the spectators in the federal courtroom during the morning session. Mrs. McCormick was also there until she found that her witnesses would not be heard, when she left the room.

A crowded gallery listened to the testimony during the two open sessions yesterday.

Chairman Nye made his statement first and was about to shut off all further reference to the spy question

Tuttle Asks Repeal of Dry Law He Aids

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Paving the way for his nomination as the Republican candidate for governor of the state of New York, U. S. District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle sent his resignation tonight to President Hoover.

Coupled with it was a statement advocating the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the enforcement of which has been under his direction in the eastern district of New York. He proposes instead that control of the liquor traffic be left to the states, with a guarantee against the return of the saloon.

Mr. Tuttle's statement, being opposed to the past attitude of President Hoover, may bring a fight upon his gubernatorial nomination, particularly among up-state Republican drys.

Awaits Upstate Reaction.

Mr. Tuttle himself foresees such a conflict and says in his statement that he does not seek any nomination.

"National prohibition, as embodied in the eighteenth amendment," he says, "goes far beyond the outlawing of the saloon system, and even far beyond a grant to congress of power to give all possible coöperation and assistance to those states which desire within their own borders the prohibition system. It undertakes permanently to prevent any state from adopting any other system.

"Out of this latter undertaking the acknowledged evils of national prohibition have largely come. Real temperance and respect for law cannot be maintained by means of compulsion, unless the means are such as local sentiment approves.

"The evil in national prohibition lies largely in the compulsion sought to be placed upon states which do not desire the prohibition system.

Law Should Be Changed.

"This principle, I believe, should be eliminated from the constitution.

"The result would be to insure that the saloon or private traffic system shall continue to be outlawed and forbidden by the constitution everywhere in the United States; to place the relation between the national and state governments in the matter of liquor upon a coöperative basis; to rescue the national government from being regarded as an alien and oppressive power.

"To sum it up, I favor the repeal of the amendment, and replacing it with [1] a constitutional guarantee completely outlawing and forbidding everywhere in the United States the saloon system and its equivalent, the private traffic in intoxicating beverages for private profit; and [2] a constitutional guarantee vesting the national government with full power to coöperate with and assist states which have prohibition in whole or in part."

FAMILY FIGHTS; PHYSICIAN SHOT BY STRAY BULLET

Dr. Cleveland C. MacLane was shot and seriously wounded last night as he was entering his home at 8240 Dorchester avenue with his wife and 10 year old son. The bullet was fired across the street in a gun battle between James Thompson, 65 years old, a paper hanger, and his son, Roy, 39 years old, a painter, who reside at 8241 Dorchester avenue.

The Thompsons quarreled during a party which Roy was giving for some friends. The elder Thompson, intoxicated, witnesses said, ran to the attic and obtained a pistol. Returning, he met his son in front of the house and both opened fire. Roy Thompson missed with his first shot and a bullet from his father's gun grazed his temple. The elder Thompson fired four more times.

Three of the bullets missed, but the fourth crossed the street and struck Dr. MacLane in the abdomen as he was about to put his key in the lock. The Burnside police were summoned and Dr. MacLane was taken to the Post Graduate hospital.

Meanwhile at the Thompson home James' grandson, Lawrence, 16 years old, had raced upstairs and obtained a shotgun. He covered his grandfather with it until the police took the elder Thompson into custody.

Women Play Sleuths; Trap Thieves' Gang

Two young wives who became amateur detectives to help a friend recover $3,000 worth of stolen clothing last night had uncovered an alleged burglary ring which the Town Hall police believe has operated extensively on the north side. Three prisoners were taken by th police, two women and Harry [Lefty] Lewis, racketeer and labor union slugger, who was tried three years ago for the murder of Max Braverman, a junk peddler.

The women held are Lewis' wife and Miss Betty Esquirn of 528 Brompton place.

Girl's Clothing Stolen.

On Sept. 2 Miss Irene Welch, 418 Melrose street, saleswoman for Hogan & Farwell, Inc., real estate dealers at 664 North Michigan avenue, returned from Lake Geneva, dropped two suitcases, containing a $750 fur coat and other valuable clothing, in the hallway of her apartment and went out to tell friends about her vacation. When she returned an hour later the suitcases were gone.

At first Miss Welch suspected a joke by her brother, Philip B. Welch, a stock broker, who lives with her. But when Welch protested innocence and when the suitcases failed to reappear after several days Miss Welch narrated the circumstances to her friends, Mrs. Frank Collupy, 22 years old, 3642 Sheridan road, and Mrs. Collupy's sister, Mrs. John Roper, 26 years old, 3159 Hudson avenue.

Sleuthing Brings Reward.

Last Sunday while riding with her husband at Broadway and Brompton place Mrs. Collupy saw a girl wearing a coat which closely resembled the one stolen from Miss Welch. She told Mrs. Roper, and the two reasoned that the girl apparently lived in the neighborhood where Mrs. Collupy had seen her.

So last night the two women toured the streets near-by in Mrs. Collupy's car. Their search was rewarded. At Brompton place and Sheridan road they found the same girl wearing the coat, which Mrs. Roper also agreed was the one taken from Miss Welch. Mrs. Roper seized the young woman and held her while Mrs. Collupy called the police.

Reveals Loot's Cache.

"I'm Betty Esquirn and I live at the Palais-Brompton hotel, 528 Brompton place," the girl told the policemen who arrested her. "If you want any more you'd better go to 541 Addison street."

In Miss Esquirn's room the police found the two suitcases taken from Miss Welch's home. In a luxuriously furnished apartment at 541 Addison street they found Lewis and his wife. All were locked up at the Town Hall station. The police said they found several thousand dollars' worth of loot from recent burglaries in Lewis' apartment.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Philip F. La Follette, 33 year old son of the late Senator "Fighting Bob" La Follette and brother of Senator "Young Bob" La Follette, defeated Gov. Walter J. Kohler in today's primaries by an indicated plurality in excess of 100,000.

In 1,790 precints out of 2,824 in Wisconsin the figures on the Republican nomination for governor give Kohler 158,158, La Follette 244,233.

Carries Cities, Country.

La Follette won both in the rural regions and in the industrial. Incomplete figures show him carrying Milwaukee county, which was regarded as the key to the primaries. In Milwaukee county 191 precincts gave Kohler 18,656, La Follette 23,162.

The figures showed Phil La Follette leading the procession up one side of the state and down the other and up through the middle. He piled up great polls in old Progressive territory, and in some of the stalwart counties almost ran the governor ragged. Incomplete figures from the 71 counties showed Gov. Kohler leading in five; the rest were headed toward La Follette. In his home county, Sheboygan, Kohler was beating La Follette two to one; in his home county, Dane, La Follette was leading Kohler two to one.

At midnight the Kohler camp declined to make any estimates, and the La Follette leaders predicted the final majority for their candidate would roll up to the 75,000 mark.

Whole Ticket Winning.

Along with Phil swept the La Follette ticket for other state offices, according to the incomplete figures, although behind their leader.

The Republican nomination is regarded as equivalent to election, and, as the La Follette leaders point out, Philip at the age of 33 has lived up to the family motto—"A La Follette never has been beaten in Wisconsin." His father became governor at the age of 45.

Some of the counties furnished surprises. Walworth county, the old standpat stronghold and home of conservatism, went to Kohler, but by a comparatively slim margin, the vote standing: Kohler, 3,882; La Follette, 3,225.

Milwaukee for La Follette.

Milwaukee county, which was the scene of a tremendous drive by the rival camps to corral the labor vote, was in the La Follette column on the incomplete figures. In 190 precincts

Fight to Free Geisking, Held in Lingle Quiz

Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, directing the Lingle murder investigation, arrived in Louisville, Ky., at 11:45 o'clock last night [Chicago time] and immediately went into conference with Chief of Detectives Emery Yarberry to determine what information he had obtained regarding Ted Geisking, Indiana gangster, who is held there for questioning in the case.

Two Chicagoans, among the score of persons who saw Alfred Lingle shot to death in the Illinois Central pedestrian subway at Michigan avenue and Randolph street on the afternoon of June 9 were also expected to reach Louisville early this morning to view Geisking. The names of these witnesses were withheld.

Attorney Seeks Writ.

Hardly had Roche and Rathbun alighted from the automobile before Attorney H. A. I. Rosenberg of Louisville appeared before Circuit Judge A. T. Burgevin, who was presiding at a night session of a murder trial, to ask permission to file an application for a writ of habeas corpus for Geisking.

"I have information," the attorney said, "that Gov. Flem D. Sampson of Kentucky is prepared to sign extradition papers tonight or early tomorrow morning if the witnesses identify Geisking, so that he may be rushed back to Chicago. If necessary I shall go into the federal court and apply for a writ of injunction to prevent his removal from this state without a hearing."

Judge Demands $50,000 Bond.

Judge Burgevin, halting the trial to talk to Rosenberg, said:

"The newspapers say this man is a gangster. An attempt may be made to free him either while he is being brought to my courtroom or during the proceedings before me. Under the Kentucky statutes I am not allowed to refuse the filing of the writ, but the statutes require that a bond be posted. Therefore, if the defendant can execute a $50,000 bond I will grant him a hearing on his application."

The judge later amplified his statement by explaining that although the courtroom was connected by a tunnel with the jail where Geisking is confined, he considered Geisking so notorious and his associates so desperate that they would go to any lengths to free him. Judge Burgevin's action marked the first time in the history of the state that a bond was required in advance for the hearing on an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Battles for Geisking.

Apparently underworld interests have organized in Geisking's behalf and will spend any amount to keep him from coming back to Chicago. Attorney Rosenberg, asked after his session with Judge Burgevin if he could raise the $50,000, told THE TRIBUNE correspondent:

"Don't be surprised if I lay that much in United States government bonds on the table before morning."

"Who's behind the fight for Geisking?" he was asked.

"I'm not at liberty to answer that," he replied.

Another development was the arrival at Louisville late last night, after an all day motor ride, of Geisking's mother, Mrs. Jennie Geisking; his married sister, Mrs. May Cass, and his brother, Charles Geisking. They refused to explain their presence other than that Mrs. Geisking "just wanted to see her son." She was closeted with Attorney Rosenberg for a long period after talking to the gangster.

Denies He Knew Lingle.

Questioned exhaustively by Detective George Williams of Mr. Roche's staff, Geisking denied knowing either Lingle or Jack Zuta, the Chicago vice monger, in connection with whose murder he had also been named.

"I never heard of Lingle until four weeks ago, when I got word that they wanted me in that case," Geisking de-

WARRANTS OUT FOR ARREST OF 26 GANG CHIEFS

Aim Vagrancy Law at 'Public Foes.'

Every important gang leader in the city was included in a batch of 26 vagrancy warrants issued last evening by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court. The list comprised the "public enemies" named some months ago by the Chicago crime commission.

Alphonse Capone, alias "Scarface" as he was called from the bench by Judge Lyle, and George [Bugs] Moran, the rival of Capone, head the list of those named in the warrants. When they are arrested they are to be brought into Judge Lyle's court for trial. The judge made sure that the warrants were returnable to his court before he placed them in the hands of Assistant State's Attorneys Jack Baum and Leslie Curtis.

Lyle Signs Warrants.

Judge Lyle signed the warrants while Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, who prepared the list of "public enemies," and Maj. George Paddock, a director of the commission, sat on the bench with him.

Chief of Detectives John Norton was to have been on hand to receive the warrants, but he failed to appear by 5:30 o'clock and instead telephoned the judge that he would coöperate fully in the grand cleanup of gangsters, hoodlums, and racketeers. The judge early in the day had requested Norton to be present at 4:30 o'clock in connection with a matter of "utmost importance." The detective chief telephoned finally that he was busy on other matters.

Broadcast to Squad Cars.

The 26 warrants were received at the detective bureau shortly after 9 o'clock last night and were broadcast by radio to all squad cars, while the names and descriptions of the men wanted were sent on the teletype to every police station in the city.

The revival of the old vagrancy law was brought about several weeks ago by Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles Rathbun, who has been assigned to investigate the slaying of Alfred Lingle. Prosecutor Rathbun and Chief Investigator Pat Roche used the vagrancy law with effect on Israel [Izzy] Alderman and Joseph Condi and this started the present campaign.

List of "Public Foes."

The complete list of those named in the warrants, as they are designated by the judge in the warrants and by the crime commission in its list of the "public enemies," follows:

ALPHONSE CAPONE, ALIAS SCARFACE, known as the chief of gangland.

RALPH CAPONE, brother of Alphonse, and chief lieutenant in the traffic of vice, gambling and liquor. He is now under conviction by the government for income tax evasion.

TONY VOLPE, ALIAS MOPS VOLPE, one of Capone's chief bodyguards, who specialized in handling ganglands dog track ventures.

FRANK RIO, bodyguard of Alphonse Capone, who was Capone's jail companion in Philadelphia for a year for carrying concealed weapons.

JAMES BELCASTRO, west side hoodlum, credited with bombing activities and labor racketeering.

JACK DEMORE, ALIAS MACHINE GUN JACK McGURN, said to be the chief gunner for the Capone outfit. He is under conviction for carrying concealed weapons.

DAGO LAWRENCE MANGANO, west side gambling house keeper, who was accused of instigating the bombing of the home of Capt. Luke Garrick.

JACK GUZIK, said to be the business manager of the Capone syndicate.

FRANK DIAMOND, all around handy man for the Capone interests.

GEORGE [BUGS] MORAN, who succeeded the late Dean O'Banion in leadership in the north side gang, but whose activities are now said to have been taken over by the Capone outfit.

JOSEPH AIELLO, head of seven brothers, who are said to control the alcohol output on the north side. He is also a co-leader with Moran in the north side gang.

EDWARD [SPIKE] O'DONNELL, beer peddling boss on the south side.

JOE SALTIS, beer runner and booze boss of the south side territory, who now spends much of his time in northern Wisconsin.

FRANK M'ERLANE, indicted several times for murder and said to be one of the cruelest of south side gangsters.

VINCENT M'ERLANE, brother of Frank.

DANNY STANTON, until recently a minor south side hoodlum, but now reported to be a big time labor racketeer. He was in a police cell last night as a result of a chance arrest before the warrants were issued.

WILLIAM [KLONDIKE] O'DONNELL, beer peddler on the west side, and also reported to have entered the labor racketeering field.

MYLES O'DONNELL, brother of Klondike, and also a labor racketeer. He is now a union business agent.

FRANK LAKE, one of the original beer bosses, who is reported to be wealthy despite his many court battles.

TERRENCE [TERRIBLE] DRUGGAN, partner of Lake.

JAMES [FUR] SAMMONS, a former con-

Many Good Bonds Are Available at Attractive Prices

"Minnie, pick me out one." Somebody's nearly blind grandma was speaking. Friend Minnie was also a grandmother, but time had been kinder with her sight. The two were standing before a counter on which were displayed bond circulars, printed in blue, green, red and black. They were selecting bonds as they would Christmas neckties for their grandsons.

That, of course, is not the way to buy securities. Whether a bond is a good one for your purposes does not depend upon the color used in printing the circular describing it. The choice of a security suitable to your needs cannot be made without a knowledge of your condition and a knowledge of bonds. Of the two you are informed, of the other you probably are not. Knowledge of bonds is what a high grade investment house is willing to place at your disposal. That is especially important now when some good bonds have not participated in the general advance and are available at attractive prices. It is an unusually good time to better your investments with a good bond house.

vict, who is a beer runner and labor racketeer.

GEORGE [RED] BARKER, also a former convict, who is said to be chief of the labor racketeering activities of the Capone gang.

WILLIAM [THREE FINGERED JACK] WHITE, former convict, charged several times with murder, who is now a labor union agent.

JOSEPH [PEPPY] GENERO, said to be a beer hunner for the Capone outfit in the south side suburban districts.

LEO MONGOVEN, former bodyguard for Moran, who is now reported to have joined with the Capone forces.

ROCCO FANNELLI, 20th ward hoodlum.

Waits an Hour for Norton.

Judge Lyle sat on the bench for nearly an hour with Col. Chamberlin and Mr. Paddock of the crime commission waiting for Chief of Detectives Norton. The judge finally received the telephone message from the detective chief, saying he could not be present. Judge Lyle then announced that he was ready to go ahead and he unwrapped the warrants from the newspaper in which they were rolled.

"I had a promise that the chief of detectives would be here," he said as he unfolded the warrants. "I have a very important matter and I am sorry that he will not be here. He, however, has assured me of coöperation, but I would have liked him here to listen to what I have to say.

"On April 24 the Chicago Crime commission—the only organization of its kind in the world—issued a list of public enemies. The public enemies are men who have lived lives of crime and who have brought disgrace on this city both at home and abroad.

For War on Gangsters.

"Various organizations and committees have felt the existence of these men and now I feel that we should do something practical to stop their operations.

"The thing at hand is what we can do towards practically bringing before the bar of justice these men.

"If I was drafting the vagrancy law I would draft it to fit the modern gunman of today. However, this is the only method we have to reach these men who have been classified as public enemies. If we can keep them in court a good deal they will not have much time for crime."

Praises Crime Commission.

Judge Lyle spoke for several minutes on the good work of the crime commission and said that he wanted to indorse the work being done by State's Attorney Swanson and his staff and especially that by the branch office in the Temple building directed by Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Mr. Rathbun.

The judge then called Policeman Roy Van Herrick before him and praised the latter for the arrests in the past of such known hoodlums as "Bugs" Moran and Leo Mongoven.

"I gave him the honor of signing these complaints for the warrants," said the judge. "However, I take full responsibility for issuing these warrants.

To Set Bonds at $10,000.

After the warrants were signed and delivered to the police for execution the judge announced that he would fix bond for each of the listed public enemies at $10,000. He explained that he was setting a lower bond in these cases than he did in the Alderman and Condi cases in order to save a wholesale criticism of his high bond policy. He pointed out that the grand jury and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court had upheld his high bond policy in the Alderman and Condi cases. Judge McGoorty yesterday refused to reduce the bonds.

"I have been referred to as the stormy petrel and all that, but nevertheless I am going to carry on with my policy."

As the session was about to end, Col. Chamberlin told Judge Lyle that the Crime commission was heartily in accord with what the judge was doing and that Frank J. Loesch, president of the commission, "is at your back."

Secret War on Rackets.

The war against racketeers as ordered by Judge McGoorty in a special charge to the grand jury was being conducted yesterday in secret. Several conferences were held by the judge and the state's attorney's office. The result of these meetings and of under cover work probably will be known today, it was said.

Stanton, the only racketeer named in the list of warrants who is under arrest, was cornered in a blind alley as he tried to escape from Detectives John Howe and William Drury. They noticed him in a new automobile at Cottage Grove and East 61st street. He was arrested with his companion, Edgar Smith, after a short chase. The police say they found a revolver in the side pocket of the automobile.

Dartmouth Professor Killed in Auto Upset

Charlemont, Mass., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Prof. Richard C. Hay, a member of the faculty of the Tuck school of finance at Darthmouth college, was crushed to death here today when an automobile driven by his father, Gen. W. H. Hay of New York City, overturned.

BATTLE TO FREE GEISKING, HELD IN LINGLE QUIZ

Witnesses of Murder to See Suspect Today.

clared. "I've run plenty of booze in Indiana and may have hijacked a load here and there, but I never saw Lingle or Zuta in my life. You can't pin that on me."

A New Witness Appears.

Another and hitherto unheard of witness to the Lingle murder bobbed up in Louisville yesterday in the person of C. M. Vaughan, a grocery clerk there. Vaughan, having read in the Louisville newspapers of Geisking's arrest, presented himself at police headquarters and announced that on the day of Lingle's death he was seated in a parked automobile at Randolph street and Michigan avenue.

"I saw the policeman chase the gunman who, as I afterward learned, killed Lingle, and I could identify him if I saw his face," Vaughan said. Nevertheless, when he was shown Geisking's photograph Vaughan covered his eyes and would not examine the picture. He would not entertain the suggestion of viewing Geisking in his cell.

While awaiting the arrival of Mr. Roche and Mr. Rathbun, Detective Williams organized a search for Geisking's bride, the former Ruth Harter of Muncie, Ind., whom he married at Harrodsburg, Ind., four weeks ago. The girl, who is 18 years old, was taken into custody within two hours after Geisking's arrest last Friday and was booked for vagrancy, but won her release under a $200 bond.

Tells of Geisking's Capture.

The capture of Geisking, whom Chicago detectives had been secretly seeking in Indiana for nearly two months, was effected through a coincidence, it was revealed yesterday by Detective Sergeant Cecil Ezell of the Louisville police, who made the arrest.

Sergt. Ezell, with two patrolmen, was stationed Friday morning at the Louisville municipal bridge, which crosses the Ohio river to Jeffersonville, Ind., and was scanning every vehicle license for six cars, reported to be engaged in liquor running between the two cities. A battered flivver approached from Jeffersonville and Sergt. Ezell, glancing at his list of licenses, saw that the flivver's number corresponded with the first number on his list.

The driver, subsequently identified as Geisking, and his companion, who posed as Geisking's brother, refused to halt and were chased a half mile before being forced to the curb by Sergt. Ezell's car. "You wouldn't have taken me so easily if I'd had a gun," Geisking blustered when searched.

Forsythe Held in Custody.

A Chicago development of the Lingle case was the decision of Mr. Rathbun to keep in custody James [Red] Fawcett, alias Forsythe, another suspect, whom the prosecutors had intended dismissing yesterday. Rathbun's associate, Attorney James E. McShane, announced that Fawcett had not yet been eliminated as a factor in the murder.

How Fawcett acquiresd the nickname "Red," a name which irritates him, investigators said, has proved a mystery to the prosecutors. Fawcett's hair is black and microscopic examination of its strands has proved he had never dyed it. Fawcett insists that he was never called "Red."

Mr. McShane consented to comment on the significance of Geisking's arrest.

"To conclude that our case is solved merely because Mr. Roche, Mr. Rathbun and our witnesses hurried to Louisville is erroneous," he said. "We have sought this man intensively. It is our policy to trace every clew and to search for every suspect in the same fashion."

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple Building, 77 West Washington street, Telephone State 3729.

Crime Inquiry of Church Federation Is Completed

The special crime inquiry committee of the Chicago Church federation completed its work yesterday afternoon at a meeting at the Hotel La Salle. According to Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the federation, the committee's report was adopted at yesterday's session and will be sent up to the commission on political action for review on Sept. 25.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO A DITCH; MAN IS KILLED

Carlton D. Oliver, 24 years old, 2318 South Cicero avenue, Cicero, was killed yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding plunged into a ditch at Joliet road and Harlem avenue, Lyons. Miss Lola Miller, 1159 East 62d street, who was driving, told police she lost control of the car. Two other passengers in the car were injured.

This death and four others increased Cook county's motor toll for 1930 to 727. The other victims:

Carl Caspari, 6 years old, 5611 Addison street. Killed last night when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home. Walter J. Floreen, 127 Scoville avenue, Oak Park, driver of the car, was released.

Henry Rauder, 47 years old, of the Tirk hotel, Gary. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries incurred on Sunday when he was struck by an automobile at 74th and State streets. The driver, Edward McGlaze, 8035 Drevel avenue, was held.

William Kerbel, 18 years old, 1656 North Talman avenue. Died in St. Elizabeth's hospital of injuries received on Saturday when the truck in which he was riding crashed into a lamp post at Rockwell street and Bloomingdale avenue.

Carl Eckerle, 50 years old, of Logansport, Ind. Died in the St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, of injuries suffered in a collision last Saturday in which Henry Bodkain of Naperville was killed.

Gustave White, 45 years old, a railroad switchman, was killed last night in Gary, when his auto crashed head on into a street car.

BODY OF JOYCE IS EXHUMED AT WIDOW'S ORDER

Two Scientists to Make New Poison Test.

The body of State Senator John T. Joyce was exhumed from its grave in All Saints cemetery yesterday afternoon. The body was taken to the county morgue, where a second autopsy is to be performed today by Dr. E. R. Le Count of the University of Chicago and a second analysis of vital organs for traces of poison is to be begun by Dr. William D. McNally, consulting toxicologist. Both doctors have been retained by Joyce's widow, Mrs. Mary Daly Joyce.

Mrs. Joyce announced her intention of exhuming the body last Saturday after Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and Ross Lee Laird began questioning her step-daughter, Miss Isabelle Daly, 19 years old, in connection with their investigation into the death. Joyce died on Aug. 16. Mrs. Joyce promptly announced that he had been murdered by political enemies, through a slow poison. A coroner's jury found death due to prussic acid or a compound, which causes death within 30 minutes.

Prosecutors Offer Coöperation.

Yesterday morning the superintendent of the cemetery notified the prosecutors that Mrs. Joyce had ordered the body disinterred. Lavin and Laird wrote her pledging coöperation in the exhumation and urging the appointment of a chemist of high standing to join in the investigation with Dr. McNally. Dr. McNally had sought the coöperation of Dr. Le Count before the letter was received.

Before the body was moved Prosecutors Lavin and Laird, accompanied by Detective Sergeant Michael Ahern and Policeman Cornelius Boyle, arrived at the grave. Deputy Coroner Thomas Mahon was also present. The prosecutors explained that they were not present to halt the exhumation, which could not be done legally, they said.

Body Locked in Morgue.

The body was turned over to Deputy Coroner Mahon, who took it to the county morgue, where it was locked in a room.

Dr. Le Count is to make his examination to determine whether death may have been due to natural causes and to determine for a second time whether the organs are in sound condition. Mrs. Joyce has said that her husband suffered from high blood pressure and diabetes. These conditions were not disclosed in the previous post mortem. Dr. Le Count is to be assisted by Coroner's Physician William Jaffa.

Immediately after the second post mortem the vital organs are to be turned over to Dr. McNally.

Theory of Mrs. Joyce.

In support of her theory that death was due to a slow poison rather than prussic acid, Mrs. Joyce has said that none of the physicians who examined Joyce detected the characteristic odor of the acid, that of peach pits.

The prosecutors continued their investigation yesterday by questioning two brothers of the late state senator. These are Patrick Joyce, a city policeman, and Edward [Piggy] Joyce. The investigators refused to divulge their reason for calling the brothers or to discuss the questioning.

Speaking for Mrs. Joyce, Attorney Cornelius Palmer said, "I believe that the investigation by the state's attorney's office will be dropped in a few days."

LAKE ZURICH'S RESIDENTS LOSE RIGHT TO WATER

Several hundred Chicago owners of summer homes on lakes in Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin may lose the rights to use the water on the shores of which their homes are built by a ruling made by Master in Chancery Ralph Dady of Lake county yesterday. In a report to Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff he holds that Lake Zurich is private property and not open to the use of more than 100 Chicagoans who have built summer homes there. The ruling is based on a government survey of 1837 in which Lake Zurich was not declared to be a "navigable and meandering stream."

Because of the absence of that clause in the survey, Mayor August Froelich and Mrs. Margaret Pearce claimed private ownership of most of the lake bed and the use of the water. Last year Harriet Higginson and Dorothy Schrader, two Chicago girls, were arrested for sailing on the lake without Mayor Froelich's permission. Froelich proposed to charge a fee of $5 for the privilege of boating on the lake. Property owners protested and obtained an injunction from Judge Shurtleff. Dady's report advises that the injunction be dismissed.

MOVIE STAR IS MERCIFUL

Laura La Plante (center), movie star, who, after coming to Chicago to appear against three persons charged with robbing her of gems valued at $7,000, permitted them to plead guilty to petit larceny and be freed on probation. She is shown in the center of a curious crowd in Judge Lyle's courtroom. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Laura La Plante's Plea Wins Leniency for 3 in Gem Theft

Miss Laura La Plante, Hollywood actress, appeared as a witness before Judge John H. Lyle in felony court, yesterday, and as a result of her appearance three Chicago Negroes charged with the stealing of $7,000 worth of jewels were placed on probation.

A Criminal court building crowd of spectators craned their necks as Miss La Plante in a chic tailored ensemble of gray sharkskin, gray ribbon turban, sharkskin shoes tipped with black, and a silver fox fur, stepped into an elevator.

Police Trace Stolen Jewels.

She was escorted by Sergeants Fred G. W. Wirsing and William O'Neill who traced her stolen jewels through Gertrude Paine, 18 years old, 4718 South Michigan avenue. The Paine girl, the police learned, had received jewels from Harry Rhodes, 28 years old, also of 4718 South Michigan, a Pullman porter, and George Salter, 4333 Prairie avenue. The gems were stolen from Miss La Plante's stateroom on a train in April.

A crowded courtroom waiting to hear the actress testify was disappointed when it was discovered her testimony was limited to a single sentence.

When Assistant State's Attorney Jack Baum asked Miss La Plante if she would agree to having the charge changed from grand larceny to petty larceny so that Rhodes, Salter and the Paine girl might be placed on probation, she replied:

"Why, yes, Judge, that would be delightful."

The three then pleaded guilty and where placed on probation for a year.

"I didn't think they really meant to be thieves," explained Miss La Plante after the brief trial. "Finding the jewels was too great a temptation. I don't think they knew, even, the value of them because if the story is true that they tried to pawn the diamond bracelet worth $3,000, for $20, they certainly had no idea of their worth.

"I recommended probation to the judge. I would hate to send any one to jail as long as I got my jewels back."

To Speak Over W-G-N.

Besides the diamond bracelet, the jewelry included a bar pin of emeralds, sapphires, rubies and diamonds, a carved amethyst ring, a bar pin of jade, onyx and diamonds, and a bar pin of jade, pearls and gold.

Miss La Plante said she may remain here tomorrow, and then will go on to New York before returning to Hollywood. She said she had no plans to announce for the future. The last picture in which she appeared was "Captain of the Guard."

She will speak over W-G-N, The Tribune radio station, this morning at 11:30, telling interesting sidelights on the moving picture industry and stories of her career. Her mother, Mrs. Lydia La Plante, will also be introduced.

MARION DAVIES SWEARS OFF OF PARIS FASHIONS

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—An indorsement of England was brought by Marion Davies, film star, who returned today on the Majestic.

"I cannot understand," she said, "why Americans have not discovered England's charm before. England is much more charming than France.

"I don't think I'll ever buy any Paris gowns again. In Paris it is difficult to get a dress or evening frock for less than $300, and an average price is $700 to $800, which is ridiculously high. I think American women have at last come to realize that they can buy in New York what they wish cheaper than in Paris and just as fashionable."

ROHAN GIVES UP RACE; DEMOCRATS SUPPORT BRITTEN

Laud G. O. P. Congressman for Aid to Wets.

Democratic leaders in Cook county yesterday announced the withdrawal of Thomas Rohan, Democratic nominee, as a candidate for congress from the Ninth district. The Democrats will support Congressman Fred A. Britten of the Ninth district, a wet Republican, who is chairman of the naval affairs committee of the house of representatives.

After conferring with the Democratic leaders Mr. Rohan sent notice of his withdrawal as a candidate to Secretary of State William J. Stratton at Springfield. While it is within the power of the congressional committeemen in the district to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Rohan's resignation, the committeemen have already been consulted and have announced that they will not name any candidate against Mr. Britten.

Cermak Makes Statement.

"The Democrats of Cook county and the state of Illinois meant what they said about the prohibition issue in the platform adopted at Springfield and in Chicago," said Anton J. Cermak, chairman of the Democratic county central committee. "Mr. Britten has rendered great services to the cause of personal liberty.

"There are three Democratic congressmen—Sabath, Igoe and Kunz—who have records on this important question which can be compared with that of Mr. Britten.

"These three are certain of election, but if opposition to them ceased to exist they could campaign in other parts of the state and in other states in the cause of repeal of the prohibition laws.

Criticizes Republicans.

"The failure of the Republican managers to attempt to pledge their congressional candidates to their state and county platforms, is, however, an indication that they will permit their nominal candidates in the Fifth, Sixth, and Eighth districts to remain in the field to embarrass men who have rendered services to the cause of personal liberty equal to those of Mr. Britten.

"We felt this was true when we arranged to give Mr. Britten a clear field, but we do not believe that two wrongs make a right, and we decided to do what we regarded as the right thing, letting the Republican leaders act as they please."

"As a Democrat who places the success of his party and its policies above personal considerations, I have decided to withdraw as the Democratic candidate for representative in congress from the Ninth Illinois district," said Rohan. "In doing so my purpose is to assure the reëlection of Mr. Britten as representative from the district without a real contest."

Pension Claims of Veterans Pouring in Upon Government

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Millions of dollars more than was anticipated will be spent annually by the government in making payments to world war veterans under the disability allowance or pension act passed by congress last July 3.

This became evident today when it was announced at the veterans' bureau that 149,310 applications for allowances had been received up to Sept. 1 and that others are pouring in at the rate of more than 1,000 a day. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, estimated when the act was pending that 156,000 claimants would benefit in the first year, but it is apparent that his forecast was far too low.

75,000 Apply in Month.

Thousands of veterans were ready with their applications when the act became effective and 74,000 were in the hands of the veterans' bureau regional offices on Aug 1, less than thirty days later. During August 75,310 more came in, bringing the total number of applications almost up to Gen. Hines' estimate of claimants in a year within two months. About one-half of the cases adjudicated so far have resulted in favorable awards to the applicants. If this ratio continues and applications come in during the next few months at anywhere near the current rate the claimants within a year are expected to number 200,000 or more.

Gen. Hines had estimated that the payments in 1931 would total $31,555,050 and in 1935 close to $80,000,000. Just how much these figures will be surpassed is problematical, but it is likely that at the end of five years the pension act will be costing well over 100 millions annually.

The act authorizes pensions to veterans who served 90 days in the war and who are 25 per cent or more disabled whether or not as a result of service. The rates are $12 a month for 25 per cent disability, $18 for 50 per cent disability, $24 for 75 per cent disability and $40 for total disability.

11,000 Received from Ohio.

Outside of Ohio, from which 11,383 applications have been made, the largest number of applicants for the disability allowance so far have come from Illinois. Prior to Sept. 1 the regional office at Hines, Ill., had received notices from 9,048 veterans signifying their desire to submit to physical examinations.

The Indiana regional office at Indianapolis reported 6,360 applications, the Michigan office at Detroit 6,229, the Wisconsin office at Milwaukee 3,105, and the Iowa office at Des Moines 1,203, a total of 26,945 from the Chicago area states, or 18 per cent of the total for the country.

Boy, 15, Killed in Quarrel at School Baseball Game

Joseph Czorniak, 15 years old, 14421 Blane avenue, Posen, died yesterday of a broken neck suffered in a quarrel from a school baseball game. Czorniak had attempted to steal second base and a decision arose over the decision calling him out. Frank Krygowski, 15 years old, struck young Czorniak with his fist. The boy pitched forward to the ground and his neck was broken.

UPSTATE DRYS IN NEW YORK DEFEAT WETS

Chicago Lake Diversion Foe Beaten by Wet.

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—The drys had the better of it in upstate Republican contests in the primary election today.

The outstanding wet victory was in the Fortieth congressional district (Erie and Niagara counties), where Walter Gresham Andrews of Buffalo, who demanded repeal of the eighteenth amendment with the backing of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, defeated Representative S. Wallace Dempsey, foe of Chicago lake diversion, chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee, by 1,500 majority. Dempsey refused to declare on prohibition.

The wet victory in Erie county extended to other candidates. Assemblymen William L. Marcy of the Second district and Howard W. Dickey of the Sixth districts, both wets, won over dry opponents.

The wets also won in the Thirty-second state senatorial district, Schenectady and Saratoga counties, where Senator Thomas E. Brown, author of the prohibition enforcement bill introduced at the last session of the legislature, was running behind Alexander C. Baxter of Saratoga. With half the election districts in, Mr. Baxter had a lead of about 950.

Many Upstate Drys Win.

In virtually every other upstate Republican contest over prohibition the drys won and the wets lost, although in the Twenty-fourth congressional district, composed of parts of the Bronx and Westchester county, former Representative Benjamin L. Fairchild, a wet, defeated Charles S. Witwer, a dry.

In the Twenty-fifth congressional district, composed of the rest of Westchester and Rockland county, John M. Holzworth, a wet, was defeated by Charles D. Millard, organization candidate.

The wet candidates for delegates to the Republican state convention in Westchester also lost to the candidates of the organization headed by William L. Ward, veteran party leader.

Severe Blow to Wets.

A severe blow to the wets was the defeat of the wet candidate for delegates to the Republican convention in Herkimer county. The wet slate was headed by Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt, and former Supreme Court Justice Irving Devendorf. The wet candidates for delegates in Montgomery county also were beaten.

Three dry Republican representatives, James S. Parker of the 29th district, Frank Crowther of the 30th, and Gale H. Stalker of the 37th, defeated wet opponents.

The drys also won in the 36th senatorial district, Oneida county, where William S. Murray captured the Republican nomination for state senator from Willard R. Pratt, a wet.

In New York City, party leadership instead of prohibition was involved in most of the primary contests. In Queens the Democratic organization, headed by John Theofel, won a sweeping victory, and the Republican fight between the regular organization, headed by Joseph H. Debragga, and the supporters of Borough President George U. Harvey reënforced by the so-called Hoover group, resulted in what amounted to a draw.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Republican representative in congress, won renomination by a wide margin over her opponent, George Haram Mann.

CRASH DELAYS WILMETTE GIRL'S ENTRY INTO N. U.

Miss Babe Rich, 17 years old, 1314 Greenwood avenue, Wilmette, forgot a traffic rule yesterday while driving through Evanston to register as a freshman at Northwestern university. As a result she will face Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter on Oct. 4. Miss Rich is a daughter of Elmer A. Rich Jr., vice president of the Burton-Dixie corporation at 2024 South Racine avenue.

According to Miss Jane Hunter, 21 years old, 2763 Girard avenue, Evanston, Miss Rich forgot to thrust out her hand in warning when she stopped her sedan quickly in Sheridan road near Garrett place. Miss Hunter, following in a roadster, crashed into the sedan. She summoned Policeman Elmer Egebrecht, who took Miss Rich into custody. The girl proceeded to the university after giving bond.

DEMOCRATS PICK WET FOR SENATE IN DELAWARE

Dover, Del., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Delaware Democrats today nominated Thomas F. Bayard of Wilmington, an avowed wet for United States senator and adopted a platform which included a wet plank.

This insured a wet and dry fight at the general election in November. On the Republican side, Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Dover is the nominee on a dry platform.

Bayard, a former United States senator, was nominated by the Democratic state committee after a keen battle with Josiah Marvel, also of Wilmington. The vote was 115 to 95. Bayard was nominated for both the short and long term.

The platform advocated the repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead law, denounced the present tariff bill as a "bargain and sale of favors to a political minority in the hope of campaign funds for future elections." and indorsed the old age pension plan.

CONNECTICUT G. O. P. NOMINATES ROGERS, A DRY, FOR GOVERNOR

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Republican party of Connecticut today nominated Lieut. Gov. Ernest E. Rogers of New London, a dry, as its candidate for governor, and adopted a platform advocating restoration of liquor control to the states.

In the November elections Rogers will oppose Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, dean emeritus of Yale university graduate school, the wet Democratic candidate. The Democratic platform calls for repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act.

The Republican resolutions committee last night adopted a plank which called for repeal, but the wording was changed overnight upon the insistence of J. Henry Roraback, chairman of the Republican state committee.

Roraback, it was learned threatened to resign the party management if such a plank were adopted. So in its place a plank scoring conditions under the 18th amendment and urging restoration of state control was passed without a dissenting vote.

KOHLER BEATEN BY LA FOLLETTE IN WISCONSIN

'Fighting Bob's' Son Wins by Big Margin.

the vote stood: Kohler, 18,609; La Follette, 23,042. Here for a fortnight the governorship contenders fought to line up the factory vote.

Phil La Follette's speakers dwelt on unemployment and banged away on "Hoover prosperity—just around the corner, the White House says." In the platform attacks, they kept linking Hoover with Kohler, who broke the La Follette delegate at large slate in 1928, and at Kansas City supported Hoover. The "empty dinner pail" was the main argument they made in meetings at the gates of factories.

The Republican regulars countered by pointing out that during the depression Gov. Kohler has kept his 4,000 workers working full time at full pay at Kohler, while bathtubs and plumbing accessories are being piled up in warehouses for lack of market.

La Follette carried the indorsement of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Unemployment Big Factor.

Tonight the unemployment phase was accounted by political lights as the chief cause for the overturn in the great manufacturing centers.

Two years ago Milwaukee county swung the nomination to Kohler. Its plurality of 21,500 made him the nominee over J. D. Beck, the La Follette entry.

As to the decreased conservative majorities for Kohler in conservative territory, some of the regulars laid this to the tone of the Oshkosh convention of the regulars in June, which sounded somewhat radical in the ears of some conservatives and led to grumbling at the time.

Added to all this was the pulling power of the La Follette family name, estimated to be worth some 50,000 votes in Wisconsin. Likewise another factor was the platform activities of Senators La Follette and John J. Blaine, the "Big Three"—Bob, Blaine, and Phil—being a battery of orators against whom Gov. Kohler had to do most of the real platform campaigning. Politicians pointed out tonight that Senator Blaine went to bed contented tonight, for the victory of Philip La Follette may remove Kohler as a contender against Blaine for the senate two years hence.

BROOKHART JOINS DEMAND FOR QUIZ OF DRY OFFICIALS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] arriving in Washington today, added his demand to those of other members of the senate who say they will seek an investigation of the charges made against high dry law officials by Maurice Campbell, former New York prohibition administrator. Senators Burton K. Wheeler [Dem.], Mont.] and A. W. Barkley [Dem., N. Y.] had previously said an inquiry should be made.

"Maj. Campbell's charges indicate that there is something wrong at the top," asserted Senator Brookhart. "If such conditions exist no wonder we cannot have real enforcement of prohibition."

Senator Brookhart said he considered Secretary Mellon responsible for Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, against whom many of the Campbell charges have been directed. He reiterated the statement he made frequently last winter that Mr. Mellon is not a sincere dry and is not sympathetic with prohibition enforcement.

BUTLER, A DRY, LEADS BAY STATE RACE FOR SENATE

Tops Draper, Wet, 8,000 in Incomplete Returns.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 16.—(AP)—John F. Fitzgerald conceded the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to Joseph B. Ely of Westfield in the following telegram tonight from his bed at the Robert Breck hospital:

"Nurse set lights off and I'm off to sleep. Returns indicate your nomination. I congratulate you and pledge you my hearty support."

Boston, Mass., Sept. 16.—(AP)—William M. Butler, former senator and former chairman of the Republican national committee, running as a dry for the Republican nomination for United States senator in the Massachusetts primaries, led his nearest opponent, Eben S. Draper, a wet, 68,729 to 59,706, when 887 out of Massachusetts' 1,649 precincts had been reported tonight. The third candidate, Andrew Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, had 8,373 votes.

Figures in Democratic Race.

In the Democratic senatorial contest two wets, Marcus A. Coolidge, former mayor of Fitchburg, and former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, were running a close race as more than a fourth of the state's precincts were counted.

In this contest 600 precincts gave Coolidge 29,372; O'Connell, 27,910; Thomas C. O'Brien, former Boston district attorney and also a wet, 19,363; Eugene N. Foss, former governor and a dry, 5,452, and Peter J. Joyce, dry, 1,342.

Gov. Frank G. Allen encountered no serious opposition from his only opponent for renomination, former Mayor John D. Devir of Malden. Allen, a dry, who made no campaign, standing on his record as governor, had 70,709. Devir, who termed himself the candidate of the "common people" and who did not press an active campaign and did not raise the prohibition issue, had 4,733.

Ely Leads Fitzgerald.

Although announced as withdrawn from the Democratic governorship race because of ill health, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston was polling a large vote.

The vote of the 600 precincts gave Joseph B. Ely, wet, approved by the chairman of the Democratic state committee, 45,101; Fitzgerald, 40,506, and John J. Cummings, 4,047.

PROHIBITION NOT IN PLATFORM OF OHIO DEMOCRATS

Columbus, O., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Battle lines for the November election were completed by Ohio Democrats today with adoption by the state convention of a platform free of prohibition utterances, but demanding faithful observance and enforcement of all laws and denunciation of illegal law enforcement.

Though the two chief party candidates, George White, for governor, and Robert J. Bulkley, for United States senator, are at variance on the prohibition question, White standing for retention and Bulkley for repeal of national prohibition, each considers this a personal matter, and the party platform respected their views. Each indorsed the other's candidacy.

Bulkley asserted that prohibition cannot be enforced nationally and that control of the liquor traffic properly belongs with the state. For this reason, he insisted prohibition is not a national issue. The fact that the membership of each party is divided in its views on the subject eliminated it as a party issue, he said.

Drys Seize 100,000 Gallons of Beer in New Jersey Raid

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Prohibition agents, headed by John G. [Ace] Smith of Newark, raided the Peter Breidt City brewery at Elizabeth, N. J., this afternoon. They searched the building, which occupies two city blocks, and, after arresting nine men, established guard over vats said to contain 100,000 gallons of beer.

SUES TO ALTER TRAEGER NAME ON THE BALLOT

John E. Traeger, son of the sheriff and Democratic candidate for county assessor, was named yesterday in a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel County Clerk Sweitzer to have the younger Traeger's name printed on the ballot as John E. Traeger Jr. The latter name should appear on the ballot, the petition says, to distinguish the candidate from the elder Traeger, who has held a number of political offices.

In a statement, the younger Traeger said he is not John E. Traeger Jr., his middle name being Ernest while the "E" in his father's name stands for Edward. He said that he has used the designation "Jr." to avoid confusion.

DRINK EXCLUDES FATHER FROM HIS CHILDREN

Bertram F. Rieman of the Whitehall Apartment hotel, 105 East Delaware place, was forbidden yesterday in an order issued by Circuit Court Judge Edward D. Shurtleff at Waukegan from visiting with his children until "he proves to the court he can remain sober."

Rieman is a member of the Illinois Athletic, the Medinah and the Chicago Yacht clubs. In December of 1929 Mrs. Rieman obtained a divorce in Lake county, with custody of their two daughters, Marjory, 8 years old, and Charlotte, 6 years old. It was stipulated the father could visit them twice a week.

Mrs. Rieman, however, testified before Judge Shurtleff yesterday that Rieman was invariably intoxicated when he called on them, and the judge's order followed.

OFFICIALS FINISH TOUR OF ILLINOIS RIVER WATERWAY

Congressman Hull, U. S. Engineer View Work.

Work on the Illinois waterway has been inspected by Lieut. Gov. William C. Weeks, war department engineer in charge of the Chicago district, and Congressman William E. Hull of the house committee on waterways. A three day tour of the 225 miles of river, of which 135 miles will be dredged to give a channel nine feet deep, was completed yesterday.

The project between Starved Rock and Grafton was first inspected. The most difficult section of the improvement is a cut 3,800 feet in length through the strata of stone of which the historic Starved Rock is itself a part. The nine foot channel, 200 feet wide, is being blasted through the present bed of the river.

Twice each day dynamite blasts hurl tons of water and rock into the air. The blasts are felt for miles about. Approximately 5,000 pounds of dynamite is used daily.

Dredges Work on River.

Dredges are at work at seven points on the river. The first of these south of Starved Rock is at Hennepin, another at Rome, two are in the 26 miles from Peoria south to Copperas Creek, one near Naples, and two more in the vicinity of Hardin, near the mouth of the river. The party was told that sand, silt, and rock are being moved at the rate of 25,000 cubic yards a day.

Original estimates on the amount of material to be moved approximated 6,500,000 yards for the 135 mile stretch from La Grange to Grafton. The R. C. Huffman company was awarded contracts for this part of the work. The Central Dredging company obtained the contract for the stretch of 84 miles between Peoria and La Grange. The Huffman company is also doing the work at Starved Rock.

Contracts call for the completion of the entire project in October, 1931. The part between Peoria and Grafton was to have been completed by Nov. 1, 1930. Officials of the dredging companies said that more material will have to be moved than was originally estimated and the date of completion will be delayed until in the winter or early spring.

To Be Ready for Barges.

Col. Weeks was assured that the nine foot waterway will be ready for the inauguration of the proposed federal barge line between St. Louis and Peoria by April 1. The barges will follow the Illinois river from Peoria to Grafton and thence take the Mississippi to St. Louis. When the entire project is completed Lake Michigan will be connected with the Gulf of Mexico by a navigable channel.

"The task is coming along splendidly," Col. Weeks said. "Each month the workers are increasing the volume of material removed. Rivermen have noticed considerable improvement from the work done. I am entirely satisfied with the inspection."

WATERWAY LEADERS TRY TO SPEED 9 FOOT MISSISSIPPI CHANNEL

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Waterways development leaders from the Mississippi valley, meeting here today, stressed the need of concerted action for speedy development of a nine foot channel between Minneapolis and St. Louis.

Col. George C. Lambert, St. Paul, chairman of the Mississippi valley shippers conference, emphasized this need in a report which was approved by a unanimous vote of the sixty delegates attending.

Pointing out that a nine foot channel was authorized by congress in the 1930 river and harbers bill, Col. Lambert declared that "actual relief under the adopted project will be measured by the speed of its development, which in turn must depend on adequate financing."

Charles C. Webber, president of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line company, joined Col. Lambert in what amounted to a summons of all friends of inland waterways to unite in an effort to see that no unavoidable delay is encountered in the government's work of financing and constructing the nine foot channel.

Shippers and public officials were present at the conference today from cities of the entire Mississippi valley, towns located both on tributaries and at inland points which will benefit from barge service.

ASSESSOR BALKS AT RAISING OF REALTY VALUES

Dissension broke out again yesterday among the members of the board of assessors. Assessor John Conroy served notice that he will not meet with the other members if they continue their policy of raising real estate valuations for 1929 taxes. Conroy accused Assessors Charles Krutckoff and Charles Ringer of "playing politics" and usurping the powers of the board of review.

Krutckoff and Ringer have been approving many of the increases recommended by Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals, while Conroy has consistently voted against all raises on the ground that they are illegal except during the quadrennial reassessment.

ARMED INVADER DENIES INTENT TO HARM DE PRIEST

Edward Linder, 6655 Stewart avenue, said yesterday that he was hunting a "gin mill" Monday night when he invaded the home of Oscar De Priest, the congressman who was the target of an extortion plot last week. Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks was suspicious of Linder's story because the latter was carrying a pistol when captured. Linder said he had found the gun on his first visit to what he called the "gin mill" and that he was again trying to find the place to return the weapon. He could not give the address for which he was searching. He was held for investigation.

OUST ME IF YOU CAN, SAYS BEATEN DETROIT MAYOR

Bowles to Cling to Chair Despite Election.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Charles E. Bowles, elected mayor of Detroit last November, inaugurated in January, recalled in July and defeated for reëlection last week, is not going to vacate the mayor's chair, even if the recount which began this forenoon fails him, and Mayor-elect Frank Murphy is issued a certificate of election.

This announcement was made today by Bowles' attorney, Charles S. Abbott.

"If the recount fails we will permit a certificate to issue to Murphy," Abbott said. "But when Murphy arrives at the city hall to be inaugurated there will be Charley Bowles sitting tight in the mayor's chair. Possession is nine-tenths of the law, and Murphy will have to go to court if he wants to evict Bowles before Bowles' two year term is up."

A suit to oust Bowles from the mayoralty chair and to open the way for certification of Murphy, as his successor, was started in Circuit court today. Hearing on an injunction to restrain Bowles from holding office was set for Friday.

Five tax paying petitioners, acting on their own initiative and without the knowledge of Murphy, charge that Bowles has no right to hold office during the recount. The petitioners ask that, pending final decision on the injunction, the office of mayor be declared vacated, and that the council president serve as acting mayor.

Some of the Bowles supporters admit privately the recount is merely a subterfuge to gain time so Bowles may prepare for a long-drawn-out fight through the courts, which have turned him down three times already. A court fight, like the recount, would keep Bowles in office despite his repudiation at the polls.

U. S. APPROVES PLANS FOR BRIDGE OVER SAG CHANNEL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16—(AP)—The war department today approved plans for a bridge across the Calumet Sag channel on Southwest highway at Chicago.

Original plans for the bridge had been disapproved by the chief of engineers. Plans were then revised by the superintendent of highways of Cook county, the war department said, and have since been approved by the state of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago.

The new plans conform with instructions given by the chief of engineers that horizontal clearance of not less than 200 feet to the axis of the channel and a vertical clearance of not less than 25 feet above Chicago city datum be provided.

The war department said the bridge would provide ample clearances for anticipated future needs of barges and tow-boats.

HURLEY LANDS IN BIRMINGHAM EN ROUTE EAST

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, en route to Washington after an inspection of the Mississippi river, landed in his plane here late today. He will spend the night here and resume his flight to Washington tomorrow. He had hopped off from New Orleans for Chattanooga this afternoon but stopped here because of darkness.

Secretary Hurley was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers.

Kellogg, Son of Cereal King, Sued for $1,000,000

John L. Kellogg, capitalist and son of the cereal food manufacturer, yesterday was sued for $1,000,000 damages in Superior court by Harry R. Warren, former president of the Warren Seed Cleaning company and inventor of a seed cleaning device. Only the praecipe of the suit was filed. Warren's attorney, Barratt O'Hara, said the declaration will charge that Kellogg, now president of the Warren-Teed Seed company of Chicago, fraudulently deprived the inventor of his patents and his interests in the corporation. The Warren-Teed company obtained control of Warren's patents three years ago through a court decree.

Rain Routs Record Heat in New York; Mercury Hits 89

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—A cooling thundershower, descending upon New York just after nightfall, brought relief from the day's unseasonable heat, which had sent the mercury spurting to 89 degrees, the highest Sept. 16 temperature in the weather bureau's record, and had caused one heat death and one prostration.

BRITISH AIR FORCE MACHINES FOUND FAR OUT OF DATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The British royal air force machines are out of date and the efficiency of the force is being seriously impaired by the use of old equipment. This disclosure is made by the aviation correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who gives instances of the recent aerial war maneuvers over England when the "Red" forces succeeded in reaching the heart of the "Blue" colony.

"The bombers were in many cases faster than the defending fighters, which could rarely interfere with the raid, and often were unable to come to grips after the raiders had done their work," he says.

In remarking that the issue was vital to the country in case of open attack from the air, the correspondent states that the anomalous situation exists at present in which foreign countries are able to purchase the latest types of British aircraft which, although officially adopted for the royal air forces, have not been issued to it. By the time the royal air force is equipped with the new types they will have become obsolescent, he declares.

HENRY FORD, in last week's Saturday Evening Post, commenting on the new craftsmanship, says: "The notion is dying that a machine-made article cannot be so fine as one made by hand."

At Colby's you will see a remarkable illustration of this in furniture making, in the Layton Arms secretary, a factory reproduction of a very expensive model from Norwich, England, made by hand with the tradition and theory of old English craftsmanship. After the customs duties were added, the original piece sold here for $650 . . . Now, in co-operation with an American factory, we have produced a copy made to withstand our climate better than the original, with the same mechanical details, of even finer woods, beautifully colored and finished. This piece, fine enough for a mansion, is now offered at a price within the reach of a modest purse, $125.

Come in, see for yourself the truly beautiful furniture offered in this store at moderate prices; largely the result of group planning, designing and buying for the four Colby stores.

WOMAN DEAD OF POISON; MYSTERY OVER ITS SOURCE

Druggist Denies Error in Medicine.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Death of Mrs. Violet Nicholson, 41, from poison taken late Monday night, today resulted in two men being held in county jail as authorities attempted to unravel a tangled mystery which confronted them.

Charges against the involved men, Charles C. Sterling, 27, drug clerk, who claims he sold a headache medicine, and the woman's companion, Adolph Carlson, who says he got poison, believed to have been strychnine, probably will be decided after a coroner's inquest. The woman's vital organs have been taken to a Chicago chemist for analysis.

Druggist Denies Mistake.

Mrs. Nicholson died after taking poison from a bottle handed to her by Carlson, with whom she was riding in the country while her husband and children were attending a movie.

Carlson claims he asked Sterling in a suburban drug store for a bottle of medicine when Mrs. Nicholson complained of having a headache during their ride.

Sterling maintains that he gave Carlson the medicine and could not have handed him a bottle of deadly poison by mistake. The death bottle brought back to the drug store by Carlson and the woman when she became suspicious she had swallowed some drug other than what she asked for has disappeared.

This morning Karl C. Williams, assistant state's attorney, and Walter Julian, coroner, learned from Harold H. Shannon, proprietor of the drug store, that there were no bottles of either the medicine or strychnine kept in stock of the size and shape described by Carlson.

Once Roomed at Home.

Carlson, a truck driver, estranged from his wife, roomed at the Nicholson home for a year, leaving two months ago. Nicholson admitted today that he did not know his wife and Carlson were accustomed to going riding together.

Mrs. Nicholson had five children ranging in age from 9 to 16 years.

Sterling told authorities he has been a registered pharmacist for six years. He repeatedly denies that he could have given Carlson a poison instead of the medicine requested.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Capt. Lewis A. Yancey and two companions arrived here from Nassau today aboard a liner following the wreck of their plane, in which they were completing a tour of Central America and South America. The plane crashed near Georgetown, Exuma Island, last Friday, and all its equipment was lost in an exlosion and fire resulting from the forced landing.

RADIUM TRUST HAMPERS WORK, SCIENTIST SAYS

Prices Are Inflated, He Charges.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The assertion that X-Ray specialists are handicapped in their war on cancer by "a prohibitory price" charged by a leading American concern for appparatus used in diagnosis and by a foreign monopoly in the production of radium was made today by Dr. Edwin C. Ernst of St. Louis, president of the Radiological Society of North America.

Addressing radiologists, physicians, and surgeons from 41 states attending a post-graduate conference here on methods of cancer control, Dr. Ernst charged "the company at present enjoying the X-Ray tube monopoly" had filed away useful patents.

Wants U. S. to Act.

"These patents," he said, "could and should have been employed by others in the interest of humanity, and especially the treatment of cancer by a more effective X-Ray radiation."

"This unfortunate condition will continue indefinitely unless the radiologists of America, in coöperation with other interested scientists and medical organizations and our own government, prepare ways and means of combating these practices," he said.

Dr. Ernst said when the Belgian Congo mines were opened and the radium element was imported to this country, all American sources of supply were curtailed and "when the last company was brought up by the Belgian company, the mines were closed."

Plenty of Ore in United States.

"There still remains an abundance of radium ore in this country, which formerly supplied the world," he asserted. "Information and scientific data already obtained by this institute has led us to conclude these fields can be worked at a profit and would help to provide the much needed supply of radium at a price that institutions equipped to use it could afford, and thereby help to reduce the cost of medical care, especially in the treatment of cancer."

FINED FOR STABBING AFFRAY.

Hollis Freeman, colored, 1615 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Police Magistrate Porter. Freeman was charged with stabbing Lewis Mathes when he found him and Thomas Ford, both Negroes, in his home with his wife.

NYE REFUSES TO HEAR WIRE TAPPING EVIDENCE AGAINST HIS AGENTS

REJECTS OFFER OF SPY PROOF BY MRS. McCORMICK

when Mr. Carlstrom gained the floor for a few minutes and made his offer of witnesses which was refused. He then announced that he would release this testimony to the press and did so.

In addition to his own statement, Mr. Carlstrom presented the affidavit of one George E. Cole, or Cohen, 1032 North Dearborn street, a private investigator, who said that he had been employed by David S. Groh and through Groh had been introduced to Bemis, the senate committee's auditor, and to Daniels and Baldwin, the committee investigators. He had been taken by Groh, he said, to the home of Frank Ortlepp, and Ortlepp, a former telephone company employé, had tapped the wires of the W. C. Dannenberg apartment.

Bribe Offer Told.

Other testimony offered by Carlstrom and Dannenberg was that Groh had paid money to Kenneth Wilson, a Dannenberg operative, to betray his chief, and that Wilson, at Dannenberg's direction, had given false names and information which subsequently was observed in the hands of Chairman Nye and which resulted in subpoenas for four witnesses whose names had been furnished by Wilson. It was the fact that Senator Nye at once subpoenaed the persons with the false names that, in Mr. Carlstrom's view, linked Wilson's activities directly with Nye.

Cole and Otrlepp were the two men who were the subject of habeas corpus proceedings on Monday. They were being held, Mr. Carlstrom said, in order to keep them from being intimidated by committee agents.

Mrs. Reinecke on Stand.

Mrs. Reinecke, a slender little woman in a brown suit, her eyes flashing, faced the committee twice during the day. She was asked in detail about a $2,500 check signed by Col. Robert R. McCormick, which had been turned over to her by Mrs. Ruth McCormick for use in the political organizations which needed them.

The check originally came in on Oct. 24 last and was turned in for the use of the Illinois Republican Women's club. It had been cashed and the money when it was finally given to the club was credited by the treasurer, Clarence Avildsen, to George Reinecke, Mrs. Reinecke's husband. Mr. Avildsen said he was under the impression it came from that source, but could not recall that any one told him so. Mr. Reinecke, who was called, knew nothing about it.

In the course of this examination Senator Wagner asked:

"Do you think campaign expenditures should be limited, Mrs. Reinecke?"

"How can you limit them?" she replied. "If you are going to limit them, how offset the work done by federal employés for a sitting senator? It may be worth millions. In this state the federal workers must have the endorsement of their ward committeemen or be discharged. A three million dollar pay roll is used. The superior officer takes the radio and broadcasts."

Retorts to Chairman.

"Have these things been reported?" asked Chairman Nye.

"You are here to investigate," snapped Mrs. Reinecke. "They are paid to do political work day and night."

"This means that none but a rich man or woman can run for office," said Senator Dill.

"The committee has done nothing about investigating the Deneen expenses," said Mrs. Reinecke. "What about a program like this [she held up a pamphlet] $50 a page, 30 pages, in each ward. How are you going to limit expenditures?"

"Well, it works well enough to keep people from being seated when the election is in violation of the law," said Senator Dill.

Nye Refuses Information.

"You are interfering with Mrs. McCormick's campaign," said Mrs. Reinecke.

"We act only where objections are filed," said the chairman.

"Who filed objections here?" asked Mrs. Reinecke.

"You may ask and I deny the information," said the chairman.

"With the record of the United States senate refusing to seat three who spent enormous amounts of money, it is strange that workers here approve such a course," said Senator Dill.

"The state of Illinois should have some rights—it hasn't had any so far," was the reply.

"Some of us were shadowed," said Senator Dill. "If we had been let alone we might not have been here."

Compares Smith Case.

Senator Wagner brought up the Frank L. Smith case and wanted to know if Mrs. Reinecke thought expenditures and contributions in that campaign were proper. [It was charged against Mr. Smith that his senate campaign fund had received gifts from Public Utility sources. He had been chairman of the state commerce commission.]

"It is not at all comparable," Mrs. Reinecke said.

"Don't you think the American people are shocked to have a woman spend $300,000 for a seat in the senate?" asked Senator Wagner.

"I think they would be more shocked if they knew how the federal groups go out to perpetuate themselves in office," was her reply.

"None of the sitting senators spent any such sum," said Senator Wagner.

"Yes, but you had an organization back of you."

Reply Causes Laughter.

This reference to Tammanay Hall support set the room into laughter.

"I do not think the government is so impotent that it cannot stop this tremendous expenditure," said Senator Wagner.

"Then you must stop federal expenditures. Nothing has been done here except ride a woman candidate who has won a Republican nomination. She had no organization. Illinois is a big state. There are more people here than in Senator Nye's own state. My own ward has 125,000. It takes money to sell a campaign. Mr. Wrigley spent 80 millions in advertising gum."

Walter E. Schmidt, president of the Calumet National bank, testified concerning the cashing of a $10,000 check which Col. Robert R. McCormick had sent to the candidate just before the primary. Mrs. Reinecke had cashed it and then, when she found out the organizations did not need the money, turned the cash back to Mrs. McCormick, who put it away for the present campaign.

Asks About $20 Fee.

Chairman Nye tried to hook up the cashing of this check with the payment of a $20 fee by Mrs. Reinecke the day after election to O. G. Davis, 3407 West Van Buren street, a voice teacher, who had been employed as an election watcher.

Davis said that he had worked in many elections for Arthur Burrage Farwell, but on this election the funds at Mr. Farwell's disposal were low and he had recommended him to Mrs. Reinecke. He said that Mrs. Reinecke sent him into the First ward and instructed him to watch over Mrs. McCormick's interests there.

When he went for his money, he said, Mrs. Reinecke took him into a room, sent out two other persons, and pulled a large roll of bills from her pocketbook, out of which she gave him $20. Then, he said, she asked for a receipt, but said that it could not be made in Mrs. McCormick's name and she would use the name of a woman friend in Florida, and this was done.

Mrs. Reinecke testified that Davis was mistaken about this and about her asking him to work for Mrs. McCormick. She said that she had asked him to work for the election commission, and that the bill had been paid by Mrs. Albert T. Bigler, 7240 South Shore drive. She said this payment had nothing to do with the money she got from the $10,000 check.

James W. Rogers, who handled funds for Mrs. McCormick, will be the first witness this morning. Subpœnas have been issued for T. B. Thompson, editor of the Rockford Republic, which is owned by Mrs. McCormick; H. L. Boynton of Byron, Harry Warner of Dixon, and Charles H. Green of Freeport. The committee expects to conclude the hearings in Chicago this week.

Carlstrom Statement Accuses Senate Committee's Agents

In his statement prepared for the Nye investigating committee yesterday, but which he was not permitted to give before the committee, Attorney General Carlstrom said:

"I desire the privilege of making a brief statement on behalf of Ruth Hanna McCormick indicating her attitude toward the committee and the present status of this investigation.

"I appear in what might be termed a triple capacity as the personal friend and counsellor of Mrs. McCormick, as one of the active Republican leaders of Illinois interested in her candidacy, and as the attorney general of the state, because I conceive the interests of the state to be involved in this investigation.

Tells Nominee's Attitude.

"I wish to state on behalf of Mrs. McCormick and myself that it is now and ever has been her purpose and desire to give to the committee every possible coöperation and to maintain an attitude at all times respecting the dignity of this committee. Conforming with that attitude, at the first hearing of this committee Mrs. McCormick appeared and voluntarily presented to the chairman a complete and detailed statement of her expenditures as made by her personally in her campaign for the nomination as a candidate for the United States senate, supplementing this first report later by a report which brought the approximate total of expenditures by her and others to $319,000.

"Subsequent to the filing of this report of expenditures, events transpired, against which, on behalf of Mrs. McCormick and the state of Illinois, we desire earnestly to protest. Mrs. McCormick's suite of rooms in the Drake hotel was entered by some one, her personal belongings examined in detail, and later her office at the farm near Byron was broken into and apparently a thorough examination of all her private papers was made, without warrant of law.

Charges Farm Phone Tapped.

"It is discovered that the telephone line leading into her home near Byron has been and is now tapped. Upon the happening of these events, Mrs. McCormick took steps to protect her interests and to ascertain, if possible, who had been guilty of these outrages, and in pursuance of that purpose employed the W. C. Dannenberg Detective agency on or about July 21.

"Subsequent to the employment of the Dannenberg agency, it is discovered that the private telephone wire leading to the apartment of Dannenberg has also been tapped and we have present witnesses whom we desire the committee to hear who will testify to the method and manner in which Dannenberg's wires were tapped and will further testify that they were employed and were paid for such services by one David S. Groh.

Cites Investigation Record.

"The record in this investigation shows that Groh has been reporting to Baldwin and Daniels, investigators for this committee, in the room of the latter and in the lobby of the Palmer house; that Groh has been seen in the office of Bemis, the auditor for this committee; that Groh attempted to place his men in Dannenberg's employment; that Groh paid money to one of Dannenberg's men to secure information from Dannenberg's office, and to steal the file in this case; that Wilson gave to Groh that information which Dannenberg authorized him to give and that such information [names of witnesses and telephone slips] has already appeared in the hands of this committee during the proceedings on Sept. 2 and 3.

"It is upon that showing that we are justified in believing that Groh was being used by this committee, or by its chairman, who has functioned alone for the committee in Illinois, except at the hearings of Sept. 2 and 3, when Senator Dale sat for the first time.

"Wilson gave to Groh, as a means of checking on his activities, false information as to the names of three persons whom he told Groh were employés of the Dannenberg agency. The connection of Groh with the chairman of this committee became immediately evident when these three persons were at once subpoenaed to appear before the committee.

"Wilson, with further purpose to test Groh's connection with the investigation, gave him a number of yellow information slips, purporting to have come from the waste paper basket in Dannenberg's office, and in the subsequent hearing held by the chairman these slips were found to be in the possession of the chairman.

"An operative employed by the Dannenberg agency in Washington, D. C., to make investigations was located by the committee and in lieu of the service of a subpoena for his attendance, or rather in connection with the service of a subpoena on said witness, the secretary to the chairman of this committee, accompanied by two United States marshals and an agent of the department of justice, compelled said witness to accompany them immediately and said witness was brought to Chicago, forbidden to communicate with any person and ordered not to respond to the calling of his name at the railroad station and virtually brought to the committee here as a prisoner.

Tells of Nebraska Reports.

"Shortly before employing the Dannenberg agency, Mrs. McCormick was informed by the public press that during the presence of Chairman Nye in Nebraska persons representing themselves to be federal officers were attempting to arrange for the tapping of the telephone wires of citizens of Nebraska and attempting to arrange clandestinely to examine the personal and private correspondence of these gentlemen."

"An employé of this committee appeared in the Harris Trust and Savings bank and demanded the privilege of an examination of the account of W. C. Dannenberg in said bank. Upon being met with a protest and question as to the authority of the bank to permit such action, the employé of the committee left the bank and the chairman of the committee subsequently went in person to the said bank, stating that as the chairman of the committee he had the authority to demand the right of examining Dannenberg's accounts, and under such pressure compelled the bank to place at his disposal the entire records of Dannenberg's bank transactions.

An Event of Sept. 2.

"On Sept. 2 two marshals, agents of this committee, entered the offices of W. C. Dannenberg, finding only his secretary, a woman, present, and demanded that she open each of the doors to the several rooms of the suite of offices, that she open the private safe in the office, and invaded the rights, property, and papers of W. C. Dannenberg, a private citizen without legal justification.

"Mrs. Klober, the secretary to Mr. Dannenberg referred to, was thereupon all but forcibly taken directly before the committee to testify, all of which acts we respectfully submit to the committee are without warrant of law and not within the scope and purpose of the resolution which created this committee.

"We respectfully protest this method of conducting this investigation, both on behalf of the state of Illinois and of Mrs. McCormick personally, and submit to the gentlemen of the committee that Mrs. McCormick's willingness to coöperate at the outset with this committee in its authorized purposes does not entitle her to be thus treated.

"It is impossible for Mrs. McCormick, and those of us who are seeking to advise her and protect her interests, to coöperate further with the investigation unless these objectionable features are corrected and discontinued, and we submit to the committee this statement and offer of proof with the confidence that the membership of the committee will feel in duty bound and in justice to Mrs. McCormick seriously to give consideration to these matters and so far as possible correct the injury that has been done to Mrs. McCormick."

WIRE TAPPING EPISODE TOLD BY DETECTIVE

Sworn Statement Accuses Senate Agents.

Following, in part, is the text of the George E. Cole affidavit offered yesterday to the Nye investigating committee:

"My name is George E. Cole, also known as George Cohen. I live at 1032 North Dearborn street, Chicago. I am 42 years of age, married, and have one daughter 22 years of age. I went to the Consolidated Employment agency probably two weeks prior to July 24, 1930. I paid them $15, for which they obtained for me a job as night clerk, telephone operator, and night elevator man at a building at 401 Fullerton parkway, also known as the Patrician apartments.

"I have known David S. Groh for about 20 years and worked for him as an investigator about three years ago. Later I was on the road, and when I came back I ran into him downtown. During 1930 I worked for Groh on perhaps one-half dozen cases. Business was quiet and I went to Mr. Folker and told him that Mr. Davidson, who was a night clerk at 1032 North Dearborn street, sent me there. I asked Mr. Folker for a job as house detective or clerk of a hotel.

Obtains Apartment Position.

"Later I was called by telephone and told of a position at the Patrician apartments, and I applied for and obtained a position. I began on July 24. The next day or two I called Groh and told him that I had the position and my hours were from 11 p. m. until 8 a. m. I told him if he had any work during the day I was working nights and he could arrange accordingly. Some time later I told him that W. C. Dannenberg was a tenant in the building where I was employed.

"In August on a Saturday afternoon Mr. Groh called me up and asked me to come to a room in the McCormick building, the office of a Mr. Bemis, and I did so. Mr. Groh came out of some office with another man who was introduced to me as Mr. Bemis.

"Mr. Groh took me into the hall and gave me a description of two men who were supposed to be shadowing Mr. Bemis. Mr. Groh and I went down the elevator where the heavy set man he had described had disappeared but another man was pointed out to me by Groh. Mr. Groh told me to follow that man and determine if he followed Mr. Bemis.

Tells of Shadowing Shadow.

"In a few minutes Mr. Bemis came out and the man followed him to the Congress street elevated station. Mr. Bemis took the elevated and left the train at the Thorndale station. He was followed by the man I was following until Mr. Bemis reached his home. The man following Mr. Bemis finally left and went to a vacant apartment at 6016 Broadway above a store.

"I remained in the vicinity and there met Groh by pre-arrangement. The man came out again and connected with an automobile, the number of which Groh and I took and learned that it was registered in the name of C. Clark Albers. We then knew that the man was connected with W. C. Dannenberg whom I had known for nearly 20 years. For several nights thereafter Groh and I went out and shadowed Bemis' home. Every time Mr. Bemis left his home we found a connection with occupants of the vacant apartment.

"Groh first told me he was employed by Michael Igoe and James Hamilton Lewis. Later he told me to go to the Baltimore and Ohio station to meet the Capitol limited from Washington; that Mr. Bemis would be there to meet two men who were coming in, who Mr. Groh told me were Mr. Daniels and Mr. Baldwin. I was directed by Mr. Groh to determine if Mr. Bemis were being shadowed. When the two men arrived I saw them connect with Mr. Bemis and I saw them enter Mr. Bemis' automobile. Immediately I observed John Dannenberg, whom I know, following the car in which Mr. Bemis was a passenger.

"On several occasions Groh called for me at my home with his car and drove me to the vicinity of the Palmer house and said he was going to see Messrs. Baldwin and Daniels. Groh told me that on several occasions he had seen Earl Dannenberg in the Palmer house with another man who appeared to be an operative.

"I shadowed W. C. Dannenberg on one occasion, Earl Dannenberg to a loop hotel as directed by Groh and reported to Groh a description of the man with whom they connected. Sometime about the middle of August Groh called me and told me to meet him and go out to the house of a man whom one Morgan Crandall had introduced me to as Frank Ortlepp, a former employé of the Telephone company, then connected with the La Salle detective agency.

"That evening I met Groh at my home and drove in his car to Ortlepp's home. Groh went in and brought out Ortlepp, whom I had met, and I then drove Groh's car to 401 Fullerton parkway. Groh told me that Ortlepp was going to put a tap on the private telephone line of W. C. Dannenberg.

"Groh and Ortlepp stayed in the car until I gave an agreed signal and then Ortlepp entered the building and examined the switchboard and other telephone equipment.

"I was instructed by Groh to listen in on the tap as the opportunity presented from time to time. As a matter of fact, I overheard very few messages over the tap but I do recall overhearing a few which I reported to Groh.

"At the same time I listened in on the hotel lines and on one occasion overheard a long distance call from Mr. Albers who called from North Dakota, and the next day I repeated the conversation to Groh. I listened in on every conversation I could and promptly reported them to Groh.

"I received several sums of money from Groh, sometimes ten dollars, sometimes more."

Senator Nye Tells Attitude on Charges of Espionage

Following is the statement issued yesterday by Senator Nye as chairman of the senatorial committee investigation Illinois senate campaign expenditures:

"The committee considers necessary at this time a statement setting out certain facts, and would like to make it a matter of record that early in July it became somewhat evident that espionage was being practiced and directed against members of the committee and its employés, and that its office files were being tampered with. Espionage was carried to such a point as to constitute prying into the personal and private affairs of members of the committee and its employés.

"The records and lives of members of the committee were being scrutinized by detectives. Operatives had the effrontery to ask acquaintances of members of this committee who would be persons close enough to said members to be able to talk to them, 'make them see the light, and do the right thing.'

Committee Begins Inquiries.

"Early in August the committee instituted inquiries to ascertain who was doing this work and who was hiring it done. Without expense it was readily ascertained that the people carrying on these operations were agents of the W. C. Dannenberg Detective agency of Chicago.

"There could not then be more than a suspicion as to whose purse was paying for this service, but there was good reason to believe that the author of the work probably was a candidate for the United States senate, whose campaign was under investigation by this committee, for the possible purpose of obtaining facts unfavorable to the reputations of members of the committee, with the object of hindering and obstructing its work.

"The committee thereupon instituted a more searching inquiry to ascertain the facts, and, if it was found that a candidate for the senate was responsible, to determine positively the object of the espionage and the cost of the same, which might be properly chargeable as a campaign expenditure.

Hearings Are Started.

"On Aug. 30 the committee instituted hearings to this end, which were followed three days later by further hearings at Chicago, at which time subpoenas were issued calling for the appearance before the committee of officials and agents of the Dannenberg agency. Coincident with the issuance of these subpoenas, the press of Chicago carried the statement by Ruth Hanna McCormick, a candidate for the United States senate, whose primary campaign had been a subject of investigation by the committee, in which statement she admitted having herself employed the Dannenberg agency. Mr. W. C. Dannenberg, head of the agency so employed, confirmed Mrs. McCormick's statement.

"As a matter of fact, prior to the publication of Mrs. McCormick's statement, the committee had issued a subpoena for W. C. Dannenberg, commanding him to produce all records of his agency pertinent to the case under inquiry. The committee could not properly be interested in these records except as they might reveal the fees paid by, and the purposes actuating, the person or persons employing this agency, and any such interest as the committee may hereafter display will be directed toward those ends.

"Says Accounting Is Expected."

"The committee, of course, anticipates that Mrs. McCormick will make a complete accounting at the end of her campaign of all sums paid for these services. At the time the committee originally called for the Dannenberg records, it believed them to contain information of value; it does not now entertain that belief.

"The insinuation has been made that persons in the employ of this committee broke into the business office of Mrs. McCormick on the night of July 16 and took therefrom certain records. This the committee denies categorically and finally.

"No member of this committee, either directly or indirectly, and no employé of this committee, either directly or indirectly, had anything to do with this alleged theft, or has any knowledge of it. The honor and dignity of the United States senate itself would be involved in such a proceeding, and this committee is jealous of the honor and dignity of the United States senate.

Denies Any Espionage.

"This committee has neither authorized nor permitted any form of espionage against any candidate, nor has any such espionage been practiced by the committee or its employés. Nor shall it be done. We are not interested in Mrs. McCormick's private affairs or in her daily comings and goings.

"If there is any candidate whose mind is so uneasy that he feels impelled to employ persons to spy upon members of this committee such candidate may well be left to justify the good taste and propriety of such action before the bar of public opinion.

"The most conclusive answer to the slanderous insinuations that the committee instigated the alleged theft of those records may be found in the fact that it could not possibly make use of any records obtained by such methods. On the other hand, if the records contained any information pertinent to the inquiry the committee was armed with ample authority to obtain and use them."

POWER MISUSED IN INQUIRY, SAYS W. C. DANNENBERG

The statement offered to the Nye investigating committee by W. C. Dannenberg, head of the detective agency employed by Ruth Hanna McCormick, follows in part:

"Following hearings begun by your committee certain incidents occurred which occasioned Mrs. McCormick grave concern, and on July 21, 1930, she employed myself and associates to make an investigation of those incidents to learn, if possible, who were concerned with them and the motives.

"I directed one of my associates, C. Clark Albers, to go to North Dakota to gather all possible biographical data concerning the chairman of this commmittee. He was instructed to make his investigation openly and not to conceal his identity or connections. While there Mr. Albers was subpoenaed to appear before a subcommittee of this committee on Aug. 30, 1930, at which time, I am informed, he made full and direct answer to all questions put to him.

Appears Before Committee.

"On Sept. 2 I learned that this committee had convened in Chicago and had issued a subpoena for me. I appeared voluntarily and in response to the committee's questions fully detailed the scope of the investigation undertaken and its pursuit up to that time. I was then served with a subpoena to appear before the committee the following morning and to bring with me all records in my possession or under my control, having relation to the said committee on senatorial campaign expenditures.

"I sought counsel and was advised that grave doubts were entertained as to the jurisdiction of the committee to inquire into the subject matter as a whole and more serious doubts existed as to the right of the subcommittee to pursue the line of inquiry then under way.

"The writings called for in the subpœna are for the most part mingled with records having to do with business of other clients and their public disclosure would not only result in serious embarrassment to those clients and myself but might entail substantial and irreparable damage.

"Since this investigation was undertaken, my associates, myself, and members of our families have been followed by persons connected with one David S. Groh, who was convicted of manslaughter and served a term of imprisonment therefor, and for that reason cannot obtain a license to operate an investigating agency in Chicago.

"My telephone lines at my home have been tapped, contrary to the provisions of the Illinois statutes, making such offense a misdemeanor. My office has been under almost constant surveillance."

Committee Chairman Acts.

Mr. Dannenberg then details the Kenneth Wilson episode referred to in Gen. Carlstrom's statement; also the matter of his telegrams, and continues:

"A subpoena was served on the cashier of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, with which my accounts are kept, requiring the production of statements of accounts, deposit slips, and the canceled checks drawn against those accounts during and for the months of July and August, 1930, of myself, and two of my brothers, John and Earl, who are associated with me in business.

"When the bank officials demurred the chairman of this committee appeared in person at the bank and demanded in the name of the senate, and received, permission to examine all of the records in the possession of the bank mentioned in the subpoena, which subpoena did not even pretend to any limitation to the matters under inquiry by the committee.

"For the first 20 days of the period mentioned in the subpoena served upon the bank I had not even met Mrs. McCormick nor had I ever been employed by her or on her behalf.

Private Affairs Intruded.

"There has been a studied and deliberate intrusion into the private affairs of myself and clients. My investigation was designed to obtain all possible biographical data concerning the chairman and to learn the activities of certain of the committee's agents and investigators.

"Except to learn who attended a meeting in Glacier National park, no investigation or inquiry was undertaken of any other member of the committee. If any other activity has been undertaken relating to any other member of this committee I assert that I had no connection and have no knowledge concerning it. I now deny any act or intent to intimidate or "frame" any member of this committee or its employés.

"Since your subpoena was served upon me I have examined a copy of the resolution of the United States senate under which your inquiry is being conducted.

"Upon consideration of that resolution I am of the opinion and have been advised that the demand of the committee for the production of papers in my possession or under my control is beyond the jurisdiction of the committee. My employment by the committee."

LEWIS IGNORES DOCTOR; GOES ON WITH CAMPAIGN

Speaks at Freeport When Advised to Rest.

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Despite a severe cold and throat trouble, James Hamilton Lewis ripped into the "hypocrisy," which he asserted had been shielding the Republican party for the last ten years, as he addressed a gathering of nearly 800 people at Odd Fellows hall here tonight.

The colonel visited a throat specialist today and was advised to rest for a few days, but declined to obey and made ready to continue his tour into Ogle, Lee, and Whiteside counties tomorrow.

Asks for State Control.

There was little evidence of the throat affection as the grizzled campaigner sallied into his political opponents. Asking a return to state control of prohibtion, and charging the Republican administration with putting over the eighteenth admendment for the sole purpose of building a machine of lifelong officeholders, under the guise of a great moral movement, Col. Lewis demanded that conditions be rectified by unloading from office those holding position "under a rule of tyranny."

Relief for tillers of the soil, "who cannot now get their honest share of reward from their toil," was another topic for the senate candidate, who alleged the government had sold $30,000,000 worth of ships for ten per cent of their value, making it almost impossible for farmers to get their products to market, the purchasers boosting shipping rates to a prohibitive scale.

Demand for Equality.

"Equality of opportunity in whatever occupation you choose and a guaranteed of liberty for all," is the pledge of democracy, according to Col. Lewis. "Master thieves, robbers, and booze bandits" were some of the terms applied by the speaker during his discourse relative to those controlling the government.

CLEVELAND HAILS '?' AND CREW; FLYERS IN TRIBUTE TO HERRICK

Cleveland, O., Sept. 16.—(AP)—France's two unofficial ambassadors to the United States, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, today received the plaudits of Cleveland for their recent Paris to New York flight and carried the homage of France to the grave of a former ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick.

Coste silently placed a wreath on the tomb as a tribute not only of himself and Bellonte but of the French people. Then the flyers turned to Parmely Herrick, son of the ambassador, to express their grief and that of their nation at having lost a good friend.

Delayed on the second day of their 25 day national good will tour of the United States by murky weather which forced an unscheduled stop at Syracuse, N. Y., on their way here from Boston, the flyers landed at 4:52 p. m. at Cleveland airport. Nearly two hours behind schedule, they were rushed from their ocean spanning plane, Question Mark, to an amphibian which whisked them to the downtown Lake Erie aquaport, where they were greeted by city and civic leaders.

Coste and Bellonte are to leave early tomorrow for Indianapolis, circling over Akron and Columbus en route. Tomorrow night they are scheduled to spend in Detroit after circling over Fort Wayne and Toledo.

SCIENTIST WINS POINT IN MAKING POWER FROM SEA

MATANZAS, Cuba, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Prof. Georgés Claude today progressed one step nearer his ambition to make the gulf stream produce electric energy when he succeeded in sucking up from the depths of the ocean water at a temperature only two and one-half degrees centigrade warmer than he had calculated. He hopes to produce electrical energy by taking advantage of the difference in temperatures between surface and deep waters.

The French scientist last night saw the last section of his 1,700 yard steel tube placed in position. The pumps were put to work and cold water at a temperature of 13 degrees centigrade [55.4 Fahrenheit] came through.

Prof. Claude had estimated that the water 2,000 feet below sea level at this point would be ten and a half degrees centigrade, and was pleased that his calculations had been so close.

GUNMAN SHOOTS VICTIM 5 TIMES, FLEES IN TAXICAB

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Lawson and John Mason, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Hugo M. Friend.

Douglas Henderson and William Walker, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the bridewell and fined $200; William Mills, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

Joseph Martolotto, 37 years old, 1234 South Paulina street, was shot in the face and shoulder yesterday by a gunman, who escaped in a Checker taxicab. A witness of the shooting was Daniel Laya, 2957 West Van Buren streeet, chauffeur of another Checker cab.

Laya, with a passenger, Mrs. William Highberger of 2108 Bissell street was passing the intersection of Dayton and Halsted streets. Martolotto was standing on the corner. A man leaped from a cab, fired five times at him, and then, as Martolotto fell to the sidewalk, leaned over him and pulled the trigger again, but the gun jammed. Te jumped back into the cab, which sped away. Laya pursued it for three blocks, then he lost the trail, but he obtained the license number. Officials of the Checker Cab company are searching for the driver.

Martolotto, from the bridewell hospital, called Sam Catalano, owner of an employment agency, and when the latter arrived he was seized by the police for inspection by witnesses. Martolotto is employed by the wholesale grocery concern of Morici brothers. Its chief partners, Antonio and Agostino, were killed in January of 1926, supposedly for refusing to contribute to the Scalise-Anselmi defense fund.

RUSSIA CHARTERS FIVE GERMAN VESSELS TO HELP DUMP WHEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—To intensify its grain dumping in foreign countries Russia is chartering German vessels to transport grain. A quarter of a million of German tonnage is now idle in Hamburg owing to the world freight depression. Five vessels, aggregating 32,000 tons, have been chartered, and are being prepared for Russian grain exports. They will sail for Leningrad and Black Sea ports.

French Wheat Crop Low.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The wheat crop in France this season will be so poor as to constitute a disaster, according to estimates by Delphin Destombe, a statistician in the bourse de commerce, who places the total crop at 56,500,000 quintals.

Should this estimate prove to be accurate, France will be obliged to import 30,000,000 quintals to supply her needs. At the ministry of agriculture, however, it is stated tonight that all estimates are premature.

LEAGUE ACCEPTS "PRINCIPLE" OF U. S. OF EUROPE

Will Name Committee to Work Out Details.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—Just at the moment when the work he had been building up for years seemed tumbling in ruins all around him, Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, today snatched at least a partial victory out of a seemingly hopeless defeat.

Today witnessed a triple triumph for him—the presentation to the league of nations assembly of his great dream for a united states of Europe in the most favorable form possible; a public reconciliation with British Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson at the journalists' luncheon, and a tacit repudiation of the noisy campaign for a revision of the peace treaties by Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, in the face of the sweeping Fascist victory in the German elections.

Committee to Study Scheme.

The projected united states of Europe was formally presented to the league assembly tonight and was at the same time removed from league of nations machinery by a resolution, which all the delegations signed, calling for a special committee to study the scheme.

The wording of the resolution leaves the various nations with a free hand. It merely requests that they study the plan in coöperation with the league secretariat and submit concrete formulæ on how to put it into practice at the next assembly.

It is understood, however, that the foreign ministers of the various European countries will organize a committee, of which M. Briand will be chairman, and that a meeting will be held soon at Geneva to work out an agenda. The non-European members of the league, and possibly Russia, will be represented by observers; but they will not participate in the deliberations.

Urge New Disarm Parley.

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The urgent need of calling a general conference on disarmament at an early date was emphasized today by Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany, making his first appearance before the league assembly, and Sig. Scialoja of Italy one of the veterans of the league's work.

The German minister spoke in a conciliatory tone upon most of the questions before the league today but struck out vigorously in favor of a definite scheme of disarmament. He said that the victorious nations in the treaty of Versailles had promised they would adopt a plan for laying aside their fighting armaments and insisted that security could never be attained as long as rivalry existed in military, naval and air forces.

The Italian spokesman's declaration was somewhat along the same line. The Mussolini government, he said, is ready to enter into a general scheme for reducing armed forces to the lowest level consistent with the demands of national defense.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS TO PROBE PROBLEM OF WORLD FARMING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—The league of nations assembly today took official cognizance of a movement developing in central Europe to solve the world-wide farm crisis by the formation of an international agrarian bloc to regulate farm production.

The question was formally stated in concrete form by August Zaleski, Polish foreign minister, who recounted the progress made by central European nations and agricultural organizations. He asked the league to investigate the problem and the league secretariat to coöperate in the formation of regional agrarian blocks.

His resolution was approved by the assembly, which decided to place it on the agenda for early discussion.

M. Zaleski told how central European countries are banding together to regulate the production of crops and marketing and arrange an equitable system of agricultural tariff, which might point the way for world-wide application.

KEGEL TRANSFERS TONNEY, EXPERT IN RESEARCH

Dr. Frederick O. Tonney, director of the research laboratories of the health department, yesterday was transformed by Health Commissioner Kegel to a post in the laboratory maintained at the Municipal Contagious hospital.

In the main laboratory in the city hall, Dr. Tonney was perfecting a new method of measuring ultra-light rays and he had written a number of papers for scientific and medical magazines. In addition, he was directing employés in research problems that now will be turned over to Dr. J. L. White.

In the new position Dr. Tonney, according to Dr. Kegel, has been ordered to organize a new research department under the orders of Dr. Archibald Hoyne, superintendent of the hospital.

INDIA'S VICEROY SUBMITS PLAN FOR FUTURE RULE

British Cabinet to Study Recommendations.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The report of Viceroy Lord Irwin on the Indian government's plans for the future of India has now been received by the British government and some of Prime Minister MacDonald's ministers feel it should go a long way towards satisfying the Indian Nationalists, at least as a basis for discussion.

It has received the unanimous support of the members of the viceroy's council, governors and lieutenant-governors of the British Indian provinces, and has also won the general approval of the Indian moderate leaders, such as Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar.

The secretary of state for India is also said to have approved of it, and it will be discussed within the next week or two by the British cabinet in preparation for the round table conference.

Outline of Plan.

The plan falls under the following heads:

1. Establishment of an Indian cabinet under an Indian prime minister with control over the national building departments.

2. A minister of defense to be appointed immediately and placed in charge of a contemplated Indian militia and such sections of the Indian army as may be transferred from the present British forces.

3. That debts, pensions, and army charges be the first charges on Indian revenue.

4. That future enlistments in Indian civil service are to be made by the new ministry, and all who desire to retire immediately are to be compensated. By the end of 30 years all existing contracts are to expire and the service is to be entirely controlled by the ministry.

Free Indian States.

5. Relations with the free Indian states are to be reserved during the initial stages, but with the adhesion of the states to the federal government this reservation disappears, except for the right of appeal by either party in event of interstate disputes.

6. The provinces are to be entirely autonomous except for all-India purposes, in which case they will act as agents of the government of India.

7. The government of India is to prepare for a resurvey of India's debts and all future commitments are to require the sanction of the Indian parliament.

Seek Treaty Revision.

Simultaneously with this comes news that the independent states, whose existence is guaranteed by treaties, first with the old East India company and then with the king and emperor, are now moving for a revision of these treaties.

Virtually all the states are now prepared to enter the federal government of India and the rulers feel that it is time to revise the treaties which, though favoring them on the whole, also restrict them in some respects.

It is suggested that a new general covenant be drawn up which might be accepted by the Indian states, the Indian federal government, and the crown.

TRAP 5 TRYING TO SELL 'HOT' BONDS TO HONEST MAN

Police Arrest Gang with Million Stolen Securities

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Five men accused by police of stealing thousands of dollars from banks and brokerage houses in a series of audacious schemes during the last few months were arrested early today.

They were charged with having in their possession stolen securities, and Nathan Wilson and Samuel Bordes, the supposed leaders, were held in $50,000 bail each. The others asked that no bail be fixed until their counsel could confer with the court, and all five were committed to the Tombs. Police say the alleged theft will total $1,000,000 or more.

The five, police said, posed as employés of companies to which bonds had been consigned and took them from messengers.

The five owe their arrest to the carelessness of Sidney Gottlieb, 30, in offering to sell "hot" or stolen securities to an honest man.

Four weeks ago Gottlied, who said he was a broker and securities salesman, approached this man and said that he had $1,000,000 worth of "hot" securities to dispose of, the man promptly informed the National Surety comany.

DEMOCRATS RAIL AT HOOVER'S PICK ON TARIFF BOARD

Pat Harrison Leader in Criticism.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—President Hoover's new tariff commission, announced today, failed to satisfy the Democrats. Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] criticized four of the five appointments thus far made, announced the intention to fight confirmation of at least one of them and accused the President of partisanship in leaving vacant one of the three Democratic memberships.

The five members thus far appointed are Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, chairman, whose selection was announced some time ago; John Lee Coulter of North Dakota, and E. B. Brossard, Republicans, and Thomas Walker Page of Virginia, also named previously and Alfred P. Dennis of Maryland, Democrats.

Mr. Fletcher was American ambassador to Chile, Mexico, Belgium and Italy, besides earlier service in less important positions in China, Cuba and Portugal, and as undersecretary of state.

Four Former College Professors.

The four former college professors are Mr. Coulter, who is at present chief economist of the tariff commission, but previously was president of the North Dakota agricultural college; Mr. Brossard, chairman of the outgoing tariff commission and previously professor of agricultural economics and farm management of the Utah agricultural college; Mr. Page, a former chairman of the tariff commission in the Wilson administration and previously a professor of economics in the Universities of California, Texas and Virginia; and Mr. Dennis, vice chairman of the old commission who was professor of history and politics at Smith college and also on the Princeton faculty before becoming a commercial attaché of the department of commerce.

Mr. Brossard's confirmation by the senate will be fought, Senator Harrison asserted. Some criticism of the President's failure to name representatives of industrial groups also is anticipated.

From a geographical standpoint there also may be criticism as of the five members, three represent the adjacent states of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, while the other two come from the territory between the Mississippi and the Rocky mountains.

Harrison's Criticisms.

Senator Harrison criticized Mr. Fletcher as "not a tariff expert, but a diplomat"; Prof. Coulter because his appointment as chief economist of the tariff commission was made at the instance of Mr. Brossard; Mr. Brossard as "the special advocate of the sugar interests"; and Mr. Dennis because he joined with Mr. Brossard in a statement asserting that agriculture would benefit from the new tariff law. Only Mr. Page escaped criticism.

By withholding the appointment of one Democrat Senator Harrison said the three Republicans would be able to control against two Democrats in reorganizing the commission and that this was "rank partisanship" on the part of the President. The third Democrat, President Hoover promises, will be named within a week or ten days.

CANADA ORDERS RAISE IN TARIFF AS JOBLESS AID

25,000 Expected to Get Work by Revision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 16.—Sky high protection against the world in general and the United States in particular was offered to Canada today as Premier R. B. Bennett's cure for unemployment and the present business depression.

Major tariff increases provided for in a bill announced in parliament are aimed against farm machinery, automobile parts, fresh meats, butter, gasoline, boots and shoes, iron and steel, cotton and woolen textiles, machinery, and paper. The jettisoning of the late Liberal government's countervailing duties against America in favor of rigid duties of about the same proportions is but a forerunner, Premier Bennett said, to a complete upward tariff revision next session.

The new schedules go into effect tomorrow pending formal action of parliament.

Highest in History.

Some of today's increases range as high as forty and fifty per cent, the highest in Canada's history.

The biggest specific increase affecting the United States is that increasing from 10 to 25 per cent the duty on American made farm implements. By the budget terms, the government also takes power to increase from 15 to 50 per cent the Canadian anti-dumping duties, which chiefly concern American goods. There are one hundred and seventy upward revisions in all.

Premier Bennett, as acting finance minister, delivered his own budget speech. He said he estimated that the tariff increases the government is making would provide employment for at least 25,000 Canadians now out of work.

As a safeguard to the consumers, the bill provides the cabinet may reduce or remove duties on articles whose manufacturers increase their prices. The government has exacted promises from the manufacturers that they will not increase prices to consumers.

Raise Affects United Kingdom.

Not only are American goods to be barred from Canada's markets by today's enactments, which become effective as soon as they are passed by the house of commons. Protection is also provided in many instances against imports from the United Kingdom and other British empire units.

Canada's tiff with New Zealand over New Zealand butter importations culminates in Canada enacting what is considered a prohibitive duty of 8 cents a pound against butter from anywhere in the British empire. British textile imports also are affected.

ADM. HUGHES RETIRES EARLY AS PROTEST ON NAVAL PROGRAM CUTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—Admiral Charles F. Hughes will be relieved of his duties as chief of naval operations tomorrow, six weeks before the date for his retirement, at his own request. The veteran naval officer resigned because, it was learned authoritatively, he felt that he could not support or assume responsibility for the full measure of economy that has been suggested for the navy.

GERMAN CABINET URGES BRUENING TO STICK TO JOB

Chancellor Told to Fix Reichstag Program.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The cabinet decided unanimously today that Dr. Heinrich Bruening should carry on as chancellor and place before the new reichstag on Oct. 13 a program for solving Germany's economic, financial and social problems.

The chancellor immediately will consult party leaders and see what support can be obtained for continuing his administration following Sunday's elections, which greatly increased Fascist and communist representation in the country's leading legislative house.

Meanwhile, the various parties are calling conferences to establish their views, with the state party scheduled to have the first meeting tomorrow.

Bruening May Find Support.

There is an impression that Dr. Bruening will be able to develop a strong position despite the fact that he has only 68 seats in his own party—the Centrists—while the Fascists jumped amazingly from 12 in the old reichstag to 107 in the new, with the Socialists [Social Democrats] having 143 votes in the new body.

The remainder of the votes are scattered among smaller parties, and to obtain a majority the chancellor probably will have to line up either the Fascists or Socialists. If that occurs he will be forced to give concessions. He has, however, received the support of President von Hindenburg and other influential leaders.

The definite composition of the new reichstag will hardly be known before Sept. 25, as a recount will be necessary in several doubtful cases, but it appears now that 576 members will be in the new body. This is 84 more than in the last reichstag, and it is estimated that the increase will cost the taxpayers at least 1,000,000 marks (about $240,000) more annually in salaries and free railway passes.

Break up Council Session.

Today's session of the Berlin city council, the first since the summer recess, broke up in tumult over demands by the Fascists and Communists. The Fascists, fortified by their victory Sunday, introduced a motion demanding that the council dissolve and urging it to request the Prussian diet to do likewise. It was rejected, as was a joint Communist-Fascist demand that their motion against the reich emergency law increasing municipal taxation be given preference in the proceedings.

The bourse today took the election results much more calmly than was the case yesterday. There were almost no selling orders and there were even offers of money from America and Switzerland. Numerous telephone inquiries from London and Paris indicated that foreign customers were willing to believe German bankers' assurances that Germany would continue her even course despite the vote.

Twelve Hurt in Political Clash.

ULM, Germany, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Fascists who organized a street procession here tonight clashed with members of the Social Democratic party, and a Fascist leader named Dreher and 12 others from both sides were severely injured. Several were arrested.

RUM RUNNER AND ITS CARGO RELEASED, BUT SHORTAGE IS CLAIMED

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 16—(AP)—With a cargo of 1,039 cases of returned liquor in her hold, the Canadian ship Ray Roberts was escorted to sea yesterday by three coast guard cutters.

Attorneys for the vessel and crew, seized on a smuggling charge in July, declared part of the ship's equipment and cargo was missing, among other things eleven cases of whisky, engine room tools and a barometer. They said a formal protest would be filed. Customs officials denied the alleged shortage.

The Ray Roberts was released from charges of violating smuggling laws when Attorney General Mitchell ruled terms of a treaty with Great Britain had been violated in seizing the vessel.

Bromley Drops Plans to Fly the Pacific This Year

OMINATO, Japan, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Lieut. Harold Bromley tonight abandoned his attempt to fly across the Pacific this year, but said he hoped to obtain backing for a trans-Pacific effort in 1931. Replacement of damaged parts in his monoplane "City of Tacoma" would require one month, Bromley said, and it then would be too late to attempt the flight this season. He plans to store the plane in Yokohoma during the winter.

POLICE DIFFER ON MOTIVE FOR GIRL'S MURDER

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—A variety of clews interwoven with many theories occupied the police investigation tonight of the murder of Alice Woltman, 17, in a bedroom of her home early Sunday morning.

On the basis of present information, police had two channels of speculation open to them in both of which there was to be found a degree of plausibility.

Investigators Differ.

The likelihood that the Woltman girl's murder was the result of a jealous woman seeking revenge, and either perpetrating the crime herself or by some hireling, was one theory sounded out by authorities.

The other was that a Negro, with a grudge against one or more members of the Woltman family, committed the crime.

Late tonight four Negro men were questioned, but were released. A hotel employé was also questioned and released. A bundle of clothes found on the bank of a creek was turned over to police.

The heads of the investigating agencies, police, coroner, and prosecutor, are divided on the speculative theories, and the family of the slain girl has contended that it was never involved in any trouble, either in business or domestic affairs, which might likely lead to the brutal slaying of Alice.

Killed Wrong Girl, Theory.

Some of the police officials persisted in the theory today that the killer struck the wrong girl, dovetailing this point into the speculation that a hireling may have bungled the job.

Prosecutor Harry S. Taylor said tonight that it should be a comparatively easy task to solve the Woltman murder, since the range of the investigation was limited to a grudge.

Rain Maker Appears As Result of Story In Want Ad Tribune

Several weeks ago this want ad chronicle published a letter sent to us by an Illinois druggist, asking that we place an ad in the Tribune Want Ad Section for two inches of rain. Today, just too late to be of service to the Macoupin County, Illinois, farmers and gardeners, we received this letter from a Mr. H. T., Montreal, Canada, asking that it be inserted. However, his "wet" goods would not get past the customs censor, and the want ad was rejected. We offer it here verbatim as proof that Tribune Want Ads are capable of getting most astonishing results.

"To all States affect without rain—I am ready to obtain you rain shortly and quickly, for any personnel who will make me a reasonable offer and pay by expenses. For those who believe in my words and letters here is my address in Canada."

Where else could an all-wet story like this originate, except in Canada!

Strike up the band! Here comes the parade! More than a million families settled back one day last month to watch in comfort a big parade of 3,201 used cars pass in review. All makes, all models, bearing price tags so attractive that many "spectators" left their seats to buy, formed this unique and profitable spectacle.

Demonstrator Leads.

Heading the parade was a Buick demonstrator, a 1930, 57 sedan, offered at a big saving, with a new car guarantee as well. Right behind, came a snappy Ford roadster, sport model, with a $295 price tag prominently displayed. And then came an almost endless stream of Oaklands, Reos, Pontiacs, Packards, Pierce-Arrows, Studebakers, Hupmobiles, Chevrolets, Lincolns, Cadillacs, La Salles, Rolls-Royces, and most every make known in the motor world at the present time. They were there in all models—roadsters, touring cars, sport models, sedans, cabriolets, town cars, phaetons, coupes, club sedans and coaches.

Prices Low This Year.

All along the line of march "spectators" cheered the low prices lustily. So many rare bargains which prevail now appeared among the parading cars that we want to give you a glimpse of these attractive bargains here, so you'll see the next parade yourself.

Here's a fine big Studebaker, a 1930, 4 door sedan, guaranteed, at $985. And a Cadillac, de luxe, custom built, cost originally $4,200, for $550 cash. The Fords began with a model "A" at $185 and ended with a 1930 town sedan, driven 23 miles, to be sold for $600. Then, there was an Oakland, 1930, 8 cylinders, run 1,275 miles, cost new $1,300, to be sold for $795. Another good buy was a Cord de luxe sport sedan, hardly used, on which you could save an even $1,000. The Chevrolet section was led by a bargain 1929 coach, with many extras, for $325.

Parade Every Day.

We could go on and on for hours, giving you descriptions of the many bargains in used cars that appeared in that issue of the Tribune, but it is hardly necessary, for every day the Tribune Want Ad Section stages a parade of the best buys in used cars to be found in Chicago. Right now, when prices are the lowest in years, the automobile section of the Tribune Want Ads brings you many genuine opportunities to obtain better transportation at prices so low that they cannot be ignored. Review this parade today yourself!

CARPENTERS ASK DRY LAW REPEAL AND 4 HOUR DAY

Present Resolutions to Springfield Meeting.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Illinois State Federation of Labor, in convention, received today resolutions urging employment of Illinois labor at union rates on the state's hard roads, repeal of prohibition and a four-hour day for carpenters. The resolutions were referred to a committee for consideration.

The first resolution, calling for state officials to use Illinois labor on roads, was introduced with the backing of the trades council of Collinsville and the hod carriers, painters and printing pressmen's unions of Chicago.

Maintenance of Highways.

"Millions of dollars are being spent annually by the state government for the construction and maintenance of highways," said the Collinsville groups memorandum. "In the state of Illinois a large percentage of the contracts for such work is being awarded to contractors that are employing men at starvation wages, some paying as low as 30 cents and 35 cents an hour."

To correct this condition, the Chicago unions added the plea that the convention pledge the federation to support a bill in the legislature making it mandatory on contractors to employ only citizens of Illinois on road work and directing that the prevailing union wage rates be paid.

Repeal of present dry laws, to legalize the manufacture and use of light wines and beer was demanded by the carpenters and joiners. The resolution characterized prohibition as repugnant to Christian principles. The carpenters also contended that modification of the Volstead act would stimulate activity in the building trades. Adoption of the resolution would commit the federation to an active campaign in support of the three measures for repeal of state and national dry laws which will be voted upon at the November election.

Urge Old Age Pension Law.

A four-hour day was advocated by the carpenters to relieve unemployment caused by the mechanization of industry. The proposed resolution set forth that machines were invented to save labor, but that society has failed to use the labor that has been saved.

Carpenters and joiners of Chicago also introduced a resolution calling for the establishment of a state old age pension law.

Enactment of a 44-hour week for postoffice clerks was advocated in a resolution proposed by the Chicago postoffice clerks.

Possibilities of eliminating the use of injunctions in labor disputes were discussed at the morning session by Dr. Edward Berman of the University of Illinois. He asserted that the injunction is gradually losing power as a weapon against labor.

RETRIAL FOR HANDBOOK MAN.

Harry Semmler, 128 South State street, was fined $50 yesterday on charges of operating a handbook and then was granted a new trial by Judge Edgar A. Jonas in South State street court. At the same time 15 men charged with being inmates of the Canal street handbook were granted jury trials.

DUTCH QUEEN SPEAKS OF TRADE SLUMP, NOT OF DAUGHTER'S LOVE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 16.—The world economic depression, which has struck Holland severely, formed the chief subject of Queen Wilhelmina in a speech from the throne at the opening of the Dutch parliament today. It was the first time since 1914 that the queen has delivered an address in person. She was accompanied at the ceremony by Princess Juliana, Prince Henry, and the Queen Mother Emma.

"Strenuous efforts and a wise policy with God's help must pave the way to better times," said the queen. "Among the provisions necessary to overcome the difficulties, a reform of economic service occupies a prominent place. As a crisis, however, weighs as a burden on all humanity, little result can be expected from the measures—even when they are most carefully prepared and carried out—if they are not supported by a sincere international coöperation."

The queen's address was a disappointment in one respect, as every one expected the announcement of her daughter's engagement.

MORROW LEAVES MEXICO TODAY; TO RESIGN POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow announced tonight that he will leave for the United States tomorrow, going to New Mexico for a week's vacation before proceeding to Washington to tender his resignation. This morning the ambassador, as dean of the diplomatic corps in Mexico City, placed a wreath upon the independence monument in connection with the celebration of Mexico's 120th anniversary as a republic.

Mr. Morrow's day, outside of his participation in the day's festivities, was uneventful. He was mystified by reports from the United States that he had met with accident.

The greatest military parade in Mexico's history was the chief feature of today's independence day fête. Thirty thousand troops of all branches of service marched with planes droning overhead. A crowd of 250,000 witnessed the four hour procession in a withering heat.

LAST OF CUTTEN ROBBERS GIVEN BACK TO FAMILY

Casper Rosenberg, last of the gang of nine implicated in the robbery in 1922 of Arthur Cutten's summer home near Downers Grove, was granted his freedom yesterday when State's Attorney Chauncey W. Reed of Du Page county, at the behest of Mr. Cutten, appeared before Circuit Judge Frank W. Shepherd at Wheaton and nol-prossed the charges against him.

The action officially ended Mr. Cutten's eight year effort in tracking down and prosecuting both those who plotted and those who executed the robbery. Five of the gang locked him, his wife, his brother, Harry, and four servants in a basement vault while they ransacked the house of $20,000 worth of jewels and liquor.

Rosenberg, who surrendered July 25, told Mr. Reed he had helped plan but had not participated in the robbery. He said he had gone to a small town in Michigan, where for the last five years he had been a respected family man.

NOAH BEERY'S WIFE, CAR, AND $750 ARE MISSING

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—After searching unavailingly since Sept. 8, Noah Beery, film star, invoked police aid today in a hunt for his wife, Marguerite. When Mrs. Beery disappeared from the actor's ranch in the San Fernando valley she took $750 and a large sedan. She was last seen when she appeared at the home of her brother-in-law, Wallace Beery, in an effort to cash a $150 check.

Free Evening Schools Open with 60,000 Adult Pupils

Free evening classes in 25 public schools opened last night with a record attendance of approximately 60,000 men and women, most of whom were taking elementary courses. This record attendance, according to Dr. Charles J. Lunak, in charge of evening schools, is largely due to the unemployment situation. Classes this year will only run to Nov. 15 due to a $100,000 cut in appropriation.

PARISIAN STUDIES TRADE METHODS OF CHICAGOANS

Georges Rossler of Paris, France, an official of the advertising section of the Havas agency, is in Chicago studying the business methods of concerns here which are to start advertising campaigns in his country. The Havas agency, besides operating a worldwide news service, has the largest advertising organization in Europe, with 52 branches throughout France and offices in the larger cities of the continent.

M. Rossler found most impressive in Chicago the vast scale of the buildings, boulevards, and the like, in comparison with developments in France.

He said that when he left Paris some weeks ago business generally was good, though there had been a slight depression in the field devoted to luxuries. He explained that advertising methods in France are comparable with practice in this country. One official of his organization, M. Rossler said, when he wanted to test out advertising copy asked the doorkeeper of his apartment building how she liked it. If the doorkeeper found the copy good he generally retained it.

DINE today at Raeh's Grill, the new rendezvous of those who appreciate properly cooked food, located on a spot of great historical significance to Chicago. Here, where the London Guarantee Building stands, at the crossroads of Chicago—Michigan Avenue and Wacker Drive, at the Boulevard Bridge—stood the original Fort Dearborn.

Here in 1803, following the treaty made by General Mad Anthony Wayne with the Miami Indians, a company of U. S. soldiers built a crude fort in the wilderness and named it after General Henry Dearborn, then Secretary of War.

It was around this outpost that Chicago built itself—here at the mouth of the Chicago River, where today Raeh's have opened a wonderful eating place for you.

Decorated in the Old English style for your comfort, Raeh's new grill offers a pleasant place to breakfast, lunch at noon and dine in the evening. We promise you excellent food nicely cooked and nicely served. Come this evening and enjoy a dinner at Raeh's on the site of old Fort Dearborn—you'll like the atmosphere, you'll enjoy the food and you'll find our prices most reasonable.

Eat at Raeh's new grill. Old English atmosphere — courteous, efficient waitresses. Good food.

CONSTITUTION WEEK.

A greatly needed revival of interest in our constitution is one of the heartening signs of the times. One of its expressions is the designation of one week in the year for special discussion of that great document in the schools and at civic gatherings for the purpose. The present week is Constitution week throughout the land, and we would borrow our contribution to the occasion from the recent address of the chief justice of the United States in this city.

"Our system," he said, "was the natural result of the exigencies of independent commonwealths, jealous of their prerogatives and yet composed of peoples who needed a national government operating effectively and uniformly to attain necessary national ends. The maintenance of local power in its original sources was inevitable. The consequence has been to give opportunity for what you may regard as a bewildering diversity in local laws and administration, but it has saved us from a centralization which, considering the variety of needs of developing communities in a vast extent of country, might have broken down the national government. Paradoxical as it may seem, not only the security but the efficiency of the Union lies in the appropriate maintenance of the authority of the states within the proper spheres of local government and local policy. Despite all the economic changes and the intimacies of closely related activities, notwithstanding the vast expansion of interstate commerce in novel forms leading to unanticipated applications of the national authority, which was granted with extraordinary wisdom in a very general formula, the states continue as reservoirs of power reserved, not conferred, by which they deal with a multitude of particular concerns and enjoy differentiations congenial to local sentiment.

"Whatever criticism you may pass upon the details of this organization, you will appreciate that its nature has made more easy these adaptations as a continent has been settled and state after state has been admitted to the Union on a basis of equality with the original thirteen states. However difficult it may be, in constitutional interpretation, to maintain, perfectly and to the satisfaction of all, this balance between state and nation, it is of the essence of American institutions that it should be preserved so far as human wisdom makes this possible, and that encroachments upon state authority, however contrived, should be resisted with the same intelligent determination as that which demands that the national authority should be fully exercised to meet national needs.

"This is not simply the responsibility of the courts. It is fundamentally the responsibility of the people, the ultimate repository of political power, who may make and unmake institutions and finally determine what sort of government they will have. We are constantly reminded that the streams of political life will not rise higher than their source, and that the security of the nation must ultimately be found in the sense of individual civic responsibility, in that political virtue which begins at home."

THE VELVET GLOVE.

Although there has been of late a noteworthy change of tone among prohibitionists, it should not be inferred that the controlling elements which have been dictating to congress and the administration have had a change of heart. We have read of instruction or exhortations by the federal enforcement authorities against lawless and violent methods. We have had several leading prohibitionists explaining that prohibition is directed at the liquor traffic and not at home brew. Moderate opinion has suddenly appeared and has not been rebuked by the prohibition hierarchy. We are not impressed with this ostensible change of temper. So long as the dry bosses have a majority in congress and can dictate to it there will be no essential change in law or administration. It is inherent in a movement of this nature that the extremist will drive the moderate. The rising protest against the evils brought about by prohibition has suggested the propriety of a strategic retreat so far as militant methods are concerned, but prohibition is essentially autocratic, and its methods will be as autocratic as conditions permit. The only protection against them is a removal of the autocracy from power.

THE BILLBOARD NUISANCE.

As a way to control billboards along the highways, John W. Foster of the Iowa state board of assessment and review has proposed a tax of 5 or 10 cents per square foot. In Iowa this will bring in nearly a half million dollars in revenue, according to his estimate, and will result in the elimination of large numbers of old and ugly signs. Signs advertising business on the owner's premises would be exempt. In California, Colorado, Kentucky, Minnesota, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, Washington, and West Virginia general taxes are imposed on billboards. In Kentucky, Tennessee, and Mississippi privilege taxes are imposed. Georgia and Kansas tax them ad valorem.

Though taxation of billboards should not be the aim of Illinois legislation, but extinction, it may be that heavy taxes will be the best means toward that end.

Public anger at billboards is growing. They destroy the beauty and the recreational value of our country and its roadsides and give little or nothing in return. They are an imposition on the long suffering American that will not be tolerated indefinitely. Our highways are in a very real sense our most used public parks. The use and destruction of them by billboards is an outrage that must be ended.

SUBWAY DELAYS.

The engineering board working on subway plans has been waiting for some time for information from the utility companies regarding their requirements. The gas mains and power and telephone lines are to be run in chambers provided in the subway. The engineers say that they cannot plan the subway platforms until they know how much space must be given to the utilities, and the information has not been forthcoming. They expect it next week.

Chairman McDonough of the council's traction committee offered some advice in this connection which we regard as sound. If the information is not supplied promptly, he said, the engineering board had best use its own judgment in the matter, make such allowances as it regards as adequate, and proceed with the work.

The utility companies may be assumed to know pretty accurately what they need. They must have foreseen the subway problem. If they cannot state their requirements now and come to an understanding with the subway board there is no reason to suppose they will be able to do so any better in the future.

Public officials concerned with traction have reason to be nervous about the public attitude toward them. Since the overwhelming vote of confidence given in the traction settlement progress has been disappointing and resentment is rising. The officials cannot be charged with direct responsibility for the delay in consolidating the companies, but they are directly responsible for any delays in subway construction, for that is to be undertaken by the city government. They dare not allow any time to be lost needlessly.

SMALL HARBORS.

With winds and waters in abundance and the will to go to sea Chicago lacks only harbors to become one of the great yachting centers of the world. Wilmette, Belmont, the central district around the mouth of the river, and Jackson park now offer haven to small boats. The projected harbors at Highland Park, Wilson avenue, Division street, Chicago avenue, if and when finished, will add to these facilities. But the need for harbors will not be satisfied until still more are built. Harbors are to the development of yachting what good roads are to automobiles. More boats will come with more harbors.

With a $100,000 harbor under consideration Highland Park enters the list of harbor towns, and what Highland Park is planning should be undertaken by other shore towns from St. Joe to Milwaukee. Small harbors should be built and pleasure and commercial boating given chance to grow. Sheltered waters along Chicago's shore would make water transportation an important alternative to the overcrowded boulevards. A string of small harbors marking the beach line at short intervals will turn Chicago seaward.

The Lincoln park proposal for widened drives associated with lagoons, beaches, and harbors from Ohio street to Belmont will have the support of all progressive Chicagoans; the extension of this project to Devon, along with the building of an island and harbor six or eight miles out, deserves immediate attention. The plans are good; prompt action on them will be better.

Chicago turns to the water. Construction to meet its growing needs therein should go forward quickly.

CHICAGO'S MOORING MAST.

The mooring mast for the Chicago area makes little headway towards existence. Now that the Legion is behind it more progress may be made.

As a part of the equipment of an airport mooring masts have become increasingly necessary. If they were built to serve a double function, such as an air beacon or other instrument as well as mooring mast, they might be easier to finance.

No great dirigible has ever stopped at Chicago. It never will until a mooring mast is built.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION.

The administration at Washington has determined generally to refuse to visa the passports of laborers desiring to immigrate to this country until the present unemployment crisis is past. Under the law, immigrants may be excluded if there is a likelihood that they may become public charges; and the state department now takes the position that any laborer coming to this country to find work is likely to become a public charge unless he can prove beyond question that he will not.

This may go as far in the direction of cutting off all immigration as present laws will permit. Certainly there can be no justification for adding to the competition for jobs now at a time when wage levels are being maintained only with the utmost difficulty. The American standard of living is at stake and the national government could hardly have done less than it has done toward preserving it.

Editorial of the Day

HUDSON AND CRAMTON.
[Detroit News.]

Mr. Hudson and, apparently, Mr. Cramton also, Michigan's two foremost drys in congress, are to be retired by the action of their constituents in Tuesday's primary. Prohibition was the principal issue in their districts. Mr. Hudson was defeated decisively and Mr. Cramton perhaps was beaten by a very narrow margin.

There is meaning in it. There is more meaning than two seats in congress ordinarily signify. When wet or dry leaders are beaten, it contributes to the psychology of the times, the political wind-drift, to which other politicians adjust their courses.

Admitting the difficulties does not deny the possibility of a solution of the liquor question by exactly the same process which adopted the eighteenth amendment. The more often the issue is clearly drawn and votes taken the better. Definite political decisions upon prohibition in as many states and congressional districts as possible, within both parties, are needed. Let dominant opinion on the question in both parties be asserted. Like purpose in both major parties can overcome the difficulties more quickly perhaps than a careful forecaster would dare say.

PURITY OF WATER.

THE method of estimating the purity of water supplies is by measuring it with the typhoid rate. Measured by this scale, the public water supplies approach perfection. The typhoid rates of cities approach the vanishing point. Even those of towns large enough to afford a water supply, but not to maintain laboratories and an inspection service, are so low as to indicate that the water is reasonably safe.

The good is radiating to the farms. When there are but few cases of typhoid there will be very few carriers and most of the rural typhoid results from infection spread by carriers.

Just as we become wholly satisfied and the disposition to boast comes over us the public health service issues a study to serve as a warning. They have proved there is a limit beyond which water cannot be purified. By a long series of tests they set the limits beyond which waters of the great lakes cannot be made safe by chlorination and a level beyond which chlorination and filtration combined are ineffective with these lake waters. They set another level for Ohio river water. They announce the principle that the limit for clear waters is lower than that for cloudy ones because sediment helps in the process of purification. The levels for these two types of waters may suffice. Any city can adopt the one or the other according as its original supply is clear or muddy. However, it is probable that further tests will show the need of other classes, dependent on such qualities as reactions, presence of colloidal clay, and such.

Meanwhile the public health service reports that the original supply of some cities has already reached the limits of purification and others have passed it. Fortunately for us the scientists have discovered some methods of increasing the efficiency of chlorination and filtration since these investigations by the public health service were carried out. In the last half century methods of water purification have been improved. The improvement has been more rapid than the increase in pollution by river and lake waters.

The density of population increases rapidly in the industrial zones; the pollution of water by manufacturing wastes is also on the increase. Our hope is that the improvement in methods of purification may increase at least at an offsetting rate.

DIET TO AID TEETH.

A. M. B. writes:

Some time ago you published one or two different articles on a diet which would promote a better mouth condition for the teeth; in other words, a diet which would prevent tooth decay. May we have it again?

REPLY.

The instruction is to give plenty of antiscorbutic foods. Among these are orange juice, lemon juice, raw cabbage, and other fresh vegetables and fruits. The diet should also include cod liver oil or viosterol.

EFFECT OF BRONCHITIS.

Miss B. E. H. writes: Please explain bronchiectasis. Is there any cure?

REPLY.

In bronchiectasis there are small dilatations of the small bronchial tubes. This saclike dilatation of the tubes generally follows bronchial asthma and chronic bronchitis.

The method of diagnosing it now preferred is by X-raying the chest after an injection of some iodized oil into the tubes. It is treated by operation. Many cases live a long time and in moderate comfort in warm, very dry climates.

DEPENDS ON CONDITION.

J. L. writes:

2. Will his children inherit it?

REPLY.

1. It is. Whether marriage would be wise depends on the condition of his heart.
2. No.

It should help, particularly if one also eats enough starchy or sweet foods and if the cards are otherwise stacked for health.

FOR PEACE.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I wish to have somebody put under peace bonds. 1. What grounds must I have? 2. How do I go about it? 3. How much does it cost?
R. W. L.

1. It is not practicable to list all possible grounds. If you would state the facts on which your question arises it would be much simpler. In general you must show that you are in substantial danger.
2. Go to the nearest police station.
3. Nothing.

GERM HAVEN.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—[Friend of the People.]—A building located on West Roosevelt road, containing five apartments and one store, has two receptacles for garbage which are rotted with age and constant use so that there is little left of the receptacles to keep the garbage and other refuse from strewing into the alley and passageway, resulting in a haven for germs and rodents. We have the utmost faith in the services rendered by THE TRIBUNE in matters of this kind and therefore submit the problem to you for correction.

Report is made that notice has been served on owner and agent of building on West Roosevelt road to provide necessary receptacles for accommodation of refuse output and to see that further dumping is stopped.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SIGNS OF FALL.

Fishing over, Cubs gone wrong;
Youngsters lugging books along;
Blankets to accompany sheets;
Bathing beauties off the streets;
Silo filling, football talk;
Crayon writings on the walk;
Chilly mornings, warmer noons;
Wheat cakes, sausages, and prunes;
Babies having spells of croup;
Restaurant patrons ordering soup;
Chili sauce and jelly cooking;
New fur coats and opera booking;
Sleeveless dresses quite passé;
Heavy coal trucks on the way;
Great discarding of straw hats;
Pumpkin pies and hunting flats;
Weary travelers homeward bound;
Pickling odors all around;
Championship prognostications—
All of these are indications
Summer days are on the wane,
Fall is coming once again.

A. E. F.

WE'LL PROMISE not to do it so much again, friends of the Line, who are forced willy nilly to listen to more sporting comment than they are accustomed to during R. H. L.'s absence, or forsake entirely this colyum during the hiatus, which we would regret. We did "bear down" pretty hard yesterday with sport topics, but that Big Ten football was on our mind and we just had to remove it before moving to other thoughts. But we'll be careful hereafter. Now let's see what happens today.

WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY.

HTW: During the Meuse-Argonne of the world war, one nontransportable wounded post was situated in the zone of advance close to an area of ruins that was once the town of Bethancourt. The territory had been "no man's land" of two or three days before. The post received only the most seriously wounded. This particular morning six casualties had succumbed in one group and adjacent graves were provided for them. A lull in the incoming casualties made an officer suggest the appropriateness of a little service at the interment.

The most somber looking individual in the area was approached on the subject and he accepted the task. That afternoon a weird individual took a place at the foot of six parallel holes, meant for graves—a man of melanochroic physiognomy beneath an overseas cap, worn somewhat sideways, resembling an old French general's cockaded hat. His head was poised obliquely above a tall, rectangular figure loosely wrapped in an officer's long olive drab overcoat, selected evidently more for quality of material than for fit. His left hand rested across his breast, partly inserted beneath the edge of his coat. In his right hand rested an opened, black covered, ecclesiatistical looking book which at close range was seen to be a memorandum book (compliments of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, perhaps). His feet squarely placed on the ground supported a truly though somewhat elongated Napoleonic figure.

Murky sky, drizzling rain; a dark, forbidding background formed by Dead Man's Hill, spectral ruins of Bethancourt to the right, dim outline of Forges Woods to the left, the Meuse and enemy to the front, terrain wet and soggy, every six square feet of which contained one or more shell holes studded with duds—such was the picturesque setting.

The audience consisted of a thin uneven line of uniformed men surrounding the six graves.

In droll low tones the speaker commenced a staccato speech punctuated by detonations of near and distant cannon. Tears had appeared in the eyes of his hearers when a preclimax sentence of formidable words breezed through the air, and without warning one of the sturdy soldiers standing at the end of one grave pitched headlong into the pit. The orator, aroused by the noise of the plunge, slowly and deliberately adjusted his glasses further to the end of his nose, moved his head the better to see over them, and for a full second calmly observed the prostrate body of his listener. Then slowly he bowed once, twice, three times, continuing to the count of ten. The prostrate boy never stirred. "You're out," exclaimed the speaker, and without further ado finished his epic, closed his book, and with stately tread disappeared in the direction of his tent.

The swooning boy later was dragged out of the pit none the worse for his experience but vowing he never would listen to one of R. H. L.'s orations again.

DANCE OF DEATH.

Wild, the wind blows o'er your head!
Wild, you leaves of restless red,
Dancing fiercely in the sky!
You'll ride earthward by and by—
This your last mad reckless mood!
Joy in autumn's interlude—
Gone the warmth of summer's flow,
Hence—death's sleep beneath the snow.
Wild your dance! Laugh 'til you're dead!

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 17, 1914.

AIX-LA-CHAPELLE, Germany.—[By James O'Donnell Bennett.]—The solemn truth. I never sat down to write with greater conviction than I purpose writing now. Today I had my share in the composition of a round robin on the so-called German atrocities. The round robin was a bare statement in which we expressed our earnest belief—a belief based on days of personal observations in the theater of war—that the reports of barbarities alleged to have been perpetrated by German troops on the inoffensive Belgian countryside are shocking falsehoods. The round robin was also signed by John T. McCutcheon of THE TRIBUNE, Irvin S. Cobb of the Saturday Evening Post, Harry Hansen of the Chicago Daily News, and Roger Lewis of the Associated Press. [Mr. Bennett continues by elaborating on the round robin with details of investigations made in twenty towns and villages.]

LONDON.—The armies of the allies are engaged in a desperate struggle with all the Germans who invaded France. It began on Sept. 14 when the rearguard of the retreating Germans made a stand on the Aisne river in northeast France. It became general along the whole line yesterday. It may be several days before a decisive result is reached. The official bureau here says the whole situation remains favorable to the allies. A Berlin message states that the allies have not won a victory anywhere along the great line, but an Amiens dispatch says the German right wing is now encircled by the allies. The battle promises to surpass even that of the Marne river in the number of men engaged. Since the Marne battle, which resulted in the retreat of the Germans, reinforcements of 500,000 men have reached the scene, and the number on both sides in the present battle probably will reach 2,500,000.

TIENTSIN.—A British signal officer reports a sharp engagement between a company of the 14th United States infantry and 2,000 Boxers at Mo Tao [Ma Tow] on the road to Peking. The Americans made a gallant stand. A detachment of Bengal Lancers came to their rescue and charged the Boxers in the rear. The Boxers were routed, leaving 200 dead. The Americans had no casualties. The Germans report an engagement with a heavy force of Boxers west of Peking. The German loss is said to have been 20. It is reported that Russians have seized railroad property in this city in defiance of British protests.

CHICAGO.—E. A. Davis, 35 years old, one of the legatees in the famous Davis will case and one of the heirs to millions, died at the county hostal. The end to his varied career came suddenly, its first signs developing the day before when he became violent at the Palmer house. His father was one of the early prospectors who invaded the west and struck it rich. When the elder Davis died he left an estate of between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. The heirs have been in litigation over it for years.

The writ was returned by Gen. Baker indorsed as follows: "In the case of Samuel Burch, Charles Burch, and Orlando Burch named within, the execution of the writ of habeas corpus is hereby suspended. [Signed] Andrew Johnson, President."

NEW YORK.—A Washington special to the Times says: "The bureau of rebel archives, under the charge of that well known scholar and writer, Dr. Francis Lieber, is now fairly organized and at work on the classification of the 500 boxes of archives of the late rebel government. These documents relate to every department and period of the rebel government. The bureau will be moved into Ford's theater, where President Lincoln was shot, about Jan. 1."

THE LEGION AND PROHIBITION.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—In view of the fact that I personally presented a resolution asking for the repeal of the 18th amendment to the resolutions committee of the American Legion at our state convention in Aurora, I think I am qualified to tell you and the public at large just what happened to this resolution, discussed in your editorial, "Prohibition and the Legion."

We were up against a Republican outfit from Cook county. Past Commander Hayes would not allow a wet to have the floor. He tabled the motion in spite of the majority of delegates who wanted a vote. It was the sweetest piece of steam roller tactics that it has ever been my misfortune to witness. There is no doubt that had it been put to a vote the delegates would have voted overwhelmingly in favor of repeal, because they are not hypocrites and they personally consumed enough liquor at the convention to float the entire British navy.

While it is true under our constitution we cannot enter politics as a body, yet politics play a very grave part in the affairs of the American Legion not only in this state but in every state, as they do in every other organization.

R. EUGENE HARRIS.

AN ANSWER.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 15.—The editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE on "Prohibition and the Legion" demands an answer from loyal citizens of these United States. Two statements are, putting it mildly, misleading. First, the editorial states, "The eighteenth amendment was as definitely an outgrowth of the war as is the national debt." I have lived to see the temperance cause grow from the Murphy movement of the early '70s to the adoption of the eighteenth amendment and know it to be a fact that two-thirds of the territory of the United States had voted "dry" either by county local option or by state prohibition before the late world war, so that the eighteenth amendment was not put into the constitution as a war measure, but was the result of fifty years of education. The second statement is positively inexcusable, which reads: "As veterans they are justified in thinking that prohibition was put over on them and on the country." The eighteenth amendment was put into the constitution by two-thirds majority of both houses of congress and the vote of three-fourths of the legislatures of the forty-eight states in the Union. The majority vote in congress was far larger than was needed and 46 of the 48 states voted for the amendment in legislatures. If half of the population had been in France at the time or if nobody had been in France from the United States it would not have been possible to have put the eighteenth amendment into the constitution in any other way.

SHOOTING WITHOUT FIREARMS.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Your correspondent of today who howls because William Powell has been in Chicago making a talking picture "of murder on the streets of Chicago" either doesn't know his movie slang or reads too hastily.

Your caption under Powell's picture on Aug. 23 reads: "Movie Star Here to Be Shot in City Scenes." A good caption for the subject, since "shot," in film studio parlance, means photographed. Nowhere, either under the picture or in the story on page 8, is there mention of a murder plot. In fact, the story says that "New Morals" is based on the Lonsdale play "Spring Cleaning." You might inform your alarmed reader that there isn't a gun fired in "New Morals" if the picture is to follow the stage play, which has to do with the morality of sex rather than the gunman crimes for which Chicago has a reputation.

I'm afraid that your correspondent, like many other Chicagoans, has become so supersensitive about our town's violent reputation that even the mere mention of "shot" and "Chicago" in one sentence throws him into fits of fear. And that's no way to combat the idea that Chicago is a modern edition of the wild west.

JOHN E. JOSEPH.

THE AWAKENING.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—After being a citizen of Chicago for over twenty-one years and a taxpayer for many, I learned that my only child is not entitled to attend school at a schoolhouse fit to be called by that name. I reside at Peterson avenue, near Rockwell, and sent my child to the Clinton school, only to be advised that there was no room and that she has to go to a portable shanty, which I consider unfit for educational purposes and unhealthful. There we were told, owing to the number of children, she could only attend the afternoon class.

Twenty years ago with real estate taxes one-quarter of our present day taxes we had enough schools for all children. Today what have we? A number of new buildings which experts say are unsafe, and a lot of shacks more fit for the jungle than for our glorious U. S. A.

I imagined when I voted for giving King George a poke in the snout that after that was done, plus the correction of our classroom history, that we would have the best schools under the sun, and then I find just the contrary.

PREDICT 20 YEAR GROWTH OF 177.8% FOR 11 SUBURBS

Car Survey Shows Vast Building Prospects.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Eleven western and northern suburbs together will have a 177.8 per cent increase in population in the next 20 years. This is the forecast of Halsey, Stuart & Co. in their proposed financial plan to consolidate the surface and elevated lines.

The suburbs—Evanston, Wilmette, and Niles Center to the north, and Oak Park, Cicero, Berwyn, Maywood, River Forest, Forest Park, Bellwood, and Westchester to the west—are scheduled for a population boost of 559,791 in the next two decades as compared with an increase of 1,264,860 for Chicago in the same period, according to the forecast.

If these suburbs require as many and as costly buildings as Chicago has required in the last twenty years for each 1,000 of population, the commuter towns will erect 107,652 structures at an average cost of $16,083 in the next 20 years.

Five and a Half Billions in Contracts.

The 11 suburbs are forecast to spend a total of $1,731,367,116 for buildings, while Chicago in the same time will probably spend $3,817,345,644 for the same purpose. Together, the city and these suburbs will offer building contracts for an expenditure of five and one-half billion dollars in the next 20 years. There are suburbs of importance north, northwest and west which are not included in the list, and no mention whatever is made of southern, southeastern and southwestern suburbs.

By this method of reckoning Chicago and the 11 suburbs will have more than one billion 100 million dollars in building contracts to let in excess of what was awarded in the last 20 years. The 11 suburbs will offer more than twice as much building as they have constructed in the last 20 years. In the two decades just passed these suburbs spent an estimated $813,382,642 for building, and in the next 20 will spend $1,731,367,116.

Only "L" Suburbs Considered.

Halsey Stuart & Co., in their financial plan, were concerned only with transportation and considered those suburbs only to which the elevated lines now supply service. On both the west and north sides the elevated now runs outside the city, while on the south side the elevated does not run within nine miles of the city limits. It would have been interesting to have had a forecast on all of Chicago's suburbs.

The population forecasts were made by James Walker, consulting engineer. In 1900 the 11 suburbs, large parts of which were then farm land, had a combined population of 58,054, while today Evanston, Oak Park and Cicero each has a greater population.

Between 1900 and 1910 the 11 towns increased their population by 30,303. In the next 10 years they jumped 85,536 and in the last 10 years, 141,365.

The Walker Forecast.

Before 1940 Mr. Walker forecasts an increase of 208,567 and between 1940 and 1950 a gain of 351,224. At present the population of these villages and cities is 315,258 and it is expected to be 875,049 by 1950. In that same 20 years, according to the estimates, Chicago will advance from 3,375,235 to 4,640,095.

These estimates indicate that the forecaster believes that the city of the future will be spread out over a larger area, despite the recent construction of tall multiple home structures in Chicago. It is upon that theory that the growth of the local transportation system is forecast, on the development of which the companies have promised to spend $200,000,000 in the next 10 years.

No careful or authoritative student of the proposed financial plan of Halsey, Stuart & Co. was prepared yesterday to express his opinion, and it was thought that it will be several days or a week before any opinions are ready.

GETS LICENSE

OLIVE BELLE HAMON (Loma Worth).
[Koehne Photo.]

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine Worth, widow of Jake L. Hamon, Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma who was slain in 1920, tonight announced her daughter, Olive Belle Hamon who is on the stage as Loma Worth, had not been married to Roy David Gatewood.

Mrs. Worth said she was making the announcement on assurance given her by her daughter and Gatewood. Miss Hamon and Gatewood obtained a marriage license yesterday from the county recorder here. Mrs. Worth said her daughter told her they drove to the home of a minister to be married, but were not.

Mrs. Worth said she objected to the marriage because her daughter and Gatewood had known each other "only a week."

Gatewood this afternoon said he was leaving immediately by airplane for Des Moines. He said he and Miss Worth planned to be married Nov. 12, in Davenport, Ia.

Clubwomen Urged to Vote "No" in Dry Referendum

Members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs were urged yesterday to vote "No" on all three propositions included in the prohibition referendum that will be submitted to the voters in November. The action was taken by directors of the federation following a resolution passed at their meeting reaffirming the stand of the organization in favor of the eighteenth amendment. It was stated that no recommendations on candidates for United States senator will be made.

POLICE QUELL TROUBLE OVER CAR EXTENSION

Capt. Paul Wheeler of the Wabash avenue police and several squads speeded to South Park way and 51st street yesterday when Negroes threatened to halt construction of a surface lines extension in 51st street between South Park way and Cottage Grove avenue.

A crowd of Negroes gathered about the track layers and began to take away their tools, refusing to permit them to work unless colored men were also employed. Capt. Wheeler requested the demonstrators to gather in Washington park where he counseled them against violence and suggested that those who wished employment apply at the main office of the surface lines.

Arrangements were made last night according to Al. F. Obrill, secretary of the Track Layers' union, to unionize a group of colored track laborers who, he said, will be employed on the 51st street extension. He said this group is already in the employ of the surface lines.

SON WHO CLUBBED FATHER TO DEATH HELD FOR MURDER

William Butler Jr., 22 years old, who on Aug. 9 beat and clubbed his 55 year old father to death because he refused to give him $10, was ordered held to the grand jury on murder charges by a coroner's jury in Waukegan. He was held without bail.

The killing occurred in the Butler home, 930 South Lincoln avenue, Waukegan. Young Butler had been ordered to appear that day to answer a contempt charge for failure to provide for his wife and young child.

MIDGET BANDIT IN LOOP.

A bandit, described as not over five feet tall, yesterday robbed a Fannie May candy store at 216 West Madison street of $30 after threatening the attendant, Miss Florence Decker, 21 years old, of 7045 South Michigan avenue, with a revolver.

YRIGOYEN PARTY VOTES SUPPORT OF NEW REGIME

Deposed President Bans Acts of Sedition.

BULLETIN.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 17 [Wednesday].—Following a disagreement between the Uruguayan and Peruvian governments, wherein the latter refused to recognize the Peruvian political leaders' right of asylum in the Uruguayan legation at Lima, Uruguay recalled the Uruguayan minister from Lima. Simultaneously the Uruguayan government delivered a note to the Peruvian minister at Montevideo which, it is reliably understood, is equivalent to handing him his passports.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 16.—The leaders of the Radical party of Argentina, acting on orders from its leader Hipolito Yrigoyen, deposed president of the republic, announced tonight that it would accept the new provisional government of Gen. Uriburu, which early this month overthrew the Yrigoyen régime.

This development in the troubled affairs of the Argentine republic came following a message from former President Yrigoyen, who is now a prisoner on the cruiser Belgrano, anchored in the River Plata, to his followers urging them to accept the situation created by the revolution, and adding that any seditious attempt "would be a crime against the country." The message was issued through Senor Yrigoyen's nephew, Luis Rodriguez, who visited Senor Yrigoyen aboard the warship.

Reveal Financial Muddle.

Meanwhile, the new government continued today its investigation into the financial muddle left by the old Yrigoyen régime. Among many other irregularities, it was discovered that in seven months the budget allowance for the current year has already been exceeded by more than $4,785.

The provisional cabinet today authorized Minister of Finance Enrique Perezz to pay $243,000 on account of debts incurred abroad two years ago by the Yrigoyen government for armaments. The cabinet also authorized the expenditure of $92,025 for the purchase of fuel for the navy. It was discovered that the warships have not enough fuel to operate.

It was revealed also that chauffeurs in the service of Yrigoyenist leaders had been carried on the postoffice pay roll as postoffice employés, and that domestic servants drew salaries as customs house or state railway employés.

It was announced that Dr. Arturo Benavidez, who was secretary to former President Yrigoyen, and who fled to Uruguay following the revolution, had remitted $625,770 to his account.

Britain Recognizes New Régime.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Daily Herald says England has decided to recognize the new Argentine government immediately and that the necessary instructions have been sent to the British ambassador at Buenos Aires.

Germany Extends Recognition.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The new Argentine provisional government today was officially recognized by Germany.

FIGURES SHOW STEADY GROWTH IN BRITAIN OF UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—More than 2,100,000 men and women are now unemployed in Great Britain, and even the most optimistic can see little signs of any brightening in this dark cloud that hangs over the economic, social, and political life of the country. For the past nine months the position has been growing steadily worse. The unemployment total since January last, in round figures, is as follows:

January	1,478,800	June	1,775,100
February	1,520,000	July	2,011,400
March	1,547,200	August	2,017,900
April	1,676,400	September	2,139,500
May	1,712,000

The percentage of unemployed in all industries for August, the latest figures to be worked out, was 17.5. The industries chiefly affected during the present year have been iron and steel manufacturing, engineering, shipbuilding, the metal trades, textiles, building and dock and harbor services. Coal mining has stayed much in the same plight as for many months past. The industries showing improvement have been the jute industry and candy manufacturing.

German Maneuvers Open; Von Hindenburg Takes Part

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KISSINGEN, Germany, Sept. 16.—President von Hindenburg arrived in northern Bavaria today to take part in the maneuvers of the German reichswehr. He was accompanied by military attachés and delegations of foreign countries, including an American group. The three divisions taking part in the maneuvers are concentrating on the development of defensive tactics. Critics tonight said the day showed that the cavalry had succeeded in camouflaging its movements, but that decisions were taken too slowly by the chiefs.

U. S. Destroyers Damaged in Collision Off Newport

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The destroyers Hatfield and Sands were damaged in a collision off Newport, R. I., last Friday night. No one was injured. Both vessels were sent to the New York navy yard for repair.

JAPAN NABS RED PROPAGANDISTS ON ARMY STAFF

Hand of Russia Revealed Back of Scandal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 16.—The government today admitted communism had penetrated the strongest ramparts set up against it here in announcing the arrest of six men in the employ of the army general staff. The men are charged with being in the pay of Moscow and with spreading communist propaganda in the very midst of the Japanese military headquarters.

This revelation was made following a secret investigation conducted by the Tokio gendarmerie corps. Preliminary hearings were held in the military courts of the First division, but the findings were kept from the public.

Announcement that the arrested men were found guilty in the preliminary trial stirred military circles. While radical thoughts had penetrated even into the army, the general staff was believed to be immune.

How Reds Worked.

According to meager reports in the vernacular press, Sukeyuki Kanazawa, a draftsman of the land surveying section of the general staff, was tried on charges of having disclosed military secrets and also of having secretly distributed copies of the radical magazine Senki, a communist organ.

Kanazawa, it has been ascertained, succeeded in enrolling six men in the employ of the general staff. These he organized to distribute the Senki and to spread radical propaganda which he secretly printed at his home, and had distributed among minor officials of the general staff.

Army authorities continue to withhold further information and it is reported the most sensational angle of their investigations has yet to be disclosed.

In connection with the rapid inroads which communism has been making here during the last year or so, especially since the general business depression, some of the leading papers are asking whether the country is not already in the throes of a Red peril.

The police declare they are conducting a nation-wide roundup of communists and thousands of leaders among the radical factions are known to be in jail, but very little of this has appeared in the press due to the stringent publication ban. Only after months have passed does the public have an inkling that a raid was made.

Heretofore the communists restricted their work to inciting workers in Japanese enterprises, but during the last fortnight it has been revealed malicious propaganda has been circulated among factory employés in American establishments here, principally in the General Motors and Ford plants, which employ thousands of Japanese laborers and at wages much higher than are paid by local establishments.

* * * * *

The old-fashioned dinner is gone.

Nowadays we sit down to a better, more healthful one every night.

The lure of the old-time feast was its rarity. Getting Sunday dinner was hard labor. Meals took hours to fix. Variety was restricted to the fresh vegetables and meats obtainable in poorly equipped markets. Going to market was a chore. Selecting foods was a skilled accomplishment.

Today's housewife has a far easier job.

She shops in the Chicago Tribune.

Here, in season and out, she finds variety unknown to the housewife of yesterday. The delicacies and the luxuries of the old days are the common fare today. She has merely to make up her list from the tempting array displayed in the Tribune's columns, and telephone or speed to the store in the family car. Today, stores are on every corner, offering goods of known quality. Department stores augment the choice. Marketing no longer is a chore. It's a pleasure.

To women: The Tribune offers a choice of the finest staples and delicacies advertised at prices that afford large savings.

To advertisers: The Tribune reaches by far the largest audience of women in Chicagoland. Food advertisers recognize the value of this great circulation of 827,357 daily and 1,028,337 Sunday, by spending more money in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Medicine

BRING ANDREE'S SKELETON HOME; MISTAKE BARED

Ship Also Returns Skull of Third Explorer.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TROMSOE, Sept. 16.—The body of Salomon August Andree was brought back from the arctic wastes to Tromsoe today, a fortnight after what was believed to be his body had been received here with reverent homage.

Hardly had the little cutter Isbjoern landed with the last of the relics of the ill fated expedition, which vanished 33 years ago, when Swedish scientists here discovered the mixup. The skull the Isbjoern carried wasn't Andree's, but young Frankel's. The skeleton it carried—the upper portion of the body, including the head—was not Frankel's but Andree's.

To the fishermen of Tromsoe the mistake made little difference, for they honor all the Andree expedition's relics alike. It didn't matter that the tributes in Andree's honor a fortnight ago—a sorrowful little funeral procession through the streets and a memorial service in the cathedral—were paid not to his remains but to those of his companions.

Latest of Grim Surprises.

They regard it as simply the latest of many grim surprises, which the arctic has sprung ever since Dr. Gunnar Horn and the crew of the Norwegian vessel Bratvaag came upon the frozen remains on desolate White island.

This is what scientists concluded today after an examination of the Isbjoern's cargo of relics:

First, the Isbjoern found a skeleton with the head apparently of a man of Andree's age. The Bratvaag found leg bones together with a coat marked "A," Andree's diary and other identifying objects. The committee believes these discoveries complement each other and that the skeleton brought today is Andree's.

Skull of a Younger Man.

Second, the Bratvaag found portions of Strindberg's skeleton, which was identified unmistakably as Strindberg's.

Third, the skull the Isbjoern brought was found to belong to a young man—much younger than Andree—and, therefore, assumed to be Frankel's. Moreover, the Isbjoern's men saw scattered over an area two yards square portions of a skeleton, including shoulder blades, parts of a backbone and ribs. These, the committee concludes, must have been Frankel's.

Scientists have been working all day on the Andree relics and expect to issue a preliminary communique tomorrow.

MORRISON HEIR MISSING; TRY TO PROVE HER DEAD

A hearing to establish proof of death of one of the heirs to the $3,000,000 estate of the late Capt. Edward W. Morrison, known as the "millionless millionaire," was started yesterday before Edward S Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The heir is Mrs. Margaret Ann Beers, adopted daughter of Capt. Morrison, who disappeared eight years ago.

Mrs. Beers and her sister, Mrs. Alice Schenker of Hammond, daughters of Joseph Bernstein, a junk dealer, were to receive $5,000 under a trust agreement executed in 1921. Mrs. Beers disappeared in 1922. Her father and sister both said they were convinced she is dead.

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, representing the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee of the estate, declared, however, that he is certain Mrs. Beers is alive. The hearing was continued until Sept. 30.

A bill to set aside the trust agreement, filed by Mrs. Schenker, is pending in federal court. The trust agreement provided that the two adopted daughters were to be given $5,000 each in return for waiving all other interests in the estate. THREATENS TO "EXPOSE" LAKE COUNTY OFFICIAL

Waukegan's battle over vehicle license taxes flared anew yesterday with the publication in Waukegan newspapers by Reuben Harry Stripe, insurance man and president of the Tax Payers' association, of threats to "expose" the public and private life of State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county if the latter continues to refuse to issue a warant for Arthur Bulkley, Waukegan city attorney.

The controversy began 10 days ago when Stripe tried to intercede in behalf of Lewis Moody, who was fined $25 for failure to pay the vehicle tax. At this time Stripe clashed with City Attorney Bulkley and later obtained a warrant from Police Magistrate Edwin Burgess in Lake Forest which was withdrawn the next day. Stripe accused Bulkley of threatening him and his family.

State's Attorney Smith said that he was undecided as to the reissuance of the warrant but that he would take prompt legal action should Stripe try to make good his threat.

The building is owned by Emil Wolden, a contractor, who recently came to Waukegan from Waupun, Wis. Wolden had employed nonunion labor throughout the building. He said he had had complaints from the plumbers' union.

Prosecutor Smith said he would "leave no stone unturned to find the guilty parties."

BULLETS BALK PRISON BREAK; GUARD IS SHOT

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A prison guard was shot, probably fatally, this afternoon when he detected nine prisoners, lifers and long termers, in an attempt to escape over a wall of the Maryland state penitentiary here. A riot call brought 200 policemen to the prison, situated in the heart of this city.

The escape attempt was discovered as the prison shops were closing for the day.

Stuart S. Janney, chairman of the state board of welfare, said the nine prisoners, led by Rawlings Whittemore, brother of Richard Reese Whittemore, hanged several years ago, were attempting to throw a rope ladder over the wall when discovered by Guard Albert Owen.

The guard fired, but was shot twice when the convicts returned the fire. Other guards headed the nine into a corner during a gun battle. They finally were captured.

The prison, described by the National Society for Penal Reform as "one of the worst in the east," was the scene of a riot two years ago which lasted two days. The report said there were only 564 cells to every 1,000 male prisoners and 50 cells for the 89 women inmates.

REAL Doctor's Remedy safest aid to bowels

A DOCTOR knows the best and safest way to stimulate the bowels when bad breath, coated tongue, sluggishness, or a bilious, headachy, gassy condition shows they are lagging. There could be no better proof of this assertion than the overwhelming sales and popularity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Syrup Pepsin is a doctor's prescription for the bowels—made by the same formula Dr. Caldwell wrote and prescribed over and over during his forty-seven years of practice. He tested its gentle action with women, older people, babies and children; saw that it does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. He proved its action thorough, complete, with the most robust men. Then as its pleasant taste and perfect action caused it to grow in popularity, he permitted it to be bottled and kept by drugstores everywhere, ready for use.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your drugstore today. Then, next time you or any of your family feel the need of a bowel cleansing, you will have a doctor's choice of what is best.

LEARN OF $7,000 WHICH CRATER DREW FROM BANK

Taken from Hitherto Unknown Account.

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Evidence that Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater drew $7,000 in cash from a bank on May 27, several weeks after his appointment to the bench, and received the money in seven $1,000 bills, was disclosed by District Attorney T. C. T. Crain today, incidental to the grand jury's resumption of its inquiry into the judge's mysterious disappearance.

Justice Crater drew the $7,000 check to "cash" on a hitherto unrevealed account in the International Germanic Trust company. The check was cashed for him by Joseph Mara, his personal attendant, who a day or two before Judge Crater disappeared on Aug. 6 cashed two similar checks for him totaling $5,650.

Quiz Healy-Ewald Witnesses.

A start was made, but little happened, as the extraordinary grand jury, convened at the behest of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to investigate the Ewald-Healy case, examined the first witnesses today. Only two men appeared before it, and one of them admitted afterward that he had not been able to tell "anything that interested them."

This man was Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, a veteran Tammany leader, who was questioned on the theory that he might know something signifiicant about the method of making nominations to judicial offices in New York

Paid for Appointment.

Emmerich C. Boczor, who used to be secretary to ex-Magistrate George F. Ewald, was the other witness.

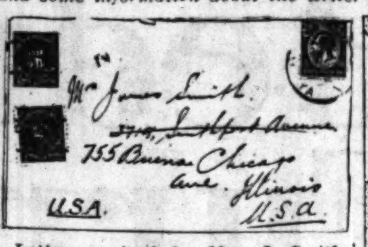
It was known that he had an interesting story to tell—a story of how he had overheard Ewald say he had to pay $12,000 for his appointment to the magistracy, $10,000 of it to Martin J. Healy, a Tammany district leader, and $2,000 to Dr. Francis Shirp, one of the signers of the Steuben society's letter to Mayor Walker recommending him.

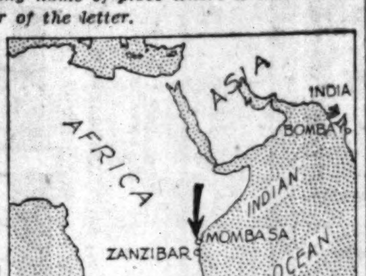
FINED AS DOPE SUSPECTS.

Eight persons, four of them women, were each fined $100 and costs yesterday by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas on disorderly charges following their seizure by federal agents in dope raids. Those fined were Charles Stockdale, Sidney Stern, Sam Caster, William Bower, Helen Snura, Marie Reimer, Ruth Peterson, and Peggy Stone.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.





Letter received by Mrs. J. Smith, 755 Buena avenue, Chicago.

"This envelope was received from Mombasa, Kenya, East Africa," Mrs. Smith writes. "The writer, Mr. John Brooks, and myself were born in Wombwell, Yorkshire, England, which is just outside Yorkshire, but is a very little known place, the general industry being coal mining.

"Mr. Brooks sailed for Africa on April 1, and this being the first letter I have received from him, it is very interesting to read his description of Mombasa. He writes:

"'Mombasa is very interesting and fascinating, and I must say that I have never seen a more beautiful sight than the entrance to Hilindine harbor. It is a natural harbor, with the coral reef running right out to sea from the mainland on either side. It is bordered by tall cocoanut palms, with wonderfully designed bungalows here and there. Believe me, when you enter the harbor on the ship, it is a most fascinating picture, being quite what many people call it, "the most beautiful harbor in the world."

"Mr. Brooks also tells me they have sports clubs of every kind, and the best golf course he has ever seen along the sea front. There are also seats along the cliffs where one may sit and watch the ships of all nations go in and out. Shipping is the main business, as Mombasa is the only outlet and inlet to the colony. The government is spending half a million pounds in extending the docks and fitting them with the latest appliances.

"They are not troubled much with mosquitoes, only two cases of malaria having been reported since he arrived there.

"The population is a mixture of Swahilis, Indians, Arabs, Africans, and Europeans. He tells me it is very interesting to see the variety of dress worn by the Indians and native women, and says it is a common sight to see a woman carrying a baby on her back and oil bottle on her head."

Three Children Die as Fire Destroys Home

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin lost their lives last night in a fire which destroyed the Martin home in Knollwood Park, a suburb.

FEDERAL WRIT SUSTAINS TEN CENT "L" FARE

Federal Judges George T. Page and George A. Carpenter yesterday signed a decree making permanent an injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from interfering with the collection of a 10 cent straight fare by the Chicago Rapid Transit company. The decree will not be filed until it bears also the signature of Federal Judge Fred L. Wham, who is expected back in the city today.

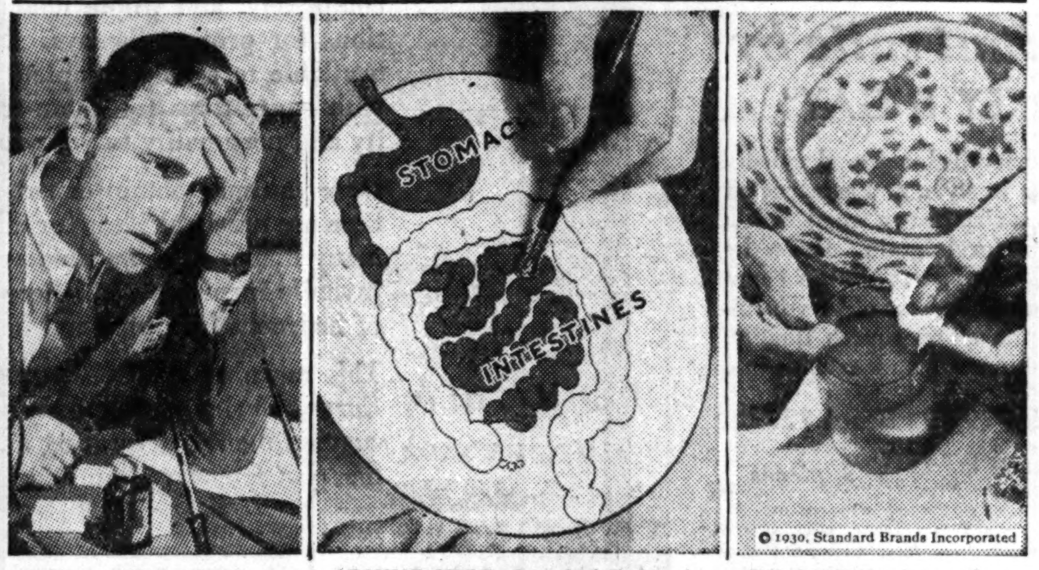
✦ Headaches ✦ Warn of Trouble ✦ Try Yeast ✦



THOSE HEADACHES are often warnings of trouble ! ARISING HERE: Intestinal Fatigue is the cause : : : Correct this condition ! BY EATING three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily.

Headaches—A Danger Signal

One of the first signs of Intestinal Fatigue is a Headache! How to combat it.

BEWARE of headaches, men! They are invariably the sign of bodily distress. And all too often . . . in a majority of cases, in fact . . . they come from an internal condition that must be corrected by all means.

Indigestible foods, irregular hours, combine to halt proper digestion and cultivate intestinal sluggishness.

Fortunately, the answer is at hand. Medical science has found that fresh yeast is highly effective without being habit-forming or dangerous in other ways.

Yeast, you see, adds a food element that stimulates normal digestion and elimination. It softens accumulated wastes and helps the body carry them off.

Also, it adds the often-missing vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D to your diet. Each cake of Fleischmann's Yeast is very rich in these indispensable vitamins.

So turn to yeast when you grow conscious of sluggishness. Eat it three times a day . . . Fleischmann's Yeast in the foil package. Eat it regularly, following the directions on the label, and see what wonders it can perform in even a month or two. Begin today to eat it.

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast at grocers', restaurants, soda fountains everywhere in this city.

Eat FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health 3 Times a Day

Always ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) : : : the only yeast "irradiated" to give it the Sunshine Vitamin D! Rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

Free Mechanical First Aid

A dead battery, fouled ignition points, or a broken axle are a few of the many mechanical troubles that come unexpectedly. Car trouble may find you far from a garage; it may come as you start out in the morning, or it may come late at night, but always it is unwelcome.

One hundred thousand motorists have protected themselves and their families in just such emergencies by means of membership in the Chicago Motor Club. When they are in need of help they call the club. In 1929 members sent in 120,000 calls for free mechanical first aid and towing service. Eighty-six per cent of the trouble cases were remedied by club mechanics on the spot; the remainder of the calls were tow jobs. No charge is made for mechanical first aid or towing service. Like all other services of the club, this service is free to members.

You are as close to help as the nearest telephone. The service is available at any hour of the day or night.

In Cook county members call the club and the service is rendered by club mechanics. In the sixty-one other counties of the club territory in Illinois and northern Indiana the service is rendered by approved service stations.

In addition to mechanical first aid and towing service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and schoolboy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,894,706.04.

N. B. A. STRIKES BLOW AT NEW YORK RING MONOPOLY

BOXERS TOILING IN NONMEMBER STATES BARRED

Clinnin Named Head of National Board.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—The National Boxing association, meeting here in convention, today struck a blow to gain complete control of prize fighting in the United States, by barring from member states all fighters who take part in boxing contests in non-member states.

GEN. J. V. CLINNIN.

The action was aimed at New York, Massachusetts, California, and Pennsylvania, the only four states which are not now members of the national association, in an effort to compel them to ally themselves with the N. B. A.

The association's plan to bring the entire fight industry under its control was revealed by Stanley M. Isaacs of Cincinnati, O., retiring president of the N. B. A., who introduced the resolution and pushed it through to adoption.

Effective Jan. 1.

The resolution, Isaacs said, stipulates, in effect, that "after Jan. 1, 1931, any boxer who performs in one of the nonmember states will not be used in the N. B. A. member states."

"If we all stick together it will work," Isaacs said. "These four nonmember states will, I think, join the N. B. A. You must have a central body controlling boxing or you will have no boxing at all."

Reminded that New York now is the center of the boxing game and that fighters might refuse to give up their New York bouts, Isaacs said: "If New York doesn't join the N. B. A., either it will have all of the boxers or we will."

Clinnin Elected President.

The association elected John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, as president to succeed Isaacs.

Chicago was selected as the permanent headquarters of the organization and Clinnin was empowered to set up a working office there. A secretary will be appointed by the president and will be a full time official, stationed at the Chicago headquarters.

Wrestling then took up the time of the delegates and a complete separation of boxing and wrestling was decided upon. The National Wrestling association which will have no connection with the N. B. A., was organized as the controling body of the wrestling game.

New Orleans Headquarters.

J. L. Andre of New Orleans was elected president of the wrestling association and New Orleans was named headquarters of the new organization. States which signed up on the convention floor as members of the wrestling association were Alabama, Illinois, Louisiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma, Michigan, Connecticut, and Nebraska.

Besides Gen. Clinnin, the N. B. A. elected the following officers: James M. Brown, Michigan, first vice president; Ben J. Jacobs, New Jersey, second vice president; Karl D. Malone, Kentucky, third vice president; Judge Landry, Mississippi, fourth vice president; and Ira L. Vorhies, Nebraska, reelected treasurer.

MULDOON NOT BOTHERED.

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—William Muldoon of the New York state athletic commission said tonight when asked for a statement regarding the National Boxing association's resolution that the New York body is not connected with the N. B. A., that each runs its own affairs separately, and that he did not believe the resolution would affect boxing in this state.

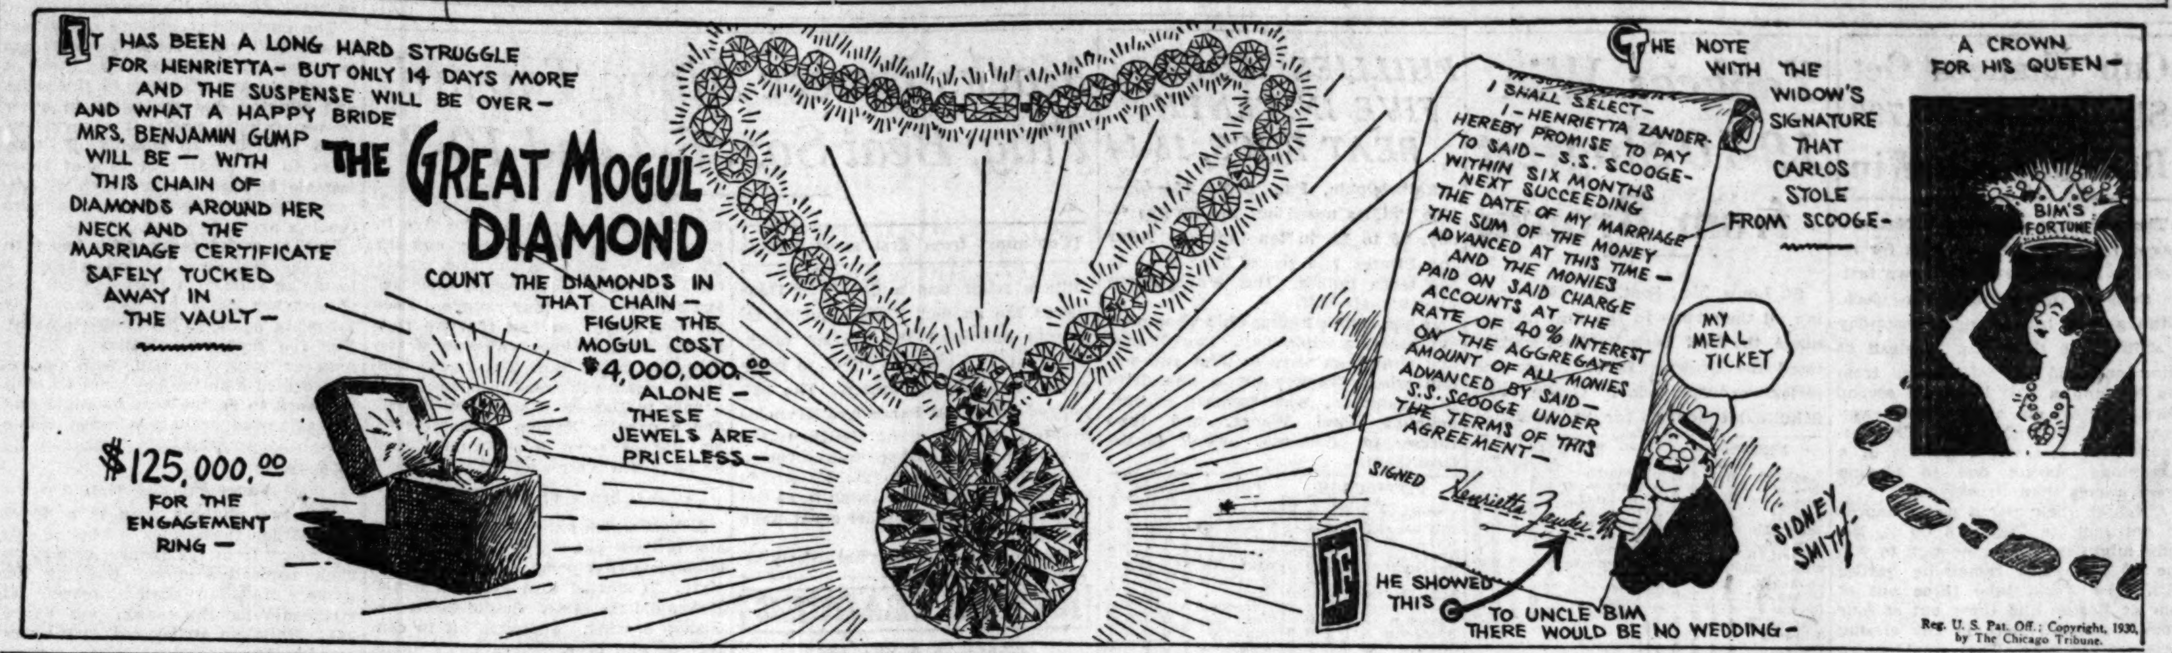
THE GUMPS—THE WEDDING GIFT TO THE BRIDE



Who Is Jack Gross? Why, He Fights Carnera Tonight

Who is Jack Gross?

Mique Malloy, who sponsors the match tonight at the Chicago Stadium between Primo Carnera and Jack Gross, expects 12,000 or more Chicagoans to attend the fight. Without doubt Mique has heard the question: "Who is Jack Gross?"

Malloy has replied: "Gross is the best heavyweight who will meet Carnera." He has compiled a list of facts on the Philadelphia Hebrew. He's six feet tall; weighs a shade over 200 pounds; boxes left handed. Malloy has appended Gross' record to his advertising placards, but Jack's record involves fighters as little known in most instances as he is himself.

Record Shows 25 K. O.'s.

This record shows Gross has knocked out 25 opponents. Twelve of these victories were scored in 1927, the second year of his professional career. Romero Rojas is included. In 1928 he knocked out four men. Sully Montgomery, former Centre college football player, is listed among the victims. In 1929 two of Gross' six matches ended in knockouts. Jack has had four fights this year, according to his reckoning, and three were knockouts. His record for the last two years follows:

1929.

Emmet Rocco, 10 round decision.
Jake Warren, 10 round decision.
Big Boy Peterson, 6 round decision.
Al Walker, knockout, 2 rounds.
Murray Gitlitz, 6 round decision.
Jack Herman, knockout, 3 rounds.

Leonard Dixon, knockout, 2 rounds.
Jack Herman, knockout, 2 rounds.
Mike Sankowich, 6 round decision.
Jack League, knockout, 3 rounds.

Primo to Get 30 Per Cent.

Gross' last fight was with League five weeks ago in Winston-Salem, N. C. He will receive $7,500 for his fight tonight. The current prices on his services heretofore has been $2,000. The increase is insurance for damage to his reputation in the event Primo falls on him for the ten count.

Primo's split of the receipts tonight will be 30 per cent after deduction of taxes.

Gross limbered up with a schedule of bag punching and shadow boxing at the Arcade gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Carnera's last day of preparation involved nothing more difficult than an appearance at the Hawthorne club of the Western Electric company.

After yesterday's workout Gross admitted it would take an extra hard thumping for Primo to knock him out.

The card:

Primo Carnera vs. Jack Gross, 10 rounds, heavyweights.
Al Fay vs. Dick Daniels, 10 rounds, heavyweights.
Johnny Indrisano vs. Tommy Rios, 8 rounds, 147 pounds.
Paul Panteleo vs. Pete Wistort, 5 rounds, heavyweights.
Walter Madey vs. Fred Caldori, 5 rounds, heavyweights.
Nick Taft vs. Jack Robinson, 5 rounds, light heavyweights.

Times Hard? Carnera Finds Streets Paved with Gold

BY ARCH WARD.

This is the night the Carnera circus gives its last performance in the United States. The troupe pulls up stakes after the show at the Stadium and will sail for sunny Italy.

We are told that Primo and his manager, Leon See, will leave with something more than $100,000 to show for their American tour. Carnera can buy a lot of bologna with that money. He could have made more had our leading heavyweights been willing to step into the ring with him. There is something about this Italian monstrosity that captures the fight crowd's imagination. He is what we call good copy.

It apparently has made no difference that until very recently Primo's opponents were carefully picked. In popular opinion some of them were fakers or tankers. See admits that Primo was a novice when he came to this country and that his adversaries were in the main men of his own class. That is why he engaged Duffy Madden of New York and other trained manipulators to arrange a fool proof tour through the hinterlands.

Everything went along as planned until Carnera met one Leon Chevalier, a coast Negro who suffered a change of heart at the last moment and refused to dive overboard. So it became necessary to employ strong arm tactics. A towel mysteriously was tossed from Leon's corner stopping the bout and losing the verdict for the man who was winning the fight.

That lack of finesse by Primo's handlers got him into trouble with the California commission. His suspension still stands. The ban was recognized for a time by the National Boxing association, but Monday the ring chiefs in session at Omaha ruled that it was all a mistake and Carnera was given a thorough whitewashing.

Carnera says his barnstorming days are over. He is ready to go to work. He bars nobody. The N. B. A. Monday rated him the second outstanding challenger for Max Schmeling's title. Stribling is the only heavyweight ahead of him. Maybe that is why Young Willie, Jack Sharkey and other big muscle men refuse to meet him. There is a possibility Primo may be a fighter, after all.

He gets another chance to show it, according to Promoter Mique Malloy, when he faces Jack Gross tonight. We hope nobody will embarrass this department by asking who is Gross or what a Carnera victory will prove.

"This is going to be the best card of the year," Malloy explains. "All the boys need is a full house. You know they are like actors. They give their best before a big crowd."

Then came a promise or a threat, depending on your point of view.

"If I can't look the fans in the face Thursday morning," said Malloy, "and have them tell me it was the greatest show of the year, I'll retire as a promoter."

OLD TIMERS MAKE GOOD.

At 66, when most men are content to talk about the good old days, Uncle Wilbert Robinson awaits the realization of his greatest baseball dream, a world's series championship. The Brooklyn leader apparently has shaken off one of the barriers to his success, the Chicago Cubs. Only the St. Louis Cardinals stand between him and the opportunity to win a world's championship.

Robinson has only one rival among the major league managers in point of service. He is Connie Mack, who will be his opponent if the Robins get into the series. Mack is a year older, but they came into baseball together, in 1885. Robinson broke in with Haverhill of the New England league and Mack with Meriden in the Connecticut league.

This is Uncle Robbie's 17th season as manager of the Brooklyn club. And baseball writers say it is his greatest team, stronger even than his championship combination of 1916 and 1920.

Wouldn't it be rather interesting, a world series battle between the pupils of the 66 year old Robinson and the 67 year old Mack?

High's Pinch Hitting Stops Pitching Duel.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Those Daffiness boys of Uncle Wilbert Robinson's sobered down this afternoon, and for nigh onto three hours they and the Cardinals played a baseball show that may come to be remembered along with the historic bitterness between the old Cubs and the old Giants. The Cardinals squeezed a run out of an otherwise juiceless ball game in the tenth inning and won the first game of the head-on contest with the Robins for the National league pennant, 1 to 0, thereby assuming the lead in the solemn statistics by some tiny mathematical difference known to the baseball bookkeepers as one point.

A young pitcher from the town lots of Binghamton, N. Y., an athlete with a sickly complexion about the color of dough, Bill Hallahan by name, held the Daffiness Boys to five hits just 24 hours after a crazy afternoon in which they mauled a group of Cincinnati pitchers for seventeen. Mr. Hallahan is a left hander, and out where he plays ball the customers call him Wild Bill because he leads the league in the matter of bases on balls.

The Name's Familiar.

He is about the fifteenth Wild Bill to rise to prominence in the baseball business, but the customers are not very strong on originality, and when they hit upon a nickname or a merry remark they stick to it through generations. There are still customers around who wait for prominent silences to yell that a pitcher couldn't hit the broadside of a barn or that a hitter swings like a saloon door, though goodness knows there are no barns any more, but only garages.

This Hallahan boy pitched against Dazzy Vance, a smallish, pallid, jumpy looking little fellow. Mr. Vance wears his blouse loose and careless over his belt, the seat of his pants is black as though he were accustomed to sitting around in mud puddles, and a soiled, tattered sleeve on his pitching arm, the right one, completes an appearance of shiftlessness which at first glimpse might lead you to peg him for an all around no-good and a loafer.

Hallahan Starts Well.

However, this mildewed and tattered get-up is strictly an affectation and it is well not to be misled by the same, as Mr. Vance this afternoon showed that a wise old noodle may ratiocinate beneath a soiled and sweaty cap and that rags are royal raiment when worn by certain parties.

The Hallahan boy was on his way

Rhem, Cardinal Hurler, Tells of Strange Ride

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Flint Rhem, star pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, missing for 24 hours, showed up at the Cardinals' hotel tonight with a strange story to tell Gabby Street, his manager.

Rhem, who had won six straight games, was scheduled to pitch tomorrow against Brooklyn, but Street admitted tonight that he will have to call on Sylvester Johnson, and that Rhem will not even get the chance to pitch the third game against Brooklyn on Thursday.

Rhem is quoted as having explained his absence as due to ulterior force. He said two men, with guns, had loaded him into a taxicab and taken him to a roadhouse. There, he said, they pumped him with liquor and he didn't remember anything else until tonight.

ATHLETICS' LAST 1930 VISIT?

(Inset) Jack Quinn, veteran Mack hurler, who is one of the four surviving spitball pitchers of the big leagues. WILDCAT SQUAD SHOWS LACK OF GOOD RESERVES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Forty-eight players reported to Coach Dick Hanley and his eight assistants yesterday morning at Northwestern for the second day's drill of the Big Ten football campaign. There was a championship air about the proceedings as the Wildcats went through two hours steady work under the warm sun before adjourning for luncheon at the North Shore hotel.

Their schedule brought them back again for an afternoon of labor, a program which will be followed daily until the university opens next Monday.

Hanley Is Conservative.

Nine varsity lettermen and ten others who won the purple "N" last season account for the confidence the squad expressed yesterday. But Hanley was not so jubilant. Rather he pointed out the many detours which must be avoided if his fourth year at Evanston is to produce a Western Conference title. In this he followed accepted procedure for all coaches when confronted with a title opportunity.

"We will have an excellent first eleven," he admitted. The admission was unnecessary perhaps, for the 48 lads who, at the moment, were blocking and tackling on the far side of the field were evidence.

"But our weakness is a lack of reserve strength. Injuries will wreck our chances."

Hanley's fear of injury, a jinx which cost the services of Capt. Henry Bruder last year after the Wisconsin game, was well justified. Sid Burnstein, a regular half back, who is expected to alternate with Al Moore at right half, twisted his knee in the afternoon drill yesterday. He will be out until the second game of the season it was announced.

Plans to Give Days Off.

"Then, too," Hanley continued, "eleven men can't play sixty minutes of every game and maintain their dash and spirit. Football calls for almost limitless endurance and replacements to keep the regulars on edge.

"After the first month I expect to

Macks Breeze Along Toward Flag; Beat Sox, 6-4 and 10-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Before leaving town the Athletics may be able to acclaim themselves the repeating champions of the American league. They made a large leap in the direction of the title yesterday by putting the White Sox through the wringer of defeat in both ends of a double bill, one score being 6 to 4 to make Bob Moses Grove's twenty-seventh triumph of the year, and the other 10 to 2. Give the title holders three more wins and nobody will be able to catch them in the current campaign.

No alibis can be offered for the way in which Garland Braxton was forced to hurry away from the second game, but in the opener Tommy Thomas, by his labors, was entitled to more than he got. In view of his long string of setbacks nothing startling was looked for from him, but on this occasion he actually threw a neat article of ball. So neat, in fact, that if Mulleavy had not put on three glaring boots at short and a couple of fly balls hadn't eluded the outfielders, five of the Macks' six runs might not have occurred.

Macks Given Early Lead.

The Sox lost no time about displaying their generosity in the first game. They handed their titled adversaries two runs in the opening inning. Dykes singled with one out and Thomas handed a pass to Cochrane. Simmons produced what looked like a double play ball, but it slipped through Mulleavy's hands, Dykes scoring and Cochrane sprinting to third. He ran home while Simmons was being forced on Foxx's roller. The Macks added one more in the third on Bishop's triple, which Jolley should have snared, and a single by Dykes.

Most of the damage done by the Pale Hose against the Great Grove occurred in the fourth and fifth, two runs scoring in each inning. In the fourth Watwood and Reynolds opened with singles. They registered on Jolley's infield out and a two bagger by Fothergill. The two in the fifth grew from a single by Henline, the new catcher, and a pass to Thomas. They moved up on Watwood's infield out and scored on Reynolds' single. This provided the Sox with a 4 to 3 lead, but not for long.

Fly Goes for Triple.

With the sun in his eyes and a stiff cross wind blowing Reynolds failed to locate Foxx's fly in the sixth and it became a three bagger. He strolled home on Haas' scratch hit past Mulleavy. This tied the score. The deadlock was dissolved in the eighth with the help of Mulleavy. He booted

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 16.—Our wilted Cubs got back into first division competition again this afternoon, with familiar results. Proceeding under the sickly technique adopted for Greater New York in the Brooklyn series last week the Cubs again lost. The score was Giants, 7; Cubs, 0.

The Chicago boys pounded Carl Hubbell, a left handed pitcher of recent indifferent success, for a total of three hits, bringing their total for their last four games with first division teams to a screaming 18 and continuing their total of runs for four games in fast company at a rousing one, represented by Wilson's homer in the last Brooklyn game.

Since we have started out on the basis of Cub accomplishments in Greater New York here and in Brooklyn, we are proud to point out that the Cubs showed improvement today over their last game in Brooklyn. In the last Robin encounter 12 batsmen struck out against Vance. Only 10 fanned today against Hubbell.

Wilson Fans Twice.

Blair fanned once, a net decrease of one strike out compared to the Vance ordeal; English, who did not strike out for Vance, fanned twice today; Cuyler, with one strike out, was even in the two games, as were Wilson and Dan Taylor, each of whom fanned twice in each game. Kelly, who wasn't fanned by Vance, fanned once today and Bell, who struck out once for Vance, didn't do it today against Hubbell.

The Cubs now have lost 12 of the 17 games but they are assured of getting out of New York in no lower than third place.

Our boys showed no class whatsoever today. They were as clumsy afield as they were weak at bat. In fact they made as many errors as they did hits. They dragged about their work most pitiably for the most part, save for a few exceptions, notably Old Jess Petty.

Two runs were made off Petty in the seven innings he worked. One of these, a homer by Lindstrom, was an earned run. The other was a gift.

Lindstrom's homer was the only earned run of the Giants' seven on a purely technical basis. But that's little consolation if you care to reflect on the eighth inning, in which the Giants made five runs.

Osborn Fills Bases.

This inning saw some red hot relief work by Bob Osborn. After Petty had gone out of the game for a pinch batter, El Paso Robert went in and gave three bases on balls to fill the bases. This was adjudged his day's work and Nelson tried his hand. Lynn was encouraged by an error perpetrated by Blair which scored two runs. Two sacrifices and a homer followed for three more.

The team still is determined to finish the season in better than fourth place and Pat Malone will be asked to do something about it tomorrow. He probably will be opposed by Jim Chaplin. The Cubs now are in danger, however, of ending the season series with the Giants on the short end. They must win tomorrow and Thursday to split the year's play with the New Yorkers.

The Cubs expired in order in the first inning and then proceeded to put on a panicky exhibition which gave the Giants one run in their half. Blair threw out Critz but Allen beat out a bunt toward third. Lindstrom caromed a single off Blair's shins. At this point the official scorer went hay wire along with the Chicago defense. Lindstrom's hit rolled into right field, and although Allen was already at third, Cuyler threw to Bell.

Bell Gets Error.

The throw, in addition to being to the wrong base also was wide and went to the boxes, Allen proceeding home and Lindstrom to second. And Bell was given an error. Terry sent a grounder to English, who pulled Kelly off the bag with his throw after chasing Lindstrom back to second. Ott popped to Blair and Hogan forced Terry.

Wilson led off the second with a single to right and stole second while Hartnett was missing a third strike. D. Taylor also fanned and Jackson threw out Kelly.

Jackson opened the Giants' second with a single but got no farther than second, which gave the Cubs opportunity for the second of their series of wilting acts. Bell opened with a triple to right center. He held third while Jackson was throwing out Petty. Then Blair and English fanned.

The Cubs were lucky to hold the Giants to one run in the third. After Allen had flied to Wilson, Lindstrom knocked a homer into the right field stand. Terry singled to center but Ott popped to Blair in short right. Hogan whizzed a single past third which put Terry on third but Jackson forced Hogan.

Cubs Fold Up Again.

The Cubs' fourth inning produced No. 3 of the foldup series. Cuyler and Wilson walked and Cuyler reached third on Hartnett's sacrifice fly to Allen. Then D. Taylor tapped into a double play, Critz to Jackson to Terry. The Giants went out in order in their half.

It was three up and three down for the Cubs in the fifth and the Giants' half was just as futile, except that Terry made a triple with two out and died when Ott flied to Cuyler.

In the sixth Blair tapped to Critz, English fanned after a count of three balls and one strike and Cuyler grounded out to Jackson. In the New York half Jackson singled with one out and stole second standing up, went to third while English was throwing out Roettger but died when Woody threw out Hubbell.

Wilson was called out on strikes to start the seventh, then Hartnett popped to Jackson. D. Taylor fanned again. Chitz led off the Giant half with a walk and went to second on Allen's sacrifice bunt. Lindstrom flied to Wilson and Terry fanned.

The eighth was the fourth successive inning in which the Cubs went out in order. Kelly fouled to Hogan. Bell flied to Ott, and Stephenson, batting for Petty, flied to Roettger.

Giants Score Again.

Osborn pitched to the Giants. He walked Ott on four pitches. He pitched three more wide ones to Hogan, then two strikes and a fourth ball. The bases were full when Bok also walked Jackson. Nelson replaced Osborn and Leach batted for Roettger. Ott and Hogan scored and Leach was safe when Blair fumbled Leach's tap, Jackson stopping at second. The runners moved up on Hubbell's sacrifice bunt and Jackson scored on Critz' sacrifice fly to D. Taylor. Allen knocked a homer, scoring Leach ahead of him. Lindstrom was out, Kelly to Nelson.

Hornsby batted for Blair in the ninth and walked. English singled to center for the third Chicago hit, and Farrell, running for Hornsby, stopped at second. Cuyler and Wilson fanned and Jackson threw out Hartnett.

Owner Wrigley Absent as His Ball Team Loses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 16.—Owner Wrigley is in New York, but he did not appear in his box for the game. His private secretary was in the box, but wore out no pencils making shorthand notations of Cub base hits.

The Giants were delighted to encounter a team more miserable than themselves after taking their fourth and fifth straight lickings last Sunday.

About 8,000 fans came out to the Polo grounds and were interested in watching the goose eggs go up on the Brooklyn-St. Louis scoreboard.

Hartnett was moved up to fifth in the batting order and rewarded the move by getting the ball out of the infield once.

The classy ball game played across the river today brought mixed emotions to the Cubs. It made them feel they really aren't entitled to a championship over two clubs of players who didn't swallow their tonsils when the going got tough. On the other hand they were just a little more ashamed of their inefficiency.

SMITTY—SAFETY FIRST

Cub Chances Get Slimmer; Even .700 Ball May Not Win

The Cubs are still in the National league race, but their chances for remaining there are running down faster than a twenty-four hour clock. Although the lead changed yesterday it didn't help the Cubs. Instead of being one and one-half games from the top and a half lap from second place, they are one and one-half away from both first and second. The Cardinals hold first place because of a percentage margin due to playing fewer games than Brooklyn.

Although their recent performances do not indicate they can do it, the Cubs might rally long enough to win one of their two remaining battles with New York, take three out of four at Boston and three out of four from Cincinnati here in the closing series of the year. That would mean 7 victories and 3 defeats. That is a stiff program to outline for them, and even if they carried it through they might not attain the top. Brooklyn could beat them out by winning 5 of 9 and St. Louis 6 of 11. The standing would be:

Brooklyn	89	65	.578
St. Louis	89	65	.578
Chicago	88	66	.571

First place will be in dispute again today between the Cardinals and Robins. The winner of the battle will come into possession of a full game margin over second place. The Cubs by winning can come to within a half game of the team which loses over in Brooklyn. Should the Cardinals and Cubs win the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	84	60	.583
Brooklyn	84	62	.575
Chicago	83	62	.572

If the Robins win this afternoon and the Cubs are bowled over again by the Giants, the Chicagoans would be two and one-half games out of first place, as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Brooklyn	85	61	.582
St. Louis	83	61	.576
Chicago	82	63	.566

It is mathematically possible for the American league pennant to be clinched this afternoon. If the Athletics should beat the White Sox and Cleveland take a double header from Washington, the repeating champions couldn't be caught even if they lost all their other games and the second place Washington Senators swept their remaining battles.

PHILLIES SCORE FIVE IN TENTH; BEAT BUCS, 15-14

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Phillies nosed out the Pirates today, 15 to 14, in ten innings. After the Pirates had scored four runs in the tenth inning, the Phils scored five in their half.

In the eighth inning Chic Thompson engineered a triple play. Paul Waner and Grantham were on first and second when Traynor hit a line drive to Thompson, who touched second, doubling Paul Waner, and then threw to Sherlock, who caught Grantham.

Miller's roller and a double by Haas scored the runner. Two amusing incidents enlivened the Macks' ninth. The first was Cissell's effort to catch a pop fly in short center. The ball hopped out of his hands and Reynolds grabbed it before it touched the ground. Then Bishop was given a homer on a drive to right. A fan leaned out and tried to catch it, so the umpires decided the runner could make the circuit.

The second game was an orderly affair for quite a stretch. For five innings Braxton gave up only one single, this by Dykes in the first inning. Only two safe clouts were uncorked against Shores in four rounds. Then the Sox leaped on him for two runs in the fifth, thereby enjoying a few moments in the lead. These runs happened because the session opened with a pass to Barnes, a single by Cissell and a pass to Kamm. Braxton's fly let Barnes scoot home, and Cissell scored when Kerr singled.

A.'s Score Five in Sixth.

A blast which removed Braxton from among those present and also gave the champions five runs occurred in the sixth. It started with Bishop's single. Dykes did the same. So did Cochrane, Bishop scoring. Simmons hit to center for one base, Dykes going home and Cochrane to third. Simmons continued to second when his smack was fumbled by Barnes. Foxx tripled, sending the two runners home, and a ay went Braxton. Miller's double off Rescuer Walsh counted Foxx with the last run of the inning.

Five more Macks registered in the eighth, when Kid Wehde lost about everything except his shirt when he attempted to relieve Walsh, whose hand was injured in attempting to grab a batted ball.

Faber is expected to tackle Rommel, one of Mack's veterans, in today's meeting.

to one of the greatest pitching achievements of all time until he interrupted himself with an error in the seventh inning. Up to that time, in six innings, only 18 hitters, the irreducible minimum, had gone to bat against him and not a man of the Daffiness Boys had pricked the bag at first with his cleats. He had struck out Babe Herman, the home run hitter, twice, and he had set down the first two hitters in the seventh for putouts, making a total of twenty in a row who hadn't been able to break through his service.

The customers, covering every seat in the ball yard, some few of them two deep, with friends taking turns at lap-sitting, and standing in the aisles and clinging and sprawling in other unconventional posts of observation, were beginning to wonder if they were to be present at one of those miracle ball games in which 27 hitters face the pitcher and no man reaches first.

But, in round seven, with two men out, the Hallahan boy mishandled a bouncing shot from Herman's bat and the pitcher broke his own charm by throwing badly to Bottomley at first. For the first time Hallahan had a man on base, but still, with perfection denied him, the boy went on with his work to do the best he could and the side was out again when Glenn Wright, the next hitter, knocked a fly to center.

Vance Fans Eleven.

The two pitchers were in a direct competition themselves, a kind of side bet apart from the painful rivalry of their respective clubs. Starting the game, Hallahan had pitched 161 strikeouts for the season and Vance 149. Hallahan struck out four today but Mr. Vance claimed eleven victims and by an interesting prank of chance Hallahan himself added three to his rival's total, he being no hand with a stick at all.

Mr. Vance sets considerable store by the strike out championship, such incidental distinctions having some bearing on the topic of a pitcher's wages when he comes to wrangle with the firm over his next year's salary, but though he won his side bet so to speak, he lost his ball game, which was like stooping over to pick up a quarter and dropping a dollar down a grating.

Gink Hendrick got the first hit of the game off Hallahan's line of work, a single to center field but Mancuso, the catcher, nabbed him with a throw to first when he tried to crowd his luck. Then Mickey Finn made a hit, another single, and he too, didn't know when he was well off and was put out in a foot ball play at second where he banged into Charlie Gelbert, the St. Louis shortstop and knocked him for what is poetically known as a loop.

Gelbert had just received the throw and he went to the ground with both hands clapped over his left eye as the ball rolled free and Finn, wobbling around looking for sympathy, himself. One of the St. Louis fellows snatched up the ball and bored Finn's ribs with it as he stumbled dizzily away from the bag so he was out after all and again Hallahan had faced only three hitters, nothwithstanding two hits.

High Scores Winning Run.

Andy High, once of Brooklyn, himself started the game to its decision in the tenth inning, the third time he has done as much for the Cardinals on this tour. Hitting for Gelbert, he knocked himself a double and took third on Hallahan's sacrifice bunt. Douthit then fetched him home with a single and the game was won, although Hallahan filled the bases in the tenth, throwing four pitchouts to pass Jake Flowers and set the situation for a double play which worked.

The Cardinals jumped about and shook hands all around as the ball game ended like a winning club in a world series, and the excitement ceased with an audible escape of breath from the 28,000 present.

The row continues on Wednesday, and before the week is over one club or the other probably will be clearly identified as the winner of the pennant. There is tremendous agitation over the impending fortune of misfortune of Uncle Wilbert Robinson's ever amusing Daffiness boys.

"Do you inhale?" we asked them all, and 69 out of 108 answered "Certainly. That's the only way to get the full flavor of a cigarette."

Many went on to say, "That's why I smoke WINGS, too! They seem to taste cleaner and cooler!"

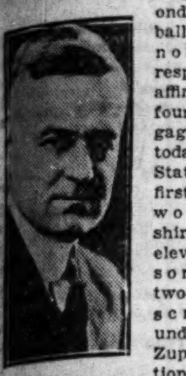
ILLINOIS STARTS SCRIMMAGE ON 2D DAY OF DRILL

Zuppke Sends 4 Teams Into Action.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Asked if they wanted to scrimmage on the second day of football practice, Illinois' youngsters responded in the affirmative and four elevens engaged each other today. As Iowa State is Illinois' first foe, one team wore the red shirts of the Ames eleven. The personnel of the two teams which scrimmaged under Coach Bob Zuppke's directions was as follows:



ROBERT ZUPPKE.

Team A—Schumacher, center; Conover, Garner guards; Stan Bodman, Jackson, tackles Owen, Swanson, ends; Perrine, quarter back; Berry, Yanuskus, half backs; Robinson, full back.

Team B—McDevitt, center; Jensen, Ack Bodman, guards; Hills, Huddlestun, tackles; Russell, Wilson, ends; Chattin, quarter back; Evans, Etnyre, Hall, half backs; Schultz full back.

Berry and Etnyre, new backs, attracted attention.

MAROON BACKS TOSS PASSES.

It's great to be a back field candidate at the University of Chicago. While the linemen blocked, charged and tackled the dummy in two long sessions yesterday, the backs either tossed passes or scampered down to catch one of their mate's throws.

The Maroons will have a homespun line this season, as Coach Stagg will have to build his forward wall out of green material. The center and tackle posts are the hardest problems, especially with the eligibility of Bud Trude regular tackle last year, still in doubt. Both Trude and Wein, an end with some experience, have taken their makeup examinations and are awaiting the returns. Zenner and Parsons, both sophomores weighing 172 and 187, respectively, were at center yesterday, snapping the ball to Kanne, Capt. Van Nice, Knudson and Don Birney as they practiced punting.

BADGER FULL BACK SHIFTED.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Shifting Walter Gnabah, 190 pound reserve full back, to a guard position was the most significant devolpment of the second day's Wisconsin football practice. Gnabah is the fastest sprinter on the squad.

Two practices were again held today, with a sharp increase in the severity of the work. Five elevens ran through signals but no first nor second eleven was discernible, the veterans being distributed through four teams.

KIPKE SPLITS UP SQUAD.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—With only two days of practice, Coach Harry Kipke today divided the Michigan football squad into teams, and ran them through plays tried out in spring drill. The squad of veterans picked yesterday to run through signals was kept intact, and Morrison and Holmes added, Morrison alternating with Smith at center, while Holmes alternated with Capt. Simrall and Heston at half back, Cornwell, an end for two years, was tried at center.

The squad was given a long drill in lateral and forward passing this afternoon, with Tessmer, Newman, Eastman and Hudson on the throwing end.

CAMERAS SLOW PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Between appearances before sound movie cameras and a battery of newspaper photographers, Purdue's championship football squad managed to get in a meager but effective offensive drill this afternoon.

Dummy offensive scrimmage closed the practice, and, although no attempt was made to pick teams, a likely looking combination had Calvert and Moon at ends, Boswell and Van Bibber at tackles, Stears and Buttner at guards, Miller at center, White at quarter back, Yunevich at full back, and Kissell, Pope, Purvis and Risk at halves.

GOPHERS LOSE TIMM.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—With the practice season only two days old Fritz Crisler found ineligibility taking its first toll on the Minnesota squad today. Leroy Timm, veteran blocking back, was ruled off the gridiron because of classroom deficiencies. At the same time it was learned that Al Oster, experienced end, has little chance of becoming available for the squad this year.

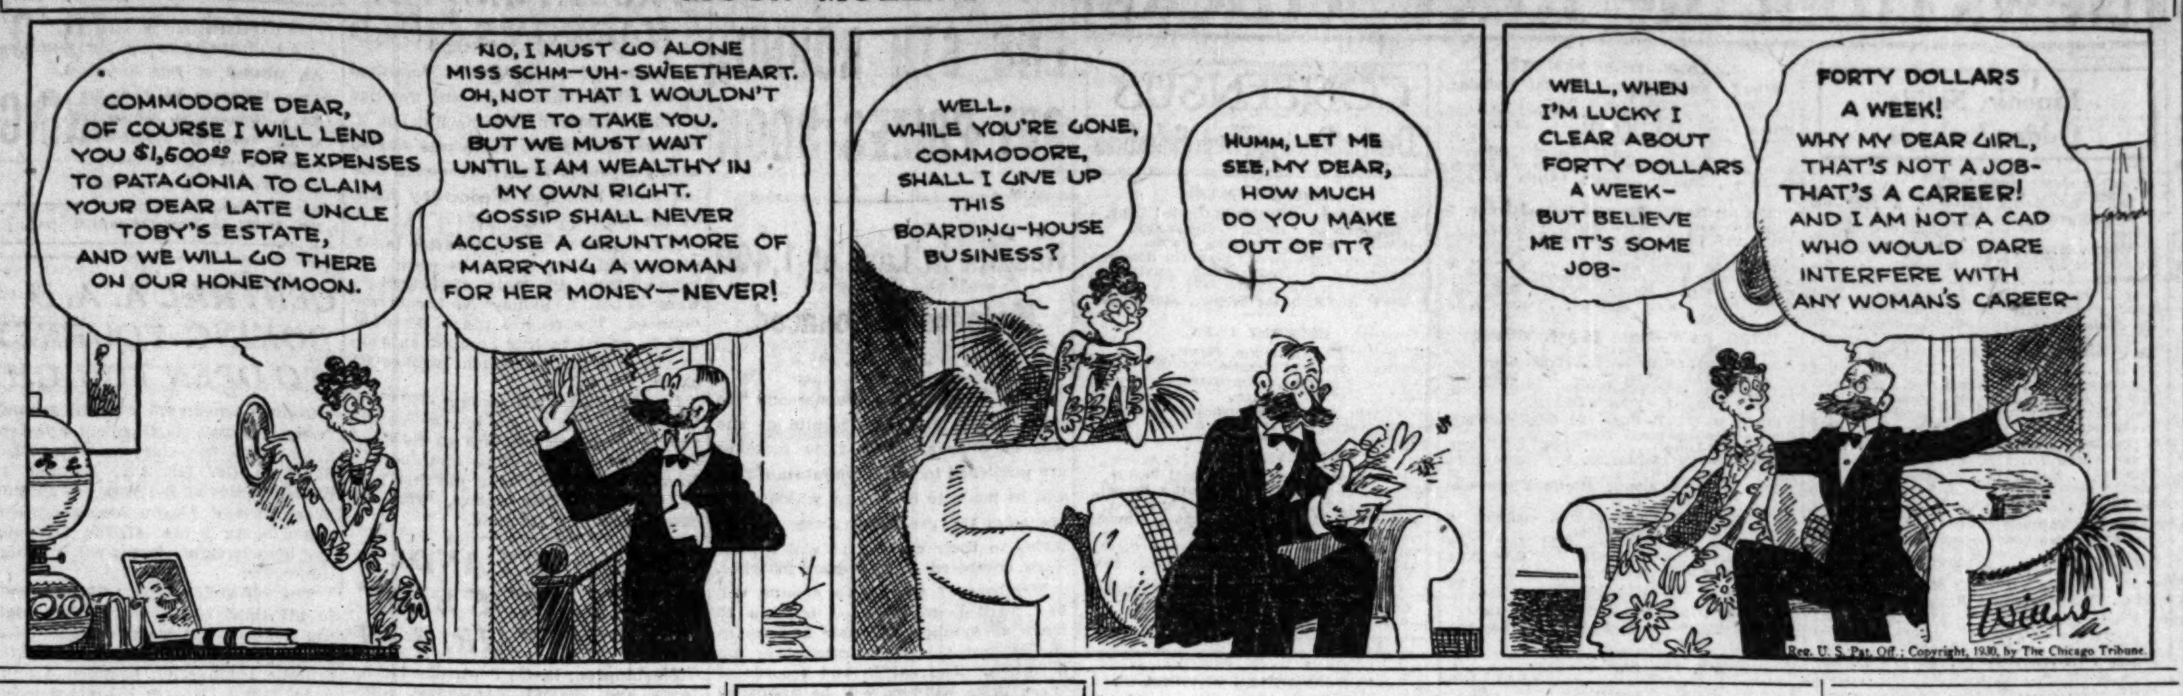
MOON MULLINS—THE BIG HEARTED BOY



N. U. to Have Strong First Team, Weak Reserves: Hanley

give the regulars two days vacation each week, excusing them from practice on Monday and Friday," Hanley explained as one of the means by which he hopes to have his men sustain their desire to play.

"Our early games are worthy of November dates," Hanley continued. "The team may burn itself out before decisive conference games are played. Tulane, our first opponent, is southern conference champion. It has a veteran team. Immediately afterward we engage Ohio State and Illinois.

"In the meantime, granting we win from Tulane and Ohio, Illinois has met Iowa State and Butler, nonconference opponents, and will be on edge for Northwestern. Although the Illini are supposed to be a green eleven, that contest well may upset our hopes.

Centre Comes Next.

"Centre college is our fourth game. While a defeat would not affect our standing in the conference, there's always a chance for injury. Then comes a quartet of important games, three of them with Big Ten schools. Minnesota is met at Minneapolis. Then we travel to Bloomington to meet Indiana, which has beaten us three successive years. The Badgers conclude the Big Ten season at Dyche stadium, but Notre Dame provides the season's finai on Nov. 22."

Northwestern's championship aspirations are based on a veteran back field and five experienced linesmen. Only at center and guard, where Henry Anderson and Mickey Erickson held forth last season, will inexperienced men be stationed. Rus Bergherm, all-conference full back, is gone, but there are several fine prospects available.

Following is a list of the nine regulars, their positions, and weight:

Henry Bruder [capt.], half back, 188; Sid Burnstein, half back, 167; Al Moore, half back, 168; Lee Hanley, quarter back, 160; Frank Baker, end, 171; Larry Oliphant, end, 177; Dallas Marvil, tackle, 223; Jack Riley, tackle, 210; Wade Woodworth, guard, 191.

Other lettermen returning are:

William Griffin, half back; Will Lewis, quarter back; Bert Riel, quarter back; Robert Clark, center; Paul Engebretson, tackle; Harry Kent, tackle; Bob Gonya, tackle; Jimmie Evans, guard; Ralph Haug, guard; Ralph Eylar, end.

In the sophomore material Hanley has Ernest Renter and Reb Russell, either of whom may become the regular full back. Other promising sophomores are Hi Crizenevsky and George Dilley, guards; Dick Fencl and Cliff Fogarty, ends; F. H. Leach, quarter; Paul McDonald, center, and Agate Martin, half back.

Hurricanes Beat Roslyn, 10 to 9, in Open Polo Meet

Westbury, L. I., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—History nearly repeated itself word for word at the Meadowbrook club this afternoon as the Hurricanes and Roslyn polo teams rode into the ninth period before Capt. C. T. I. Roark drove through the winning goal that carried the Hurricanes into the second round of the open championship by a score of 10 to 9.

Last year these two teams battled for twelve periods in this tournament and last year it also was Roark who pulled his side through to win the championship.

The drama was a long while in starting this afternoon, for the early periods saw polo that was always tough and hard but not always good. Then, when it seemed that the Hurricanes had taken the game in hand, Roslyn came with a surging crash through the last half to catch them and force the game into an extra period. Summary.

HURRICANES [10].		ROSLYN [9].
H. Sanford	No.1	H. E. Talbott Jr.
E. Pedley	No.2	Cecil Smith
Capt. C.T.I.Roark	No.3	G. Balding

Scores by periods:

Hurricanes ....010 221 211—10
Roslyn ....001 031 130— 9

Goals—Hurricanes: Sanford, 3; Pedley, 3; Roark, 2; Strawbridge, 2. Roslyn: Talbott, 1; Smith, 5; Balding, 2; Williams, 1.

Innovations in Equipment Await Autumnal Hunters

BY BOB BECKER.

Hunters, especially those who use a shotgun on most of their trips, are going to find several novelties in guns and ammunition when they stroll into a sporting goods store this fall to get supplies for the coming shooting seasons.

One of the newest and most startling innovations in gun design that will be on display is the three shot autoloading shotgun, made in the 20 gauge only. This stands out as one of the most marked advancements in repeating shotguns that has come to the market for some time.

And when the sportsman leaves the gun counter to buy shells he's going to find another practical innovation, because it is possible to buy shotgun shells in small handy packages of ten instead of in boxes of 25.

The new 20 gauge, three shot autoloading shotgun is another step toward the lightweight shotgun trend for the upland game bird hunter, although many of the 20 gauge fans also will use the three shot for duck hunting.

Five shot 12 gauge autoloading shotguns have been on the market for some time. The same holds true for the 16 gauge. Both have proved to be very popular. They are far from good looking guns, as even their designers must admit. And they haven't much balance. The double barrel gun scores on both of these points and for that reason we have stayed pretty close to a double gun for the last ten years although in goose hunting, which often means rapid shooting after a long wait, we believe the five shot gun autoloading shotgun to be superior.

In this new three shot 20 gauge the magazine holds but two shells. The barrel is 26 inches long and the gun only weighs about 6½ pounds. It is possible to get extra barrels for the new gun, so that the owner can use it on quail with an improved cylinder barrel and then change to a full choke for duck shooting. The three shots are an advantage to the water fowl hunter as a quick, third shell often means the bagging of a crippled duck.

The extra shot which this new gun provides [as compared to the double barrel gun] also ought to make a hit with the quail hunters. In Florida last winter we found that on many covey rises we would liked to have had three instead of two chances, but under no circumstances would we lug a five shot autoloading gun around to get that third shell.

MILLERS RECALL PITCHER.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Harold Vandenburg, rookie pitcher from Minneapolis, who hurled for Bloomington this year, has been recalled by Minneapolis.

ROCKNE DRILLS HIS SQUAD ON PASS DEFENSE

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's football squad went through two light workouts today, duplicating yesterday's opening practice, although more was accomplished because no camera men were present to interrupt proceedings.

The morning was devoted to the running of signals and dummy scrimmage. Coach Knute Rockne gave no intimation of the varsity lineup, dividing outstanding men from last year among several teams. In the afternoon he devoted most of the time to a defense, as Southern Methodist, the first team on the schedule, has a national reputation as a strong passing eleven.

About 100 freshmen reported this afternoon with about 200 more expected tomorrow.

OHIO TO SCRIMMAGE.

Columbus, O., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—The first scrimmage session for the Ohio State football squad probably will be held Thursday, Coach Sam Willaman announced today. At both practice sessions today Willaman divided his men into backs and linemen for instruction in offensive maneuvers.

Tuesday's lineup was unchanged from Monday, with Fesler and Larkins at end; Haubrich and Baumgartner at tackles; Selby and Wingert at center. In the back field Willaman had Holcomb and Sola at halves.

FOG POSTPONES THIRD RACE FOR YACHT TROPHY

Enterprise and Shamrock Meet Again Today.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Dense fog, threatened rain and lack of wind today caused a postponement until tomorrow of the third of the series of races for the America's cup.

Early morning weather conditions in Newport had considerably dimmed hopes that a contest would be possible today, and at 11:30 a. m., after ordering the racing yachts not to leave their moorings, the race committee of the New York Yacht club definitely announced that the race had been postponed.

Two Yachts Collide.

The race was called off only when the race committee decided weather conditions were so adverse that neither yacht could finish the thirty miles within the five and one-half hour time limit. The fog made navigation difficult. Two large yachts collided in the harbor, but with little apparent damage to either. They were the Zaborn, owned by Richard F. Howe of Glen Cove, L. I., and Archie Andrews' Sialia of Los Angeles.

The race committee realized that even if the fog should lift and a breeze arise there would not be time enough to get Enterprise and Shamrock to the starting point in time to start by 1:30, specially in the murky weather through which the yachts would have to be towed 12 miles to sea.

Gives Lipton Chance.

Sir Thomas Lipton expressed regret. He had been asking constantly for weather conditions on the course and believed that a postponement was best under the conditions.

"It will give me a chance," he said, "to install a new sailing motor in the Shamrock. The old one doesn't seem to run very well on this American petrol."

The race scheduled for tomorrow—the third—is considered the crucial point of the series. If the Shamrock does not win it—it is a windward-leeward race, like Saturday's defeat—the last glimmerings of hope on the part of the British contingent that they will lift the aged silver ewer called the America's cup will have disappeared.

POLINOS BEATS SCHOONER, 3-10 CHOICE AT CRETE

Ellice, Another Camden Entry, Wins 4th Race.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The red, white, and black jacket of Johnson N. Camden of Kentucky, which has been in the background during a greater part of the long Chicago turf season, came into its own at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

Polinos, a son of Tryster-Lorraine, and Ellice, a daughter of Black Servant-Five Aces, carried the Camden silks to victory in the two feature races.

When Jockey Kenneth Russell got Polinos to the line of finish ahead of Schooner in the third race he trounced the shortest priced favorite of the season, for Schooner, an ex-member of the Rancocas stable, had so many backers he would have paid off at only 3 to 10 had he run as his supporters expected him to run.

Polinos Takes Rail and Wins.

Polinos, a thoroughly fit horse saddled by Trainer Dan Stewart and at his best in the slow lumpy going, didn't have much trouble trimming the favorite. He was helped along a bit as the small field of four neared the lower bend, when Jockey Ayraud took Schooner slightly out from the rail. Until Ayraud made this move, Polinos was running last with Cousin Jo in front, Schooner second and Hillsborough third.

When Schooner went wide the other leaders went with him. This left a wide enough opening for Jockey Russel to skim through next to the rail with Polinos. From there home, Russell on Polinos outrode Ayraud on Schooner.

The army of favorite players groaned, but that didn't cause Polinos to run any slower, nor did it spur Schooner onto greater deeds. Polinos went on to triumph by a length. Schooner beat Hillsborough out of the place by a length and a half. Cousin Jo brought up the rear. In the betting Polinos paid $12.28 to win and $2.80 to place. Schooner paid $2.20 to place. No show mutuels were sold. The time for the seven furlongs over the slow track was 1:29 4-5.

Ellice Defeats Suitor.

Ellice didn't have much of a battle on her hands to score in the fourth race. Soon after the mile combat started she jumped into the lead and raced out in front of her rivals all the way. Part of the time she was three lengths away from them. At times she led by four lengths, and she wound up by beating the game and consistent Suitor by three and one half lengths. Blackwood was third, beating Stuyvesant Peabody's Martie Flynn in the last jump for the slim end of the purse.

Ellice and Suitor were almost equal first choices, although there was plenty of backing right at post time for Martie Flynn. Calome also had some support. While it was a high class claiming affair, every horse being entered for $7,000 or more, it was the first time Martie Flynn had been dropped into a selling race and those who supported him were confident of a victory.

Otto W. Lehmann's silks were carried to victory by his 2 year old, Inheritor, in the seven furlong race which opened the program. He scored the easiest victory of the afternoon, winning by 10 lengths from the Valley Lake stable's Broom Street, with Toney's Star third. The Lehman colt was far out in front all the way.

LOYOLA U. ENDS STAND OUT IN GRID PRACTICE

One of the bright spots of yesterday's football session at Loyola university was the performance of Coach Doc Norton's ends. Contrary to the dearth of end material which affected last year's squad, this season's eleven has a half dozen possibilities, two of them, George Weiner and Bill McNeil, being veterans. Both are showing more than they did last year when they were getting first call in all the games.

Among the ends who have graduated to the varsity this season from last year's freshman squad are Dode Norton, brother of the Rambler coach, Joe Phelan, Tom Walsh, and Alex Averill. All four are giving Weiner and McNeil plenty of competition for the end jobs.

Helen Meany, Olympic Tank Star, to Be Married Sept. 25

Greenwich, Conn., Sept. 16.—[Special.]—The matrimonial sea will be her next conquest, Helen Meany, Olympic and American diving and swimming champion, announced today when she and the bridegroom-to-be, Harry Russell Balfe, 38, a broker of New York City, applied here for a marriage license. They will be married Sept. 25.

CAR LOADINGS SHOW BUSINESS IN GOOD VOLUME

Only 15% Below 1929 Level.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Scanning the business horizon for definite signs of revival has become almost a major profession these days. Undoubtedly sentiment is more cheerful and there is general belief that the worst has passed. But thus far tangible evidence of recovery has been lacking or unconvincing.

Yet nearly every day produces some faint glimmering of a brighter trade era, although it is often obscured by current adverse developments. Yesterday brought several items which might be construed as at least relatively cheerful. For example, the country is transacting a goodly volume of business, judged by the movement of commodities by the railroads.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Sept. 6 totaled 856,637 cars, which marked a decrease of 161,-144 cars, or about 15 per cent, below the same week in 1929. And September last year was an abnormally active month. Because the first week of September contained the Labor day holiday, loadings fell 127,867 cars below the preceding week. But that week, in turn, showed a decline of 177,596 cars from the corresponding week in 1929. So a narrowing of the spread between loadings for the rest of this year and the same period last year appears to be in prospect.

Larger Wheat Movement.

In addition, reports by four of the large railroads in the northwest indicated that the movement of wheat has risen to about 4,000,000 bushels a day, which should have a favorable effect on earnings of the carriers this month.

The petroleum industry continues to make progress toward adjusting production to demand and reducing storage stocks of refined products. Last week the daily average gross crude oil output totaled 2,418,750 barrels, a decline of 17,300 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum institute. A curtailment of 15,900 barrels a day occurred in Oklahoma and lesser declines took place in the Panhandle of Texas, north Texas, west Texas, Michigan, and New Mexico fields. But sizeable increases were shown in Kansas, east central and southwest Texas, Wyoming, and California.

Refineries increased their takings of crude oil and operated at 69.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 67 per cent in the previous week. But gasoline stocks declined 741,000 barrels, now standing at 37,232,000 barrels Gas and fuel oil stocks increased slightly.

Sees Better Times.

Better times are ahead of the steel industry, according to Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation. He said steel prices are slowly but steadily strengthening, especially for the principal products, and he predicted more satisfactory operating and employment conditions if the industry is able to stabilize prices. Leading interests are more in accord on a firm price policy than heretofore and fabricated steel prices have risen about 6 per cent in New York.

Similarly, F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., believes that the next three months in the meat packing industry will be better than the last quarter of 1929, largely due to lower commodity prices. As to the general business outlook, he considers hesitancy caused by fear to be the basic handicap that is retarding recovery.

There were reports yesterday that the General Motors corporation has found retail sales during the latter part of August and thus far this month have proved larger than had been anticipated. It has been the first time in several months that business has exceeded forecasts.

Amusement Enterprises Found Holding Up Well

BY SCRUTATOR.

Amusement enterprises are organized as efficiently as any of the great basic industries and as a whole probably are showing at least as good a profit record this year as the average of those producing the essentials of life.

Just what constitutes amusement in present living standards may be a matter of disagreement. The theater is one, undoubtedly, and so is the little golf course and the baseball game. But to what extent the passenger automobiles in Chicago, numbering nearly 400,000 and costing their owners possibly 200 million dollars a year, can be considered amusement devices could be debatable.

The radio, which sells for a total of 650 million dollars a year in the Unitedd States, may be a source of education and a dispenser of vital information. Its principal function, however, is to amuse. The same is true in only less degree of the passenger car.

Great Modern Appeal.

Considerations of health are important when the family car and the golf game are mentioned, yet their vogue is based on their being pleasant. So great is the appeal of modern amusement, fostered and financed by experts as astute as those in any other line, that it takes 15 per cent at least, and possibly 20 per cent, of the national income.

Chicago has 330,000 motion picture theater seats. The Association of Commerce has found that this summer finds those in at least one chain running at 90 per cent of their capacity, filling more than four times a day. Such conditions may not prevail for the whole lineup of theaters, but the business does not seem to have been appreciably affected by depression.

On a national scale the motion picture industry carries a two billion dollar capitalization, four-fifths of it in theaters. The normal American goes to see at least one performance every eight or nine days. If the figures on national income are correct almost a penny out of every dollar goes into theater owners' coffers.

The Chicago area has, or had at last accounts, 195 golf courses. It is figured that the average of income for eighteen hole courses is about $72,-000, which would mean an expenditure of over fourten millions a year in addition to the cost of playing equipment. Over the country the estimate is that 700 million dollars is invested in club grounds for golf purposes and that total playing costs each year run into nine figures. The guess here is that these statistics are low.

Surprises Observers.

It has been a matter of astonishment to some economic observers that baseball teams could continue in a dull period to draw record crowds, or that the throngs at the race tracks continued to be as large as usual. Air races were in no way behind expectations in the matter of attendance. No crowd at Soldiers' field ever equaled the one atracted by THE TRIBUNE'S music festival.

Organized commercialized entertainment is a mark of civilization. It demonstrates that there is a surplus of income over a sufficiency of mere necessities, and a surplus of leisure. The record this year goes to support the theory that not 10 per cent of Americans have been so affected in income by depression that they must forego their customary spending, even for entertainment.

STOCK HOLDINGS OF CYRUS EATON CITED IN STEEL MERGER SUIT

Youngstown, O., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A summary of various stock holdings of Cyrus S. Eaton, leading opponent of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel corporation merger, and of the investment companies in which he is interested was introduced by the defense today as an exhibit in the injunction suit against the merger.

Letters sent by the managements to the stockholders of the concerns which were consolidated into the Republic Steel corporation also were introduced as a part of the defense attack upon Eaton's credibility as a witness in the case.

One of the exhibits showed that Eaton on March 7 owned 5,480 shares of Sheet and Tube common stock, the same number on March 12, when Youngstown directors approved the merger terms, and 54,645 shares on April 8, the date of the stockholders' meeting which culminated a bitter proxy war.

Continental Shares and International Shares, both Eaton companies, and the latter a co-plaintiff in the injunction suit, owned 11,000 shares of Youngstown during March and 21,150 on April 8. Otis & Co., Cleveland brokers in which Eaton is a partner, owned 42,060 shares on March 7, and 49,351 on April 8. Including the stock held by the Cliffs corporation, which remained neutral, the total holdings of the Eaton group on March 7 were 190,370 shares and April 8 were 267,129 shares.

Another exhibit showed Republic holdings of the Eaton group to be 591,194 shares, of which 62,577 are held by Eaton personally, Inland Steel stock 313,772 shares, of which 26,000 shares are owned by Eaton.

Foreign Trade 80-85 Pct. of Last Year, Hoover Hears

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—President Hoover has been informed by the commerce department that American foreign trade for August is running at between 80 and 85 per cent in quantity of like foreign trade last year, and has registered some gain over early months of 1930.

HERBERT HOOVER.
[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

"I have received from the department of commerce preliminary figures on foreign trade for the month of August," the President said today. "They show total imports of $217,000,-000 and total exports of about $300,-000,000. The exports show an increase of about $38,000,000 over July.

Cites Buying Power.

"The department has made a study as to how far imports and exports have been affected by the fall in prices as distinguished from actual quantity. During the first seven months of this year our exports have decreased about 30 per cent in quantity, and our imports have decreased about 5 per cent, indicating that our buying power has held up much better than that of foreign countries."

Since wholesale prices on world markets have fallen about 15 per cent during the last year on the average, covering all commodities, the departmental studies indicate quantities in foreign trade of the United States are not much below 1929 figures.

Favorable Trade Balance.

The counts, however, having been kept in values, have shown a greater decline in dollars than they actually would in unit of quantity.

The 1930 export total of approximately $300,000,000 compared with an August, 1929, export valuation of $382,000,000. Imports of $217,000,000 compared with $377,000,000 a year ago. Favorable balance of trade for August of this year, therefore, was approximately $83,000,000, against $5,000,000 in August, 1929.

The Madison Square Garden corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, placing the issue on a $1 a share annual basis.

Receiver Is Appointed for Sharp & Smith Firm

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday appointed the Chicago Title and Trust company as receiver for Sharp & Smith, dealers in surgical instruments for the last eighty years. The firm has its headquarters in Chicago, with branches in Los Angeles, Cal., Rochester, Minn., and Temple, Tex. Hovey & Ely, counsel who filed the petition, stated that no claim was made that the firm is insolvent, but pleaded that the concern, with estimated assets of $500,000, has insufficient funds or credit to carry at this time its indebtedness of $260,000. The receiver will continue the business and seek to work out a reorganization plan, it was stated. William N. Sharp, for years a leader in the firm, died on Aug. 28.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Sept. 16.—Stocks just bumped along today. Neither trading faction was inclined to be quarrelsome and the market was left pretty much to its own resources.

As a rule the tendency was downward in the early dealings and back again toward the last. The final table showed a scattering of gains ranging from 2 to 8 points and a corporal's guard of losses about as great. Fractional changes were the fashion, however, and they fell on either side of the line with utter impartiality. The pivotals finished slightly higher.

It was one of those markets that Wall street likes to forget as soon as possible. Just how dull it was may be seen from the announced total on the day's dealings—1,767,910 shares.

Copper Price Cut.

There was little news of importance. A cut in copper prices, the early weakness in the commodity markets, and the late rally in wheat were the chief developments. The strength in wheat was a big help to operators for the advance in turning prices higher in

THIS year, during the eight months' period just passed, an estimated total of $961,758,465 of municipal issues has been marketed—an increase of more than 10 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. This clearly shows action by state and municipal authorities in undertaking an expanded program of necessary public works, as a means of offsetting the current recession in other lines.

Investors in municipal bonds at the present time have the satisfaction of knowing that their funds are serving a twofold purpose. They are yielding attractive income from a form of tax-exempt security known for safety. In addition, they are aiding materially to stimulate employment and thus maintain the purchasing power upon which return to more active business conditions so largely depends.

Our current list of municipal offerings provides an assortment of good values from which selections can be made to fit the needs of individual investment accounts. A partial list of such offerings is shown herewith—complete list with descriptions will be sent on request.

Why This Bank Believes In Life Insurance

REASON NUMBER FOUR

By assuring you a definite income in the event of your partial or total disability, or after your attainment of a given age, life insurance extends its protection far beyond the purpose for which it is ordinarily carried. Likewise, by assuring your family an available source for funds to meet unforeseen emergencies in the years to come, a life insurance trust can be made to accomplish far more than the paying of a stated income. And this Bank, though not engaged in the sale of life insurance, does advocate and recommend its use in a manner calculated to provide full protection against the unexpected

NEW LOWS AGAIN SET BY GRIGSBY, MAJESTIC SHARES

Part of Losses Recovered Near the Close.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Record lows were established again yesterday by Grigsby-Grunow and Majestic Household shares on the Chicago Stock exchange.

Distress selling brought out by the persistent weakness in the stocks in the last few days and continued pressure from the professionals weighted heavily on the issues in the fore part of the day. A technical reaction carried both issues up again later in the session, but not far enough to retrieve the early losses.

Majestic's low point was 25, the price at which the stock was brought out last spring. Its sensational rise following the offering, in which it reached a high of 74, was the major feature of the dull summer trading here. The issue closed yesterday seven points above its low. The last sale in Grigsby was made at 9, but earlier had sold at 6¾.

Reflects Competition.

The conspicuous weakness which the two stocks have shown recently is seen as a reflection of the severe competition with which the companies are faced in the radio and electrical refrigeration fields. The last annual report of the Grigsby-Grunow company, covering the year ended May 31, 1930, showed the effects of the competition in the radio field as well as the business depression, which was particularly severe within the industry. The company earned a net profit of only $1,745,648, as compared with $5,115,500 in the preceding year.

At the close of the year the company had cash on hand of $936,850, as contrasted with $3,285,994 at the close of the 1929 period. Total current assets, which consisted largely of the inventories and notes and accounts receivable, amounted to $9,250,000, compared with $11,573,177 at the end of the previous year.

Elsewhere in the Chicago list prices were irregular on comparatively light trade. More than 50 per cent of the days' total sales volume was accounted for by transactions in Grigsby and Majestic.

For the most part the specialties moved within a narrow range. Electric Household lost over a point but the majority of the losses were fractional. Motor shares eased moderately.

Fail to Take Action.

Greyhound corporation common was slightly lower on light trade upon failure of directors to take any action on the participating preferred dividend. The regular dividend was declared on the class "A" preferred. Dividends on the both classes of preferred stock were initiated last April.

Efficient market sponsorship was reflected in the performances of the Continental Chicago and Chicago corporation issues. Each of the four issues made fair improvement in the midst of a sloppy market.

In the face of the downward trend among the other utility shares Missouri Kansas made some recovery yesterday. Insull Utility was freely [illegible] on and closed nearly 2 points above the previous day's final quotation. Minor reverses were the rule among the other utilities.

New England Gas and Electric.

Please advise me if New England Gas and Electric company 5 per cent convertible gold bonds, due May 1, 1950, are a sound investment. Any information will be appreciated. H. W.

New England Gas and Electric association is a voluntary association organized in 1926 to control various gas and electric companies. It is affiliated with Associated Gas and Electric system.

Operating subsidiary companies serve a population estimated to be in excess of 950,000 in communities in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward island.

There are outstanding $20,000,000 of the convertible debenture 5s, due May 1, 1950. They represent a direct obligation of the association but are not secured by mortgage. They are convertible to May 1, 1933, into $5.50 preferred shares on the basis of ten shares for each $1,000 bond.

Consolidated net earnings of the association for the twelve months ended March 31, 1930, after depreciation but before interest, were $4,402,495, or 1.88 times annual interest charges [including this issue].

They are a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

American Commonwealths Power.

Can you tell me anything about the securities of the American Commonwealths Power corporation? Is this a sound investment for a widow? S. O. C.

American Commonwealths Power corporation was organized in Delaware in January, 1927, as a holding company for public utilities.

It controls American Community Power company, American Gas and Power company, Union Gas Utilities corporation, and others.

Subsidiaries furnish electric light and power, gas, water and ice to 399 communities with an estimated population of 2,500,000 in 23 states.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, consolidated net earnings available for dividends were $4,483,120 against $1,907,121 for 1928.

The corporation has outstanding several issues of debentures, varied series of preferred stock, and two classes of common.

The debentures are of fair grade, but are not considered suitable for a widow who is dependent on the income from modest capital. The preferred is medium grade and the common, both classes, is speculative.

Expired Rights.

I bought some rights which expired on Sept. 4, 1930, but failed to exercise them. Have they any value now? G. D.

If you bought rights for the purchase of stock and then let them expire you are out the money paid for the rights.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Fresh Bull Tips.

Despite the reactionary tendencies that characterized stock trading yesterday it was possible to pick up a number of fresh bull tips. The speculative fraternity was discussing the prospect for an early resumption of operations by pools in a number of stocks. Included in the list of speculative favorites reported being groomed for early advances the more prominently mentioned were Vanadium Steel, American Can, Electric Power and Light, and Standard Brands.

Turning Point.

Those who have been keeping a close watch on the affairs of the F. W. Woolworth Co. say that it has a fair chance of topping its 1929 sales performance this year, despite the fact that the showing for the first seven months of this year was 3.9 per cent under that of last year. H. T. Parson, president of the company, stated recently that the week ended Aug. 1 represented a turning point in the company's business, and that sales since then have been on the upgrade.

Holds Its Own.

General Tire and Rubber, which recently introduced a new product to the market, appears to be one of the few companies in the industry able to hold its own. The corporation has just declared its fifty-third consecutive preferred dividend, and at no time since its organization has it failed to pay regular cash dividends on the preferred and common stocks.

Building a Lasting Investment ... in Essential Public Services

NECESSARY to the maintenance of the financial and industrial greatness of any civilized country is the provision for continuous new construction and expansion of vital public utilities.

Utilities Power & Light Corporation is contributing conspicuously to the development of the electric and gas industries in the United States and to the electric industry in Great Britain. It operates not only in important sections of the Atlantic seaboard and in such great industrial centers of the Middlewest as St. Louis and Indianapolis, but also in the rich agricultural regions of the Central Northwest and in the natural gas fields of the Southwest. In Great Britain it provides electric service for lighting and industry in 137 cities and towns, largely within 100 miles of London and including parts of London and Birmingham.

No business has shown a more consistent record of growth over a long period than that of production and sale of electric power and gas, and none evidences better prospects for the future.

The Utilities Power & Light System is aiding aggressively in the upbuilding of the more than 800 communities it already serves, and will share in their increasing prosperity.

An essential function of a well managed public utility is the maintenance of its securities as sound and profitable investments. Details regarding the activities of this Corporation and its securities will be supplied upon request.

Top yesterday, $9.00; average, $8.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 13,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep.

All classes of live stock exceeded trade requirements and, with the exception of a few top cattle and hogs, sharp losses were recorded. Fancy yearling steers held the peak price at $13.10, equal to the highest in recent weeks, while heavy hogs sold upwards to $11.15, equaling Monday's top. Bulk of cattle slumped 25@50c, while most light hogs came down 10@25c and lambs showed losses of 25@75c.

Medium and weighty hogs were scarce again and sold at steady prices yesterday, while light weights ruled weak to 25c lower, some showing more loss near the close, the low point of the day. The extreme top at $11.15 was paid for 230@275 lb. butchers, while few 180 lb. averages passed $10.75. Armour, Swift and Wilson bought 4,500, mostly 160@190 lb. averages at $10.50 and slightly below.

The relatively high position of the Chicago hog market lately has curtailed shipping orders and local packers encountered little difficulty in breaking light hog prices. Outsiders bought less than 4,000. Some of the 6,000 left at the close were light weights held on sharply lower bids.

Packer Buys Hog Futures.

Activity featured trading in the hog futures market yesterday at fully steady prices. With the exception of one day the volume of trade was the largest since the market was established last March. Buying centered on September heavy grades at $10.65.

The Brennan Packing company bought contracts for nine carloads of standard heavy grade, averaging 260@310 lbs., for this month's delivery at the price. Mediums for September brought $10.90 at the start and closed at $10.85. Light for next December sold at $9.00 and for January at $9.15. December mediums sold at $9.15 and January contracts brought $9.30. On the "to arrive" market, 210@260 lb. hogs for today's delivery were bid $11.15.

The government released an optimistic report on the hog outlook for the fall and winter. According to the report hogs will be fewer and lighter during the next 12 months. Average prices of hogs in the 1930-31 marketing are expected to be higher than the 1929-30 marketing. The decrease in slaughter for 1930-31 marketing is expected to be 4 to 6 per cent. The fall pig crop and also the crop next spring are expected to be reduced.

Cattle receipts at 11,000 proved excessive in view of an advance estimate of 13,000 more for today and prices came down 25@50c in most cases. A string of 97 fancy Illinois yearling steers averaging 975 lbs. brought $13.10, being one of the few sales above $12.50 yesterday. Prime 1,224 lb. averages reached $12.75 and 1,410 lb. heavies brought $12.50.

The bulk sold at $10.00@12.00. Butcher stock broke 25@50c, heifers showing the sharpest price cuts. Calves were scarce and went up 50c. Strong to higher prices were paid for better grades of stockers and feeders. Others were unchanged.

Deluge of Lambs.

A deluge of native lambs hit the market yesterday and made it possible for buyers to slash quotations again. Packers were eager to buy, however, and the clearance at the sharp decline was good, few bands remaining in first hands at noon. Bulk of sales touched a new low for the last 8 or 9 years and were below any corresponding day in about 15 years.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 13,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs and 20,000 sheep, against 13,920 cattle, 17073 hogs and 25,000 sheep on the previous Wednesday, and 14,039 cattle, 17,-653 hogs, and 24,611 sheep a year ago.

Raises Fund to Boost Use of Cotton in 1931

New York, Sept. 16.—George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile institute, announced today at the third annual trade conference that a fund of $250,000 has been authorized and is to be spent by the cotton industry in 1931 to continue the institute's advertising and educational program in behalf of styled cottons and other uses of cotton. He said that if fashion follows the same cycles which it has in the past there is "every reason to believe that the prominence with which cotton has been featured in every price range during the last two years will greatly aid the manufacturers of popular priced cotton dresses and fabrics."

High yield and guaranteed security are strange companions except under unusual conditions. Investors should not judge an investment upon its earnings record alone. Other factors that point for soundness and safety are corporate structure, competent management and future prospects for equity enhancement.

We will gladly analyze your investment problems without obligation.

Mr. Jacob Hekma, Vice-President of the Company, summarizes as follows his letter:

Business The Consumers Power Company owns and operates extensive and modern systems of electric light and power and gas properties in Michigan, serving one of the most important industrial sections of the country. Electric and/or gas service is rendered in Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Muskegon, Pontiac, Lansing, Manistee and more than 456 other cities and towns, the total territory having an estimated population in excess of 1,700,000.

Over 75% of the gross earnings and 80% of the net earnings of the Company during the past year were derived from the electric light and power business, and of the total output of the electric generating plants for the past eight calendar years, approximately 50% was produced by water-power.

STOCK MARKET BUMPS ALONG IN TRADING RUT

the afternoon following the earlier recessions.

Sharp price breaks in Real Silk Hosiery and Grigsby Grunow were factors on the selling side. Real Silk apparently hit an air pocket. The stock had been bid up quite sharply in recent sessions apparently by a pool which either did not wish to or were unable to stay with it.

Two or three disquieting rumors concerning the market sponsorship of the issue stimulated liquidation of the shares. At one time the price was down more than 6 points below last night's closing figure but about half this loss was recovered before closing time.

Grigsby-Grunow was beaten to a new low level for the year at 6¾ before the selling began to dry up. Weakness of this isuue served to arouse a good deal of discussion relative to the position of the company. The open market value of the stock has been just about halved since late last week, the result of a decline from around 13. The stock sold as high as 272 before the 4 for 1 splitup voted in August last year, and the present issue sold as high as 69¾ during 1929.

Difficult to Budge.

The early selling was accepted as the handiwork of the new "bear party" supposed to be trying out its mettle in preparation for a campaign of real importance. The sellers were no respectors of stocks but their success in pressing down some of the higher priced issues and specialties of uncertain position was much better than it was with the old line stocks. Steel, Can, Telephone, Nickel, Gas, General Electric and others of that caliber proved difficult to budge and most of them rallied to the "plus" side of the column after giving up fractions.

Besides Real Silk and Grigsby-Grunow, the chief sufferers of the day were Air Reduction, Columbian Carbon, Auburn Auto, Atlantic Coast Line, National Lead and Chesapeake corporation.

The rails were dull as usual and mail order shares were notably soft. Food stocks had their difficulties in the early dealings but rallied later. Amusements aid airplanes did little.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier for nearby supplies today, but later shipment held steady. An early partial setback was recovered in raw futures, but the volume of business was small with the close 1 to 3 points net higher. The day's business aggregated only 12,550 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

The refined market was steady with prices unchanged at 4.35c to 4.45c for fine granulated.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Cotton gray goods were unchanged today and the market was firm. Some inquiry continued for print cloths. Better sales were reported in fine goods. Burlaps were unchanged to a shade firmer with the market quiet. The downward trend continued in raw silks, with heavy selling in Japan and a dull market here.

REPORTS ON VALUE.

ABEL DAVIS IS HOPEFUL FOR REALTY ISSUES

Hope for the future of real estate securities was expressed yesterday by Gen. Abel Davis, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, in addressing the delegates to the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, now in session at Detroit.

"The business is convalescing—it needs quiet and rest," he said. "It will get on its feet as soon as the issues in trouble are cleared up, the surplus of buildings absorbed, vacancies filled, rents stabilized. In due course a demand for new buildings and new financing will come. Securities in which you deal are as sound as ever."

In reviewing the causes of the recent troubles experienced by realty issues, Gen. Davis said that in the future mortgage bankers must guard against inflated values. He said appraisals should be real appraisals. And he suggested that undeserving loans should not be supported nor securities be repurchased at a price above their actual value.

Says Pilot Radio and Tube Will Add 2,000 Workers

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Martin Openshaw, commercial vice president of the Pilot Radio and Tube corporation, said the company will add 2,000 workers to its pay roll at its Lawrence, Mass., plant during the next six or seven months. He said that, at the rate orders are being received and with the expectation of doubling the orders, "I can readily say that soon there will be but a modicum of unemployment in Lawrence."

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG AFTER TAME OPENING

Corn Prices Also Rally in Sympathy.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat made a tame start and a strong finish, closing with net gains of 1⅜@2½c. An early dip, which carried prices off ½@⅜c to equal the inside figure of the season, was followed by a bulge of 3½@4½c from the low on general commission house buying. This stampeded local shorts into covering and some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way up. Sellers of offers also had to protect themselves.

The close was on a reaction from the best figures on profit taking and selling against offers with September finishing at 82⅜@82½c; December, 87@87⅛c, and May, 93⅝@93⅞c.

At no time did the wheat market show pronounced weakness, the early dip being in sympathy with a decline of 1@1¼d in Liverpool. There was persistent buying by houses with eastern connections in sufficient volume to gradually absorb the surplus in the pit, however, and toward the last general buying developed which disclosed an oversold condition. Trade gossip indicated that several leading local professionals had been heavy buyers during the day, presumably to cover shorts.

Lower French Crop Estimate.

While there was no improvement in the foreign demand for North American cash wheat the trade was less pessimistic as to the trend of values, and there was relatively little pressure on the market early. A French statistician was out with an estimate indicating a French crop of 208,000,000 bu, and suggested that import needs would be 128,000,000 bu. The latter figure was a surprise to the trade, attracting considerable attention, and reports of frost in southern and central Argentine were also commented on freely.

Weakness in Liverpool was due to scattered liquidation and pressure to sell nearby parcels of Russian and Indian wheats, which met with a limited demand. All deliveries there sold at a new low on the crop. Winnipeg failed to follow the full upturn in Chicago, although closing 1⅜@1⅝c higher, with some buying credited to exporters and cash interests. Deliveries at interior points in the prairie provinces have fallen off sharply, and on Monday were only 2,238,000 bu, against 3,952,000 bu last year.

An increase of 25,617,000 bu was shown in the world's available supply of wheat, as compiled by Bradstreets, the total being placed at 386,021,000 bu, against 371,972,000 bu last year. The trade paid no attention to reports from New York intimating that Russia had been selling futures.

Corn Has Fair Rally.

Corn was weak early on scattered local and commission house selling but rallied later in sympathy with wheat and closed ⅛@⅞c higher with September, 91⅞c; December, 87⅛@87¼c, and May, 89⅛@89¼c. Spreading operations furnished considerable business, some operators selling corn and buying wheat while others did the reverse. May showed the most weakness, attributed to the liquidation of a line of long grain from a local professional.

Light to locally heavy frosts were predicted for North Dakota and Minnesota and light frost in northern Iowa and northeastern South Dakota and had some effect on the corn market. Shipping demand was only fair with sales of 52,000 bu, but the spot basis was steady to ½c higher and country offerings to arrive were small.

Oats showed stubborn resistance to pressure from the start with commission houses good buyers. At no time were prices below Monday's close. Net gains were ¾@1⅝c with September finishing at 37⅝c, and December at 40⅞@41c.

Scattered liquidation was on in rye and the market was weak early, only to rally toward the last in sympathy with wheat and closed ¼@1⅛c higher. September finished at 54½c, and December, 59@59⅛c.

WINNIPEG HOLDS FIRST CONFERENCE ON CRISIS OF AGRICULTURE THERE

WINNIPEG, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The first of four conferences to consider the agricultural situation was held today at the call of Premier Bracken.

Today's conference was among bankers. The others, to be held on successive days, will be with representatives of municipalities, live stock and agricultural society representatives, and loan and credit organizations.

"After careful analysis of the crop situation," said the premier, who has been a farmer for 50 years and is one of the dominion's leading stock breeders, "we find that a crisis faces the agricultural industry of western Canada. It has arisen out of the low prices for cereal grain. The prices received are so low as to come nowhere near returning to the farmers the cost of producing their grains."

He suggested as a remedy that the farmers hold as much as possible of their grain on the farms, using it to feed cattle, which can be sold for meat at a profit.

COTTON MARKET FIRMER

Trade buying of cotton around the 11c price level about offset hedging pressure yesterday and with somewhat more favorable trade reports and rainy weather over part of the belt, which may delay the movement, prices averaged higher. Net gains in Chicago were 5@8 points while New Orleans was up 5@7 points and New York 5@11 points.

Liverpool was strong and 6 to 8 points better than due with spot sales of 4,000 bales. The holding tendency on the part of farmers in general results in relatively little hedging pressure for this season of the year. Spots in New York were unchanged at 10.95c while New Orleans was 10 points higher at 10.70c, and sales of 6,840 bales. Galveston was 10.90c and Houston, 10.85c. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS

A bullish report from the 26 storage centers brought a sharply higher trend at the opening in butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Selling toward the close resulted in some of the gain being lost, however, and November ended the day at 39¼c, up ¼c. December closed at 39½c, up ¼c. Egg futures weakened further. November closing off ⅝@½c at 26¼@26⅜c. December closed at 27c, off ½.

The weekly report on storage butter holdings showed 1,000,000 lbs. more removed in the 26 cities than was taken out in the same period last year. November butter responded to this news by opening up ½c over the previous closing level. Sales: Butter—November, 94 cars; December, 32 cars. Eggs—November, 156 cars; December, 3 cars. CASH LARD IN DEMAND

Buying of lard futures by cash interests, presumably to remove hedges against domestic shipping sales, and the unexpected large reduction in local stocks during the last two weeks resulted in a firm market yesterday with the close at net gains of 2½@7½c with January leading. Houses with eastern connections were buyers of December.

The strong cash position is bringing in some investment buying, as stocks are about 40 per cent of what they were at this season a year ago. It is figured that the short corn crop will result in a relatively small yield of lard per hog. A government report suggests that the hog supply for 1930-31 will be 4 to 6 per cent smaller than the present season. Bellies were dull and 5@10c lower. Weakness in hog prices at the yards attracted little attention. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Heavy short covering in wheat on an oversold market was generally regarded by traders as the main factor in causing the startling reversal in the trend of values yesterday. It was noticeable, however, early in the day that the market was not responding to bearish news, and that the dips failed to bring in any stop loss order selling of consequence. In some quarters the belief prevails that prices have finally reached a level where considerable resistance to pressure will be noticeable and that declines will be slow. The bearish situation regarded as prevailing in wheat has been so well advertised, as they see it, that any change in conditions would be favorable for higher prices.

Board of Trade directors yesterday received the report of the special committee which conferred with Secretary Hyde regarding a change in the trading rules of the Chicago Board of Trade, but no action was taken. It is understood it is the idea of Mr. Hyde that the market can be made more attractive to buyers and members of the exchange may be shortly asked to ballot on a proposal to make only No. 1 and No. 2 grades of wheat deliverable on contracts. A special meeting of the directors to consider the proposed change will be held Friday.

Buy an audience when you buy an advertisement

THIS growing interest of advertisers in radio broadcasting should result in one salutary improvement in all advertising technique.

It should be an influence in re-establishing with new emphasis the old advertising principle that "people are more interested in themselves than in you."

To be successful, it is essential to give entertainment that arrests and pleases, when you advertise on the air. It is equally essential to think with—not at—the reader, when you plan advertising that will run in publications.

The Roche agency takes its responsibilities too seriously to feel privileged to indulge in whims. In our radio work, as in our other advertising work, we aim to interest the many who are the public rather than the few who are the dilettantes. This often hurts our artistic selves but it pays our advertisers.

It may be an old-fashioned notion but, despite all the alleged sophistication of the times, we believe an advertising agency's first duty is to provide its clients with attentive, partisan, money-spending audiences.

Tarrant County, Texas

Water Control and Improvement District Number One
(Fort Worth)

Dated September 15, 1930 — Due serially March 15, 1934 to 1970

Tarrant County, Texas, Water Control and Improvement District Number One includes all of the City of Fort Worth and about 38,000 acres of adjacent river bottom land. This district was formed for two major purposes, namely, the future water supply and flood protection of the City of Fort Worth and its outlying industrial and metropolitan area. The district was organized October 7, 1924, as a "Water Improvement District," such organization being favorably approved by the voters in accordance with the statutes. In 1925 the Texas Legislature approved the organization of Water Control and Improvement Districts and further ratified and validated all previously formed water improvement districts. Under the provisions of this legislation this district was converted into a "Water Control and Improvement District" in an election held in January, 1926. The Supreme Court of Texas by formal decree has pronounced these bonds valid. The Legislature of Texas by an act general in terms has legislatively established these bonds as valid.

According to the last official statement as furnished by the Secretary of the District the value of property as appraised and established for taxing purposes is $327,208,520; the value against which tax is levied, $140,699,664; the total bonded debt, $3,500,000; the estimated population, 172,364. The present offering is a part of a total authorized issue of $6,500,000 which, according to contractors' estimates, is more than sufficient to insure the completion of the project.

These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are direct general obligations of Tarrant County, Texas, Water Control and Improvement District Number One and are payable from unlimited ad valorem taxes levied against all the taxable property therein.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered, apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour, and summons the police. A note, which the colonel started to write to the vicar, is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage, saw Anne Protheroe going to the vicarage about 6:15. From there she went to the studio. She carried no handbag and had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked toward the village. Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

Three people heard a shot, which they thought came from the woods, the evening of the murder—the vicar's maid, Miss Marple, and Mrs. Price Ridley, who lives near the vicarage.

Mrs. Lestrange, a newcomer in the village, who had called on Col. Protheroe the night before he died, sends for the vicar. Inspector Slack calls while he is there. The inspector is questioning everybody as to their whereabouts the evening of the murder.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

AMATEUR DETECTIVES.

The inspector touched his forehead in a surreptitious manner.

"A bit wanting?" he suggested.

"Not in the least," I said. "But Lettice likes to be thought so."

"Well, I'm off to question the maids now."

One cannot really like Slack, but one can admire his energy.

We parted company and I inquired of Reeves if I could see Mrs. Protheroe.

"She is lying down, sir, at the moment."

"Then I'd better not disturb her."

"Perhaps if you would wait, sir, I know that Mrs. Protheroe is anxious to see you. She was saying as much at luncheon."

He showed me into the drawing room.

"A very sad business all this," I said.

"Yes, sir."

His voice was cold and respectful.

I looked at him. What feelings were at work under that impassive demeanor. Were there things that he knew and could have told us? There is nothing so inhuman as the mask of the good servant.

"Is there anything more, sir?"

Was there just a hint of anxiety to be gone behind that correct expression?

"There's nothing more," I said.

I had a very short time to wait before Anne Protheroe came to me. We discussed and settled a few arrangements and then:

"What a wonderfully kind man Dr. Haydock is," she exclaimed.

"Haydock is the best fellow I know."

"He has been amazingly kind to me. But he looks very sad, doesn't he?"

"I don't think I've ever noticed it," I said.

"I never have, until today."

"One's own troubles sharpen one's eyes sometimes," I said.

"That's very true."

She paused and then said:

"Mr. Clement, there's one thing I absolutely cannot make out. If my husband were shot immediately after I left him, how was it that I didn't hear the shot?"

"No," he said. "It's not a clew; it's a peace offering."

"They have reason to believe that the shot was fired later."

"But the 6:20 on the note?"

"Was possibly added by a different hand—the murderer's."

"How horrible!"

"It didn't strike you that the date was not in his handwriting?"

"None of it looked like his handwriting."

There was some truth in this observation. It was a somewhat illegible scrawl, not so precise as Protheroe's writing usually was.

"You are sure they don't still suspect Lawrence?"

"I think he is definitely cleared."

"But Mr. Clement, who can it be? Lucius was not popular, I know, but I don't think he had any real enemies. Not—not that kind of enemy."

I shook my head.

"It's a mystery."

After I took leave of Anne I proceeded to put a certain plan of mine into action.

I returned from Old Hall by way of the private path. When I reached the stile I retraced my steps, and choosing a place where I fancied the undergrowth showed signs of being disturbed, I turned aside from the path and forced my way through the bushes. The wood was a thick one, with a good deal of tangled undergrowth. My progress was not very fast, and I suddenly became aware that some one else was moving amongst the bushes not very far from me. As I paused irresolutely Lawrence Redding came into sight. He was carrying a large stone.

I suppose I must have looked surprised, for he suddenly burst out laughing.

"No," he said, "it's not a clue, it's a peace offering."

"A peace offering?"

"Well, a basis for negotiations, shall we say? I want an excuse for calling on your neighbor, Miss Marple, and I have been told that there is nothing she likes so much as a nice bit of rock or stone for the Japanese gardens she makes."

"Quite true," I said. "But what do you want with the old lady?"

"Just this. If there was anything to be seen yesterday evening Miss Marple saw it. I don't mean anything necessarily connected with the crime—that she would think connected with the crime. I mean some outré or bizarre incident, some simple little happening that might give us a clue to the truth. Something that she wouldn't think worth while mentioning to the police."

"It's possible, I suppose."

"It's worth trying anyhow. Clement, I'm going to get to the bottom of this business. For Anne's sake, if nobody else's. And I haven't any too much confidence in Slack—he's a zealous fellow, but zeal can't really take the place of brains."

"I see," I said, "that you are that favorite character of fiction, the amateur detective. I don't know that they really hold their own with the professional in real life."

He looked at me shrewdly and suddenly laughed.

"What are you doing in the wood, padre?"

I had the grace to blush.

"Just the same as I am doing, I dare swear. We've got the same idea, haven't we? How did the murderer come to the study? First way, along the lane and through the gate, second way, by the front door, third way—is there a third way? My idea was to see if there was any sign of the bushes being disturbed or broken anywhere near the wall of the vicarage garden."

"That was just my idea," I admitted.

"I hadn't really got down to the job, though," continued Lawrence. "Because it occurred to me that I'd like to see Miss Marple first, to make quite sure that no one did pass along the lane yesterday evening whilst we were in the studio."

I shook my head.

"She was quite positive that nobody did."

"Yes, nobody whom she would call anybody—sounds mad, but you see what I mean. But there might have been some one like a postman or a milkman or a butcher's boy—some one whose presence would be so natural that you wouldn't think of mentioning it."

"You've been reading G. K. Chesterton," I said, and Lawrence did not deny it.

"But don't you think there's just possibly something in the idea?"

"Well, I suppose there might be," I admitted.

Without further ado we made our way to Miss Marple's. She was working in the garden and called out to us as we climbed over the stile.

"You see," murmured Lawrence, "She sees everybody."

She received us very graciously and was much pleased with Lawrence's immense rock, which he presented with all due solemnity.

"It's very thoughtful of you, Mr. Redding. Very thoughtful indeed."

Emboldened by this Lawrence embarked on his questions. Miss Marple listened attentively.

"Yes, I see what you mean, and I quite agree, it is the sort of thing no one mentions or bothers to mention. But I can assure you that there was nothing of the kind. Nothing whatever."

"You are sure, Miss Marple?"

"Quite sure."

"Did you see any one go by the path into the wood that afternoon?" I asked. "Or come from it?"

"O! yes, quite a number of people. Dr. Stone and Miss Cram went that way—it's the nearest way to the Barrow for them. That was a little after 2 o'clock. And Dr. Stone returned that way—as you know, Mr. Redding, since he joined you and Mrs. Protheroe."

"By the way," I said. "That shot—the one you heard, Miss Marple. Mr. Redding and Mrs. Protheroe must have heard it too."

I looked inquiringly at Lawrence.

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

It's difficult to figure out why the powers that govern movie releases should sneak "Sweethearts on Parade" into a burlesque house. The picture isn't a wow, but it's easily as entertaining as a lot of little movies that make their debuts in the big cinema palaces.

The story may have been inspired by Clara Bow's "True to the Navy." It has a nautical background, and generally is a beter piece than the "it" girl's opus. Two little working girls, Helen and Nita, meet respectively a marine and a sailor on shore leave.

The marine is so smitten that he buys a small solitaire on the installment plan before the battleship sails and the sailor hands Nita the note book containing his erstwhile lady friends' addresses and tells her to tear it up.

While the boys are at sea Helen lets a wealthy and somewhat elderly gent show her the town. He dazzles her with dinners and shows until she begins to think that her marine boy friend is a crude article. Her more worldly wise roommate, Nita, suspects that the elderly suitor doesn't mean right by our Nell. He doesn't, but, never fear, the marines step in and rescue the lady in time.

Marshall Neilan's direction has the proper light comedy touch and the young people in the cast handle their rôles well. Alice White's fans will enjoy watching her roll her big brown eyes at the helpless marine. Marie Prevost, who seems to be reducing, is a good choice as the snappy girl friend. Lloyd Hughes plays a handsome and husky leatherneck with a constant yen for a fist fight and Ray, as a funny, freckle faced sailor lad is, as usual, a delight to behold.

FIDAC SESSION CHEERS NAMES OF WILSON AND PRESIDENT HOOVER

New York, Sept. 16.—[Special.]—Tributes to President Hoover for his relief work in Europe during the war and to Woodrow Wilson, whose name is "closest to the hearts of the small nations," were uttered in several languages today at the first meeting of the eleventh annual congress of the FIDAC, the Federation Interalliée des Anciens Combattants.

The uniforms of nine foreign countries, glittering with medals and other decorations, were clustered in the center of the Seventh regiment armory's huge auditorium.

Preceded by a guard of honor of the Seventh regiment in full dress uniform, the delegates were accompanied to their places by strains of their national anthems. Jugo-Slavia came first, then Belgium, France, Great Britain, Italy, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Czecho-Slovakia, and finally the United States.

The tribute to the President, which was echoed again and again in the speeches that followed, was first voiced by Princess Alexandrine Cantacuzene of Roumania, president of the women's auxiliary of FIDAC, in her response to the speech of welcome made on behalf of the American Legion by Frank J. Schoble Jr., blind vice commander.

Concert to Precede Civic Opera Opening; Isador Berger Soloist

Joseph Rafaelli, manager of the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra, has returned from a summer in Italy, Germany, and Switzerland with the announcement that the orchestra will give a Sunday night concert Oct. 19, a week prior to the opening of the winter opera season.

Announcement was also made that Isador Berger, who will be concert meister of the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra for the season, will be the soloist. Mr. Berger began his career touring the country as a child prodigy. His preliminary study was in Chicago, and before he was 17 years old he had won competitions five years in succession.

Mr. Berger won first prize in 1910 for violin playing at the Royal Belgian Conservatory of Music. He has been the first violinist in King Albert's Royal Court orchestra in Brussels, in Queen's hall, London, and with the Chicago Grand opera, Chicago Symphony, and Chicago Civic opera. He is also a composer, having written educational works for the violin and symphonic works for the orchestra.

The violin Mr. Berger will play will be a Stradivarius made in Cremona, Italy, in 1720, formerly owned and played by the Belgian violinist and composer, De Beriot.

New Germans Adding Gold to Feudal Blood

Win in Industry and Marry Titles.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLOGNE, Sept. 16.—"All Germany passes through a revival of heraldry," Baron Bodo Stoffregen, noted German genealogist and expert on armorial bearings, told THE TRIBUNE in an interview the other day. "Countless Germans want their family traced back to some noble ancestor or to have heraldic family symbols discovered for them. We are in for a return of Germany's nobility to social prominence."

"And if a family is not born noble how do its members manage to become aristocrats in republican Germany?" that expert was asked.

"Before 1918 the kaiser knighted wealthy and successful men. Since his abdication commoners become noble by marriage or adoption. Because of comparative poverty Germany's aristocracy no longer is as exclusive as in past centuries."

Baron Stoffregen told of typical cases of what he called "plebeian graftings on old aristocratic family trees."

"In 1811 a grocer by the name of Friedrich Krupp founded a small steel plant, the first of its kind. His son Alfred enlarged it; his grandson was knighted, and his great-granddaughter, sole heiress of the steel plant and wealthiest girl in Europe, married a nobleman, the diplomat Baron von Bohlen, and started with him what we Germans term the 'Krupp von Bohlen dynasty.'

"A shoemaker, Heyl, in southern Germany, tanned his leather beautifully and founded the Worms leather industry early in the last century. His great-grandson became a baron, purchased Herrnsheim castle, and married Princess zu Ysenburg.

"A locksmith, Adam Opel, concocted a good sewing machine in 1862, then turned to making bicycles and finally motor cars. His four sons were knighted and married into the old aristocracy.

"A young Jew in Berlin opened a small banking firm with next to nothing around 1810. His son, Max Goldschmidt, was made a baron and married Baroness Rothschild, also descendant of once penniless Israelites. Their son, Baron Erich von Goldschmidt-Rothschild, married the daughter of Count Valentin Henckel von Donnersmarck, whose feudal ancestors can be traced back to the 11th century."

THE STAGE

THE engagement of "Uncle Vanya" at the Harris theater, forecast in this column recently, is announced for the two weeks beginning Oct. 20. This is Jed Harris' production of the drama by Tchekhov, which comes out of the repertory of the Moscow Art theater. It won high praise in New York last winter. Lillian Gish is featured in the rôle of Helena. The adaptation is by Rose Caylor [Mrs. Ben Hecht].

"Love Technique," the play which served as a false dawn for the theatrical season in Chicago, will try its luck in New York next Monday night. It will appear at the Belmont theater with Lou Tellegen as its amorous technician.

Six other productions will keep Broadway's first nighters running around from place to place next week. They are:

"Stepdaughters of War," at the Empire; and "Fine and Dandy," Joe Cook's latest musical show, at the Erlanger, opening next Tuesday night.

"Once in a Lifetime," a comedy about Hollywood, in which George Kaufman had a hand, at the Music Box, opening next Wednesday night.

"The Greeks Had a Word for It," by Zoe Akins, at the Sam H. Harris, opening Thursday night, Sept. 25.

"Roadside," by Lynn Riggs, staged by Arthur Hopkins, at the Longacre; and "Frankie and Johnnie," at the Republic, opening Friday night, Sept. 26.

Hugh Buckler has joined the cast of "Lost Sheep" at the Selwyn theater in the rôle of the vicar of St. John's, replacing William H. Sams. He originated this character and played it during the New York run. His most recent acting in Chicago was in the Theater Guild's production of "Wings Over Europe," in which he had the rôle of the Minister of State for War—the fellow who fired the shot that killed the discoverer of how to disintegrate the atom.

The eighteenth annual benefit performance for the American Theatrical Hospital fund will be given in the Erlanger theater Sunday afternoon Nov. 2. Aaron J. Jones will be general chairman of the program.

The annual meeting of this charitable organization was held yesterday. These officers were chosen: President, Judge Joseph Sabath (reëlected); first vice president, Ralph T. Kettering; second vice president, U. J. Herrmann; secretary, Frank A. P. Gazzolo, replacing Claude S. Humphrey; treasurer, Aaron J. Jones.

Preston Sturges, the young playwright who scored a hit of the first magnitude last season with "Strictly Dishonorable," will soon be represented on Broadway by the libretto of a musical comedy called "The Well of Romance." The composer is H. Maurice Jaquet. The show is dated for a première at the Craig theater, New York, Oct. 20. C. C.

She Writes Mysteries, Weds Archaeologist; Her Father American

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Agatha Christie, detective story writer, was married last week to Max E. L. Mallowan, an archæologist of the British museum.

The couple, whose marriage was revealed today, are now on the continent and later will go to Palestine, where Mr. Mallowan has been engaged in excavations for some time.

Mrs. Christie caused a sensation in 1926, when she mysteriously disappeared from her London home. She later was found, suffering from loss of memory, by her then husband, Col. Archibald Christie. She obtained a divorce from Col. Christie in 1928.

Agatha Mary Clarissa Christie's father was Frederick Alvah Miller of New York.

Hints Rumanian Princess May Wed Bourbon Prince

MADRID, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Persons close to the royal family have been discussing recently the possibility that the visit of Prince Alfonso of Orleans, the Spanish king's cousin, to Rumania, might have some connection with the possible betrothal of Princess Ileana of Rumania, and a member of the Spanish royal family. Similar discussion was aroused more than a year ago when Queen Marie and her daughter visited Spain. At that time a betrothal was promptly denied by the government.

Chicagoans Thrill as Band Sets Buckingham Fountain to Music

The United States Marine band had in Chicago last night the greatest auditorium and the greatest audience it has ever had in all the one hundred and thirty years of its tuneful and patriotic history.

The band's immediate audience numbered 21,500 and was seated in Chicago Stadium on the west side.

But its history making audience—the one that broke records—was a parked multitude seated two and a half miles away in cars which at one time numbered thirty-eight thousand and which filled the driveways of Grant park for a quarter of a mile north and south of the Buckingham fountain and on the west moved slowly and noiselessly along Michigan avenue during the music.

Vast Moving Audience.

At least three times in the course of the concert one audience would glide away and another take its place.

The police estimate that during the two hours of melody at least a hundred and twenty thousand cars arrived and departed from the area flooded with music from a dozen amplifiers at the top of a sixty foot tower erected for the occasion.

For hundreds of feet around this tower another multitude was seated on the park benches and on the grass. At eight o'clock it numbered five thousand; by nine it had increased to fifteen thousand.

What this vast, yet neighborly throng received, with the compliments of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was a feast of beauty—beautiful music and beautiful color.

For the Buckingham fountain was in full play throughout the concert.

It became a fountain set to music, and the people were entranced by the rich and ever changing harmonies of color and melody.

The music carried admirably from Chicago Stadium—now crisply in the military marches, now with voluptuous softness and exquisite delicacy in the "Norwegian Rhapsody" of Edouard Lalo, and now with magnificent volume in the "Lohengrin" Wedding March.

Shading was not lost, and so sharply audible were such sounds as the tuning up by the musicians and the brief commands of Capt. Taylor Branson, who is Sousa's heir to the great tradition of the marine band, that the listeners on the lake shore almost felt that they saw the leader wave his baton.

Over the scene the shafts of the Lindbergh light made their slow stately march, thrusting their white glow into the crimson and purple and azure glory of the illuminated fountain.

Casts Spell on Crowd.

The scene became a symphony in itself. Had it been silent it would have been breath-taking.

But music gave it a double witchery and you felt as you looked out over the intent and happy thousands that you did not have took on a gala night the palace square of an old world city to find the highly picturesque and the suave in popular entertainment.

America, too, as Chicago was proving, can give a touch of graciousness to big city existence.

Both in the Chicago Stadium and on the lake front the pieces which seemed most to captivate the audiences were Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz," the haunting "Road to Mandalay," the bridal procession from "Lohengrin," and Sousa's march masterpiece, "Stars and Stripes Forever." That last roused the Stadium audience to wild applause and the meaning of the tribute was that the people felt that Branson is a worthy successor to Sousa.

A breeze from the west caressed Grant park. Hence many thought the music as transmitted was best heard from the driveways and lawns, to the east of the fountain and the amplifying tower. But others who heard the concert from the windows of hotels along Michigan avenue near Harrison street and from the sidewalks below insisted that at those points the music came to them with good volume and precision.

In short, both audiences were satisfied, and that was much to be thankful for, because the concert on the lake shore was a rather daring experiment in direct transmission.

In the afternoon 15,000 Chicago school children were THE TRIBUNE'S guests at the Stadium and they not only heard but they also sang with the Marine band.

The grownups at night heard the best concert.

But the children had the best time.

They took charge of their concert and decidedly changed its program.

They were there not as listeners solely, but as participants, and when they could not participate in the performance of pieces so intricate as a Polonaise by Liszt or "Reminiscences of Tschaikowsky" they did not pretend to a passion for those compositions.

And so, disciplinary as marines can be on the land and on the sea, these marines surrendered to the children and gave them Strauss' "Blue Danube," which set them waltzing in the aisles, and Sousa marches that made them strut, and "The Jolly Coppersmith," which had them tingling all over with the tinkle and clang of its metallic rhythms.

Promptly and with a great deal of tact and bonhomie Capt. Branson bowed to the will of the children and gave them a happy afternoon instead of an "improving" one.

He opened the exercises by asking them to stand and join him in the singing of "America," with the great band around him rolling forth the stately strains of the anthem and the pipe organ far aloft going full tilt.

And did they stand? They leaped to their feet as one; and did they know the words? They were letter perfect, and sincere in their hearts, too, for they sang with a fervor that was as eloquent as was their exactitude.

The captain thought up familiar numbers as he went along and when he saw signs of restlessness during so "improving" a number as Dvorak's overture "Carneval," Opus 92, he would blandly sing out, "now shall we try "Swanee River," and his audience would sing that with such tears in the voice that you would have thought every popcorn eating child in the Stadium was a weary broken wanderer, far from home and with a heart full of woe.

Children Share Concert.

After that would come, "Stars and Stripes Forever," during which boys would lean far over the gallery rails to help the captain lead, and little girls held them back by their coats and moaned, "You'll fall and be killed! I know you will!"

But the boys didn't care and were just as daring in their assistant leading of such marches as "Under the Double Eagle" and "National Emblem," and the late Paris Chambers' march, "Chicago Tribune," which he wrote thirty years ago and which, so sterling and sturdy is it, would be better known by this time if THE TRIBUNE had more often favored the public with it.

The children loved Bach's fiery "Hungarian Melodies" because there they heard an exhilarating performance by Winfred Kemp, cornetist of the band. As encore to that the band gave them "Song Without a Name," with pipe organ accompaniment, and after it there was more community singing, "Annie Laurie" and "The Maine Stein Song," which Rudy Vallee popularized, and "It Happened at Monterey." After they had sung each of these numbers the children rapturously applauded themselves and the band, and Capt. Branson bowed profoundly to them.

So the program moved snappily along and the captain, his curious Turkish hilted sword at his side and the golden lyre gleaming on his blue uniform, was by four o'clock the most popular man and artist on the west side.

At the evening concert he and his musicians wore their gorgeous full dress uniforms of scarlet with black frogs and collars.

The bass drummer was the first to mount the platform—roped arena for fisticuffs more often has it been—and he and his drum were prodigiously applauded, for every child loves a bass drummer, and on the drum he beat is lettered the ancient, arrogant emblem and slogan of our forefathers of the thirteen colonies—an angry serpent whose motto is "Don't Tread on Me."

Such was the children's entertainer of yesterday and that they appreciated the band and its leader was shown by the way they thronged around the captain with their autograph books at the end of the concert.

Then they ran home to supper, still singing as they went "Old Kentucky Home" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

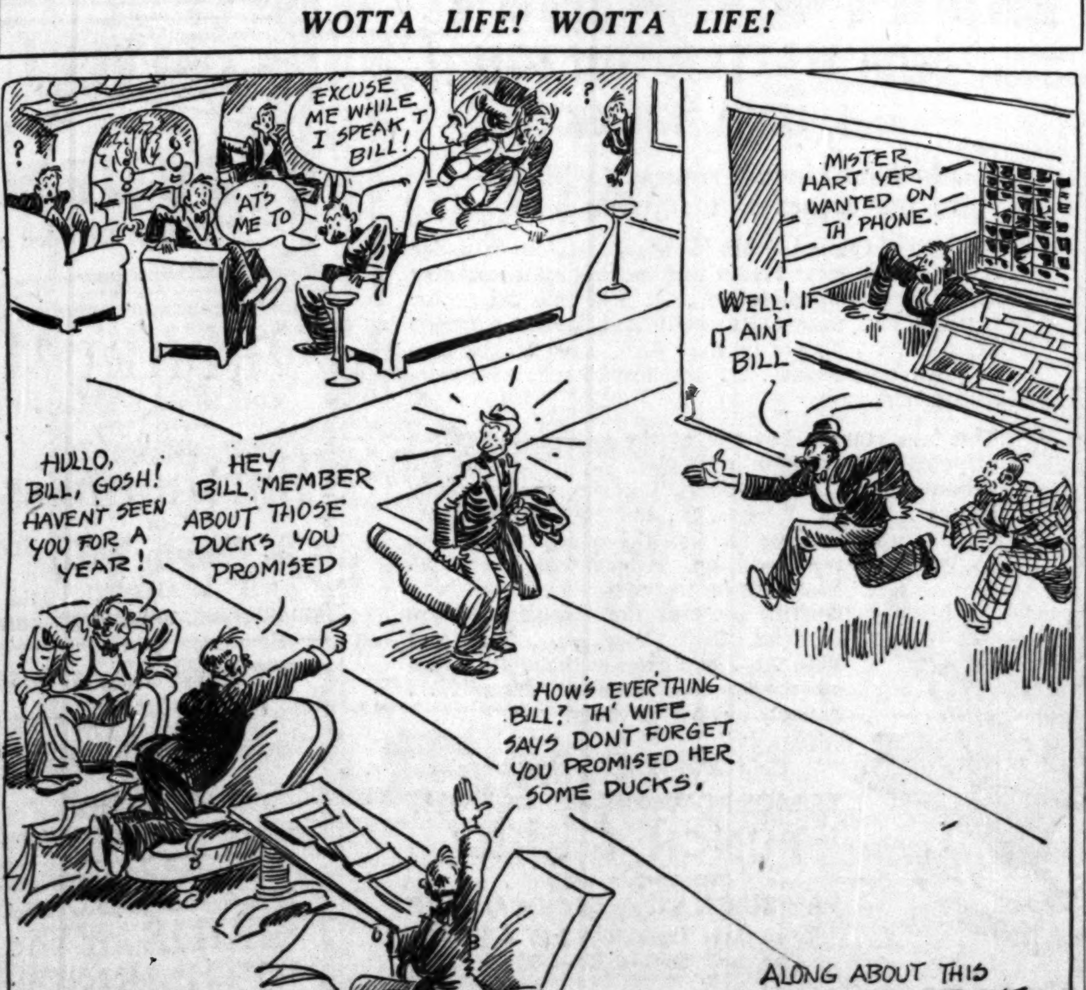
Pop Corn Sellers Vocal.

As for the captain, he was a weary man. "Never," said he apropos of the incessant wriggling during such "improving things" as a Franz Liszt number, "did I play against such pandemonium!"

Throughout the exercises the sale and consumption of popcorn and pop was enormous, and that did not add to the musicianly spirit of the occasion, for the hucksters were insufferable in bawling their wares. The Stadium attendants had no control of them.

In the blocks of seats occupied by children from the parochial schools decorum reigned, for the teaching sisters accompanied them, and the first thing they teach is decorum.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!



Person Who's Choosy Finds Few Friends, Many Sorrows

BY DORIS BLAKE.

An excerpt from Suzanne's letter indicates that she meets a number of men, but there's always something wrong with them. If they are not this, they are that. They're conceited, or they're stingy, or they are fresh, or something.

"Choosy," Suzanne admits she may be.

"Choosy" she is. And at the present moment cannot afford to be. She hasn't progressed far enough with men to be that choosy.

More probably what ails Suzanne is the habit she is cultivating of regarding every man who crosses her path as a possible husband, and picking flaws in him accordingly. Nothing can inspire the particular type girl to flaw picking like visualizing the man as a future mate. For her marriage venture, she wants perfection and nothing but, meanwhile not building perfection to offer in return, did she find her ideal.

After picking flaws, the type in mind feels it her duty to attempt to make the young man over. The result is few return engagements for the girl.

What is basically wrong with the whole business is that the girl expects too much of men. Usually expecting too much of others is extended to women friends as well. It's a habit of mind one gets into for no reason justified by one's own unselfishness.

But expecting too much of men is one of those useless occupations that brings in poor returns. Not that men are not capable of giving a normal young woman all the happiness she needs, but if you go around expecting every one else to do the right and proper and generous things all the time you are bound to be disappointed. Exactly as they would be in you, were the tables turned.

The girls who are "choosy" and brag about it are endowed invariably and unfortunately with a sueperiority complex which in itself is a barrier against a real insight into character. You cannot see the worthwhileness of other people if you are all set up about your own sterling virtues.

B. M.—USE TWO TOOTH brushes. After use wash the brush thoroughly to remove particles of food, then allow it to dry before using again. To sterilize the brush sprinkle ordinary table salt on it. The salt will keep the bristles stiff as well.

F. P.—THE NIGHT BRUSHING of teeth is most important. It is during sleep that acids and germs which thrive on food particles get in their deadly work. Cleaning after every meal is highly recommended, and is essential where there is bridge work or appliances for straightening teeth.

This Simple Little Trick Will Do Wonders for Hands

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There is the simplest sort of trick that every woman should practice who would like to have her hands improved. Every time the hands are washed, this simple aid to better appearing hands calls for a drying movement with attention focused on the half moons. With the towel press the cuticle back from the base of the nails.

It will save an endless amount of manicuring difficulty. You will not be confronted with the common question about having the cuticle cut. There will never be that tight clinging of flesh at the base of the nail, either. It's so simple an emergency, it is a pity it is not more commonly established as an unbreakable habit. All you need remember is to wipe your hands from the finger tips down.

If your half moons are invisible you may need to focus a minute more on the cuticle and force it back. First wash the hands in soapy water, and while they are still wet, press the cuticle back. You can improve this section of the hand beautifully in a short time with the practice and out of the habit you will develop a pride of nails and hands that will serve you well.

That tight grown cuticle at the base of the nail is disfiguring no matter how well placed a shine you may have managed for the nail itself, nor how white the tip. It's the barometer, more than nail polish, to the care bestowed on that important feature—the hand.

Also, when you cream your face, you may give the cuticle at the base of the nail another pressing back. If the skin is dry there and is responsible for the close clinging of the flesh to the base of the nail, you should oil the part regularly. It is most easily done when you have the cream jar out for the facial cleansing.

Just to give you encouragement and more pride for the attack, you should get a professional manicure and if need be have the cuticle removed. Begin that night after the manicure with the oil application and plying the flesh back and down for "place."

Not the Waiter's Birthday.

Recently my uncle invited our family to a big dinner at a hotel. It was staged to celebrate my mother's birthday. The dinner took place in the main dining room at the hotel and consisted of many wonderful things, including baked squab.

After a perfect evening of enjoyment, including dancing, the waiter gave the bill to my uncle. The total amount was $10.75. Imagine my embarrassment as my uncle gave the waiter $11, which meant that the tip consisted of twenty-five cents.

Of Personal Interest.

My most embarrassing moment occurred the other day at the office. I come from a small town out east and in all the years I have been away, I have never heard its name mentioned. While taking dictation, the traffic manager came in to speak to my boss regarding routing a certain shipment through Paterson—my home town. I got so excited at hearing the name I interrupted to say, "O, Paterson! Why, that's where I was born."

I received a frozen look from the traffic manager which brought me to my senses. As if anybody cared where I was born and at that moment I assure you I wished I never had been.

Food Talk.

Sometimes I am amused, other times disturbed, by people who eschew certain foods. Thinking of any food as "common and unclean" is not a mark of discrimination, neither is it an indication of a well trained palate. As individuals we should cultivate our palates just as much as we do our brains.

Good taste in food and drink is as necessary for well rounded development as good taste in art, literature and music. Looking upon gastronomy as one of the arts will assist us in getting acquainted with all foods. And eating a variety of food is one of the best assurances of keeping well nourished.

Kidneys are a food that some people avoid. Our forebears ate kidneys. In fact, they ate all the internal organs of the slaughtered animal. In some countries kidneys are still a regular article of diet and we marvel at the good state of nutrition in these people.

Until recently investigators puzzled over the fact that Chinese people have good health without the use of milk, which we consider all important in our own diet. Students made a study of the Chinese diet and found that they eat eggs and an abundance of green vegetables and, not because of any instinctive fondness, but because of the scarcity of meat, they eat all the internal organs of the animal, including the kidneys. These organs are richer than liver in iron and unlike almost all other meats are a good source of vitamins A and B and perhaps contain some C.

A few years ago liver was placed in the same category with kidneys and seldom bought. All at once some scientific investigators found that liver was an exceptionally healthful food and the price of liver soared. Kidneys have not yet come into their own and may be bought at a reasonable price.

In the selection of the kidneys at the market, good judgment is necessary. A dark, soft mass from an old or poorly fed animal will not produce a welcome dish. If you are serving kidneys for the first time you will condition your family best by serving kidneys of good quality. The choicest type is light red in color and firm to the touch. Prepared in one of the interesting ways, kidneys become a food fit for a king.

KIDNEYS AND BACON.

Fry a few rashers of streaky bacon and into the fat place the lamb kidneys which have been skinned and split, split side downward. Take out center tube, but not the little pieces of fat. Fry the kidneys gently on both sides, constantly turning them. The fire should not be too fierce or the kidneys will harden. When cooked turn onto a a hot plate. Pour a little water into the frying pan and stir around with a fork. In this way you get excellent gravy. Serve kidneys with a sprinkling of chopped parsley and English mustard.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

"Pitcher" plants, which hold nectar so sweet that insects and even small animals are attracted, trapped, and killed, are on display this week and next in a special group in the Warm house at Garfield park conservatory, where more than 20 of the tropical plants have been placed.

Greeks of the time of Helen of Troy are credited with giving the plant its botanical name, which is Nepenthes, meaning "without care." The origin is said to have come from the fact that the pitcher plants excrete a honeyed and intoxicating liquor which flows into a hollowed tube resembling a vase.

August Koch, chief florist for the conservatory, which is operated by the west Chicago park commissioners, cites instances in which mice have been trapped and drowned. Once inside the vaselike tube, insects find themselves unable to get out, as hairs resembling teeth rim the top of the tube, which has but one entry. Once the intruder is trapped and killed the plant proceeds to digest the insects, leading to a classification of the Nepenthes as a carniverous plant.

From six to ten pitchers are to be found on each of the plants. The flowering portion is not noteworthy, as it is small and of a greenish color. Moist countries, such as the Philippines, tropical Australia, India, and Borneo are the native homes of the plant, which grows not only in the swampy places but also on mountain sides at an elevation of from 1,000 to 10,000 feet and varying in height from one to sixty feet.

Caroline Smith Makes Her Debut at Party Today

BY THALIA

Today's debutante is Miss Caroline Byron Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Smith, who is to make her formal bow at a tea to be given at the Smiths' Lake Forest residence on Elm Tree road from 4 to 7 o'clock this afternoon.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Smith are to give a dinner party at Onwentsia for their daughter and the other debutantes who will assist her. Her older sister, Mrs. Scott Bromwell (Harriet Smith) is to receive with her and Mrs. Smith. Miss Smith was graduated from Farmington last June.

Today's party will be only one of several to be given for the debutante during her first season out. Her paternal uncle, Walter Byron Smith, is to give a dinner-dance at Onwentsia on Saturday evening for her and her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Smith, whose coming-out reception is to take place on Sept. 27. Miss Caroline's debut ball is to take place on Christmas night at the Blackstone crystal ballroom.

Miss Mary Trigg Waller, daughter of Mrs. Trigg McElwee Waller of Highland Park, has set Oct. 4 as the date for her marriage to James Monroe Carry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carry of 1317 East 50th street. The wedding is to take place at Mrs. Waller's residence at 539 Forest avenue at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn of 209 Lake Shore drive and their son-in-law and daughter, the James A. Catharts of 1367 North State street, are to go to Virginia Hot Springs about the first of the month for their annual fall stay at that spa.

Stewart Boal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal of Winnetka, served as an usher at the marriage on Monday of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Barnum of Canton, Mass., to one of his Harvard classmates, Charles Schmidlapp Conklin of Atlanta, Ga. The wedding took place at a summer camp in the Adirondacks. Mr. Boal is to be best man for his brother, Ayres Boal Jr., when the latter's marriage to Miss Frances Ellison of Evanston takes place on Sept. 27.

Miss Marjorie Horton, Mrs. Samuel Rinaker's young daughter, is, like Elsa Armour and Beatrice Kirk, having a blithely busy round of visits on Long Island. She was the guest of the W. Seward Webbs at their estate at Manhasset, L. I., during the international polo games, and visited Mrs. John T. Pratt at Glen Cove, L. I.

This week she is to attend a debutante party to be given by Mrs. Arthur L. Kerrigan at Tuxedo Park. Miss Horton returned in the spring from two years of study in Europe. She is a boon companion of Katrina McCormick, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's daughter, and will go to Washington to be present at her debut party in December.

Young Miss McCormick, by the way, is getting a unique schooling for the social exigencies of a debutante season just now. She virtually has attached herself to her mother's campaign forces and is accompanying the latter on her frequent trips downstate.

Mrs. Murray Peabody Brush Jr. of 179 East Chestnut street and her small son have returned from a month's stay in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul McBride have returned from a lengthy wedding trip to the orient with a Canadian Rockies' trip constituting the last lap of their travels. Mrs. McBride was Claire Childs Laflin before her wedding last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munroe, who are at their place at Greenwich, Conn., gave a party for their daughter, Rhea, last Saturday night at the Indian Harbor Yacht club before a large junior masquerade ball given by Commodore Clifford D. Mallory.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hibbard of 2440 Lakeview avenue have returned from an extended outing at Eagle Knob lodge on Lake Owen, Wis. They found the fishing wonderful.

The marriage of Miss Elinor Trostel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Trostel of Milwaukee, Wis., to John Kranz Notz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix J. Notz of 521 Stratford place took place at the Trostel residence on Saturday.

Better Ticket Sale at Orchestra Hall for the Coming Season

Orchestra hall is certain that Chicago has greatly increased its demand for music. On Monday, the opening day for the sale and delivery of tickets for the 1930-'31 orchestral season, the sales were higher than for any first day in the history of the orchestra.

"The season is looking especially bright for us," Henry E. Voegeli, business manager of the organization, said yesterday. "And that this should be so in the face of business depression is reason for elation. The first day results this year were $74,900, which is 35 per cent higher than at the opening day last year, when $55,300 was the figure.

"It has seemed to me during my thirty years with the association, that when there is a business depression, people take more to serious music, and the orchestral concerts are better patronized."

The orchestra will open Oct. 17 its twenty-eight week season. Among the artists who will appear are Harold Bauer, Josef Hoffman,

Theater Party for Deaf Will Be Given Tonight

A theater party for the hard of hearing will be held tonight in celebration of the progress of the campaign to install in theaters and churches equipment so that those afflicted may hear. Following a dinner, the party will go to the Adelphi theater, 7074 North Clark street, where they will hear the talkies by means of ear phones.

Mrs. Louis Pelton, chairman of the hearing aid's committee of the Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing and delegate from the Chicago Woman's Aid which is aiding in the campaign, announced yesterday that the Fox Chicago Theater company has equipped the first of their Chicago houses with hearing aids—The Sheridan theater, Sheridan road and Irving Park boulevard. Others will be similarly equipped, according to Sidney Meyers, manager of the company.

BIBLE LAND GARDEN PLAN FOR CHURCH BY KENILWORTH RECTOR

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A garden of biblical geography is being created in connection with the Eugene Field memorial at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth. The Rev. Leland H. Danforth, rector of the church, yesterday described the chief feature of the garden, which will be a relief map of Palestine of scriptural days drawn to a scale of one inch to the mile.

According to Dr. Danforth, the map will embrace the territory from 30 miles below the Dead sea on through to Mount Hermon on the north. The entire Jordan valley will be depicted in accurate topographical detail to include the Dead sea, the hills and mountains of the region. Locations of all the cities and villages of biblical interest will be accurately shown. These will include Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Nazareth, Bethany, and other places identified with the life of Christ.

Principal highways over which Christ traveled will be traced and running water will, provided with a specially installed water system, illustrate the rivers, lakes, nad smaller streams. Actual stones picked up at places of historic interest and brought back from Palestine by the Rev. Dr. Herbert Willett, pastor of the Kenilworth Community church, will be incorporated in the garden.

The relief map will be laid out on the ground on a concrete base and will be constructed of plant rock. A low brick retaining wall will surround the map. Aside from the biblical map other historical relics from all parts of the world are being collected. These items include a cross from Rheims, stones from old Chicago buildings, including building stone from the old Briggs house and old Board of Trade building. The only other map of the kind is found at Chautauqua lake, New York. Funds for the project largely came as the gift of Dr. Danforth's last confirmation class. The plot containing the historical garden adjoins the Eugene Field memorial.

British Physician Here, Speaks to Specialists on Nervous Diseases

Sir James Stewart of London, England, British specialist in nervous diseases, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner in the Drake hotel given by the Chicago Neurological society, allied organizations and members of the faculty of the school of medicine of Northwestern university.

Following the dinner he gave a lecture on "Disseminated Sclerosis" at the medical school library on McKlintock campus.

Dr. Archibald Church, professor of neurology at Northwestern, presided at the dinner, which was also given under the auspices of the Chicago Institute of Medicine and the Chicago Society of Internal Medicine.

They will arrive tomorrow from their summer cottage at Siasconset, Mass. Later in the week they will join Maj. George at Fort Myer, where their former quarters are being made ready for them. They were stationed there earlier in their married life.

The Mexican ambassador and Señora Dee Tellez entertained the members of the embassy staff and their wives at luncheon today in celebration of the anniversary of Mexican independence. Other guests were the delegates from Mexico to the inter-American conference on agriculture, forestry, and animal industry.

Mrs. Good, widow of James W. Good, who was secretary of war, arrived last evening from her home in Chicago and is at the Hotel Roosevelt. She has taken an apartment there for the season. She has with her her niece, Miss Virginia Fletcher.

Miss Helen Cannon, daughter of the late former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of Danville, Ill., returned here from Paris last week accompanied by her niece, Mrs. Helen Le Seuere Richardson, former wife of Dr. Dorsey Richardson, now living in Paris. They left this afternoon for Danville for a short stay en route to San Francisco to visit Mrs. Richardson's sister, Mrs. Houghteling. Miss Cannon and Mrs. Richardson will return here before Christmas.

Wise Parent Lets Child Learn by Trial and Error

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

I learn a great deal from my Wise Friend.

We were having a cup of tea one cool summer evening not long ago. She had the "confessional" look, as I call it, so I knew I was in for some admission of guilt. I accordingly settled myself more firmly in my chair in anticipation, for I can always glean wisdom from her.

"You know," she said with some pride, "I am rather clever with my hands. All our womenfolk seem to be. And there is not a man in our family, be he brother, uncle, father, or husband, who is anything but quite dumb when it comes to using any ingenuity. And, of course, I was foolish enough, when Bob came along, to hope that my son would be clever like me—not through any sense of vanity, but because I was so tired of having to put up the shelves in the camp, or mend the water tank when it misbehaved, or put the angle iron on my frail, rush seated chair.

"So, when Bob got old enough to use tools I always hoped he would develop some ability to be handy about the house. It would be such a comfort.

"But he didn't. He was just as dumb as his uncle, his cousin, and his father. So I had to start work on this generation, telling him how to do this, how to mend that, how to put up hooks in the closet, and so forth. And you know I am rather impatient with people who do things slowly.

"One day he said to me, 'You're awfully smart and I'm so dumb.' And I suddenly realized how dumb I was. I knew what he meant. With my years of mending gadgets and being the chore man around the house of course I was much quicker than he in working out ways of doing things and in getting them done. And of course I should have known, with my slight knowledge of modern education, that it was much better for him to work things out his own way, even if it wasn't as good or as smart as my way. And then, too, I had made him feel incompetent, and that was the worst of all. You know how devastating that feeling of incompetence can be.

"So I started in trying to build up in Bob a feeling that he was able to do things with his hands. I'd ask him to put up a porcelain hook in the kitchen. It would be put in cockeyed and I'd have to hold on to myself to keep from telling him how to do it. It was the best he could do. The next hook went in straighter.

"He put a hook and eye on the cellar door. It didn't meet by half an inch. I knew it wouldn't, and I could hardly keep from telling him so. After he had taken it out and put it in a few times he had learned the trick. I learned the trick, too, even if the cellar door didn't look so hot with all those perforations."

She sighed happily. "I do believe," she continued, "that if I am able to gag myself and tie my hands and let my house be the battlefield I will at last have a man in the family who can 'do' things."

She laughed, but I knew it was a little triumph for her, too, in self-control and in the wisdom of letting her son do things wrong so that he could learn to do them right.

Velvet Evening Wrap Dispenses with Fur

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is sponsoring evening wraps of practically unparalleled richness of material. Priceless velvets, brocades, lamés, and satins are made even more priceless by fur collars, cuffs, and trimmings, but some of the Paris couturiers are kind and remember that everybody isn't a Mrs. Croesus, and so they have designed some lovely evening coats that achieve the required rich smartness of effect without benefit of fur.

Lyolène makes the furless evening wrap, sketched today, of dark, emerald-green velvet, brocaded in a leaf design, and the decorative line of sleeves and collar more than fill the furry void. Notice its length, too, for it is a significant one in winter fashions. The short evening coat, as I prophesied to you in the midseason, is already beginning to recede into the sartorial past. The newest wrap covers the frock, at least in the back.

Variety is given to the fitted silhouette of this graceful coat by two deep flounces made full by means of tiny unpressed plaits that are applied spirally below the waist, to its skirt part. The huge bishop sleeves are shirred between wrist and elbow on their inner side and split for the same distance on their outer one.

The draped surplice collar trails into a long sash that ties the coat together where it crosses the spiral at the natural waistline. A plain green velvet lining adds welcome warmth.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Offers Strawberry Plants.

"I have a lot of strawberry plants to give to anybody who wants them.
"Mrs. C. D."

If you'd like to have a nice strawberry patch next spring here is a splendid opportunity to get the plants. Anyone with available garden space would do well to write me for them. Please do not telephone.

Needs Scrapbook Items.

"I have a friend who is a shut-in and she is often lonely. To pass away the time she makes lovely scrapbooks. She is anxious just now to make a college scrapbook, but it is impossible for her to get enough stickers. Will some of your readers who attend the various colleges in and about Chicago give her some?
"D. M."

Here is an opportunity for the young collegiates who read this column to lend a helping hand. Any material from or about your school which would be interesting in scrapbook form would be greatly appreciated by this shut-in.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Black crêpe silk was used for this dress with slenderizing lines. The wrapped bodice is opened at the neckline to show a pastel-pink open-eyelet embroidered batiste vestee. An applied band of the batiste trims the neckline and is carried down either side of the bodice. The tiny bows of crêpe are lined with the pink batiste.

The pattern, 2658, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch all over lace.

AND THE PROTECTION OF 5 DAY FREE DRIVING TRIAL

These two features plus the facts that we have the biggest selection of good used cars in Chicago are the reasons why you should buy from Studebaker.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. Late model 4 pass. Dictator. Examine this car from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it's one of the most handsome cars you've ever seen. Bring your own mechanic to inspect the motor and he'll testify it's okay in every respect. A real bargain at $350.

PEERLESS SEDAN. It's a late model, finished a beautiful blue. The mileage is very low, as this car was in storage for almost a year. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, and other extras. The motor is excellent. $345.

HUPMOBILE 8 ROADSTER. This low priced car is in exceptionally fine condition. Has rumble seat, 4 wheel brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc.; $295.

PACKARD SEDAN. 7 pass., Single Six. That's an ideal car for the family. Has a smooth running motor and the finish is bright and shiny. Upholstery appears unworn. Many extras. $550.

HUDSON BROUGHAM. Four door, 5 pass., finished an attractive blue. Has thousands of miles of unusual transportation and the equipment includes spare tire, bumpers, etc. Reduced to $150.

MARMON SEDAN. Late model 8. This car is in magnificent condition today. Every feature of the upholstery, finish, tires, and motor will please the most exacting buyer. There is a wealth of extra equipment. Will not remain long at $450.

STUDEBAKER BROUGHAM. 1930 Commander 8 that was only driven a few thousand miles. It's finished a smart Canary yellow with black trimming. It's in such good condition that it carries a new car guarantee. Has wire wheels, trunk, fender wells, and every essential extra. Offered at an exceptional saving.

STEARNS-KNIGHT COACH. This car must be seen to be appreciated. The motor runs smoothly and quietly and the upholstery, tires, and finish are O. K. $95.

CHRYSLER COACH. With many extras. The finish is bright and shiny and the upholstery and tires appear unworn. Motor is okay. Priced at $145 for quick sale.

NASH CONV. COUPE. 1929 series "400" with a spacious rumble seat. This car is in exceptionally fine condition throughout; 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, bumpers, etc.; $495.

WILLYS KNIGHT SEDAN. If you are in the market for a late model you cannot get a better bargain than this car. It's the last word for a beautiful appearance and spirited performance. Attractive finish, expensive upholstery, that looks new. Tires have little mileage. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Special for $545.

ERSKINE SEDAN. 1929, that was oiled and greased every 500 miles, so it's in wonderful shape now. Appearance is very attractive and the equipment includes 4 wheel brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $395.

ESSEX COACH. Late model, with brand new tires, 4 wheel brakes, shutter front, bumpers, etc. The finish, upholstery, and motor are in the original new condition. $345.

THOUSANDS HEAR UNITED STATES MARINE BAND AT TWO PERFORMANCES AT THE CHICAGO STADIUM AND THROUGH AMPLIFIERS ERECTED IN GRANT PARK NEAR BUCKINGHAM FOUNTAIN. Scene in the Chicago Stadium last night when the famous band, known as "The President's Own," was playing. The few empty seats that are shown in one or two sections are those for which reserved seat tickets were issued to those who did not use them. The crowd at the afternoon performance, which was for children, was smaller than the night one, but at least 15,000 persons were present. Other thousands heard the music in Grant park.
